WEATHER COOL FOR GOOD GROWING

Warmer Weather Is Needed for Benefit of Crops, Though Rains Have Helped Out Some

CORN SUFFERS FROM LATE FROSTS.

Fruits Do Well and Yield Is Large and Lucious-Notes on Week's Happenings in County

Reports received this week from correspondents show more clearly the effects of the frosts which occurred on the 1Ith and 12th, and while in many ections the damage to crops proved to be less than than at first appeared, some portions of the State, particularly the Wisconsin valley, suffered severely says the weekly bulletin of the agricultural department. Field crops were totally destroyed only in limited areas where the conditions were especially favorable to frost, but growth was checked and recovery has been slow. The past week has not been favorable for rapid growth on account of the cool weather.although the rains have furnished sufficient moisture for present needs and improved weather is needed, particularly for

Corn: Early plantings in exposed localities were generally seriously in jured by the frosts. and in a few localities totally destroyed. While corn on high ground escaped the frost, the cool weather has retarded growth and the crop as a whole presents a very unpromising appearance at the present time. The rains during the week were very beneficial and with warm weather a large percentage of the crop will recover from the effects of the unfavorable weather. Cultivation proceeded rapidly during the week and the fields are generally free of weeds

Winter Wheat and Rye have undoubtedly suffered some injury by the frosts, but it is not possible at present to estimate the amount of the damage. The growth of straw is heavy and in most sections appears to be heading

Oats, Barley and Spring Wheat: The rains during the week were beneficial to these crops, but the cool weather retarded growth. Spring grains are, however, making satisfactory advancement, and the outlook is promising.

Potatoes: Early plantings were injured in exposed localities by the frosts, and the crop as a whole is rather backward. The soil is generally in good condition, and with warm weather a rapid improvement would result.

Tobacco: The bulk of the crop was transplanted during the week, and the rains, together with the cool, cloudy weather, have been very favorable for the newly set plants. Considerable replanting was necessary on account of Grass and Pastures: Clover is in full bloom and some already harvested. Timothy is rank and heavy. The hay crop will be unusually large.

Fruit: Late strawberries, blackberries and blueberries were injured by the frost in some localities but generally the strawberry crop is large and of good quality. The blight has made its appearance again on apple trees in some calities. Cherries and plums promise fair crops. Cranberries were badly injured in some localities by the frost.

We always recommended Harts' Honey and Horehound to any one suffering with a deep seated cough or cold. Sold by Henry Hinrichs.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

Great Preparations on the Pacific Coast for the Visit of the Veterans This Fall

A great deal of enthusiasm is being evidenced in G. A. R. circles concerning the National Encampment at San Francisco in August, and thousands of veterans who have never visited the coast will take advantage of the low railroad rates to the encampment

The Pacific coast has always been noted for its hospitality and San Francisco is making preparations for this occasion on a glorious sale. The accomodations for guests will be most complete and the railroads have announced low excursion rates to all points in the state to give the veterans a chance to visit the various points of interest.

Little Girl's Tendency to Pilfer Sweets Checked by an Observant Bird.

There is a parrot living on Tomp kins avenue in the vicinity of Gates which should have a place on the detective force, says the Brooklyn Eagle There is a little girl living on Gates evenue, near Tompkins, who has been taught by the said parrot that oldtime saying, "Honesty is the best policy." It happened in this wise: The parrot on these spring days takes an airing on the fire-escape at the back of his home. There is a fire-escape at the back of the little girl's home also and while the two are quite a distance apart, it is not far enough to hinder the parrot from seeing what goes on or to drown the sound of his voice when he shricks at its very top, as he sometimes does. A few days ago this little girl's mother stewed some apricots. When they were done she sat them on the fire-escape to get cool. The little girl came along while they were cooling. Her mother was no where around, and the fruit looked so tempting that she thought she would take "just one." Like Little Jack Horner, she stuck in her thumb and a finger as well, but before she had time to pull out the plum a shrill voice sounded in her ear. "Thief! thief! thief!" was what it said. The child's fondness for apricots disappeared suddenly and the parrot had the satisfaction of knowing that he had interfered

WATER ON RAILWAY TRAINS

Source of Frequent Infection Which Has Escaped the Notice of Sanitarians.

The drinking water furnished by the railways-who knows anything about it? What are the regulations of the different companies as to its purity and the cleansing of the tanks and coolers in railway waiting rooms, cars steamboats, etc.? In the presence of the great fatality of typhoid fever and the recent increase of the disease all over the country the foregoing question seems very apropos. Certainly the transportation companies do not generally furnish their patrons with boiled, filtered or spring water, and by most of our cities, especially Chi cago and Philadelphia, is contaminated and dangerous. One constantly no tices the engineer or fireman drinking from the tank of the tender, and th men who handle the freight trains, the station agents all along the road-is there any attempt, is there any company that makes any serious and thoroughgoing effort to supply these employes with pure water? asks Ameri can Medicine. Whose business is it to see that the railways do their duty in this respect? Can any of our readers tell us what laws have been passed or what regulations of city and state governments, and of boards of health, ex ist concerning this important subject Have we not here a source of frequent infection which has too much escaped the attention of sanitarians?

followed by brook trout in droves, an among them are specimens larger that can be found anywhere else in the northwest, says the New York Sun.

These trout are after the sucke spawn, and leave the upper waters the streams when the spawning of those fish is over. While following the suckers they furnish rare sport to the angler, and catches with five and six pounders among them have been mad By the end of May the trout have re turned to the deep pools and to the S Mary's river, and the large ones wi not rise to the fly again during the sec-son. Now and then a big one will t tempted by an attractive minnow the hook, and a small white troll, with out feathers on it, often proves a good killer to them. The smaller trou however, continue to give excellen sport to the angler all through th

BURDEN OF HINDOO CASTE.

Ceremonial Cleanness of the Peopl Puts Them to Infinite Amount of Trouble.

It must be dreadful, in this day angeneration, to belong to the high caste Hindoo. We suppose in pas-centuries, when the Hindoo wer more or less isolated from the people ceremonial cleanness of the Hindo people could be carried on with les trouble than it could be now, say

Just think of a man keeping hin self ceremonially clean, according the requirements of the Hindoo cast The floor of the room in which foo is served must be washed clean wit a particular Hindoo disinfectant, be fore and after meals, and this mus be done by a Hindoo. If the body c the attendant who brings the foo comes in contact with a person wh is not a Hindoo, or comes in contact with anything cooked by a perso who is not a Hindoo, the food is pu luted, and cannot be eaten by a higcaste Hindoo. If water is used out of a cask or bucket, or any other re ceptable, not only will the water b polluted if touched by a non-Hindoc but if the cask containing the water is touched it will be considered po luted. Any fruit or vegetable, afte it is cut or broken, cannot be touche by any one except a Hindoo, else it i polluted. Cakes or bread cannot b put in a box or bin that was madt. by any one who is not a Hindoo.

The Hindoo cook must take a bat before cooking each meal. He mus cook the meal with nothing on bu his waist cloth. The Hindoo maste must also bathe and clothe himself iclean clothing before he can eve touch his food. He cannot wear an clothing that has been stitched wit a needle, or touched by a non-Hindoo After making himself ceremoniall clean for a meal, if a non-Hindo should touch him by accident, h must go through the bath again, an redress himself with entirely differ ent clothing before he can eat. All the pots and pans and cookin utensils must be ceremonially clear He dare not take a cup of tea. o lemonade, or water from any one wh is not a Hindoo. He may not eve drink at a spring of water until afte he has washed himself.
