

WHIT AND HUSTLE," CLARKE'S WAY TO WIN

Manager of Champions Tells Secret of Success.

WHY HANS WAGNER IS GREAT

Pittsburgh Leader Says His Shortstop Is Best Man Playing the Hit and Run Game in the World.

Hit and hustle. The whole secret of winning is contained in those two words.

Fred Clarke.

assistant captain and manager, and every one who sees a move on the other side instantly coaches the others. That is what I call team work—every one working to win the game every minute and helping the others.

Also a winning team ought to fight for every point; claim it and go after it; not rewardism, but aggressiveness is the point. It makes the other side less confident and helps get an "even break," which is all any team should ask.

BEST BATTERS USE A CHOP

Chance Says the Strongest Batters Do Not Swing Violently at the Ball.

Vicious swinging and over-anxiety to clout the ball for two or more bases are two of the principal reasons why many minor league players do not make good when trying for a berth on a major league team, thinks Manager Chance of the Cubs.

Of the present stars with the stick, Manager Chance thinks that Larry LaJole of Cleveland, is about the prettiest batter of the entire lot.

Manager Chance thinks that if the minor league recruits or all of the minor league players will endeavor to adopt the style of hitting of the big league batters their chances of making good will be increased.

According to his idea, they should avoid the system of bringing their bat away in back of them and then swinging. Instead, keep the bat against their shoulder or in front of them and then chop at the ball in an effort to meet it squarely.

CARDINAL TWIRLER WHO STOPPED THE CHICAGO CUBS

Pitcher Sallee of St. Louis is showing improved form as the season advances and has been a stumbling block to the leaders. It was his curves that stopped Chicago's winning streak.

FANS GLAD RUBE'S ARM WASN'T BROKE

WADDELL HASN'T SEEN LAST DAY ON THE DIAMOND.

SYMPATHIZES WITH RAYMOND

Jackson, Mich., Has Manager Who Is Blind—Bonesetter Reese Retires From Practice—"Mickey" Doolan of Phillies a Jekyll-Hyde.

Everybody was glad when it was found that Rube Waddell's arm was not broken as at first reported, and that the St. Louis star has not seen his last day on the diamond. There is no pitcher the fans would rather see in action than the Rube when he is right. And when he is going at his best there is no twirler the other teams fear more.

Waddell has undergone a wonderful change since the season opened this year, and can no longer be regarded as the most flighty and widely advertised freak in the game.

Rube is still full of fun. One of the Browns was reading a story the other day about how Bugs Raymond, the New York Giants' eccentric pitcher, had kicked over the traces because McGraw had appointed a keeper for him. Rube listened attentively.

"It's a shame that fellow doesn't take care of himself," said Rube feelingly, just as thousands used to make the remark about the only Rube. "He would be a wonder if he would just keep in condition and pay strict attention to business."

Probably the only baseball manager in the world who is literally blind—not as those who have eyes see not, but absolutely sightless—is Bert Taylor, manager of the Jackson Stars of Jackson, Mich. This blind manager handles his team from the bench. His men swear by him and do better work before his sightless eyes than when working under the supervision of a man who can watch the plays. But Taylor does watch the plays. He sits on the bench with his men and knows just what plays are made. He knows at all times the record of balls and strikes on the batter and never fails to recognize a foul. With almost uncanny intuition he can tell, possibly from the sound of the ball against the bat, the field to which the ball has been batted. He argues a point with the umpire just as earnestly as though he had seen the entire play, and his howl of protest against a decision is just as vigorous as any fan could desire. His team won the City league pennant in 1908 and this year has won 22 games out of a total of 25.

Fred Tenney has been called a "fixer" easily at Boston and he is in no hurry to work it, although if the right thing came along he would not hesitate a second. "I do not feel as if my major league days are over," he says. "I feel as good as I ever did in my life, and I was never more surprised in my life than when I was handed my clogs by Mr. McGraw. I have received several offers to get back in the game and some of them appeal to me decidedly, but I prefer to stay in major league company a while yet and am confident I could help more than one club for a few seasons. Had McGraw let me go at the outset, there is no question at all that I could have made a most desirable connection. However, I am not worrying. I feel sure that had President Brush been in first-class health and on the scene, I would not have been dropped."

Bonesetter John D. Reese of Youngstown, O., famed the world over as a "fixer" of ball players, has rendered his last service to diamond athletes, according to his own announcement. He does not give any reason, but it is believed that his poor health of the past several months compelled him to make this decision. Tommy Leach of the Pirates, who was recently injured, was notified that the bonesetter could not render him the service required, as was also Tim Jordan, the former Brooklyn first baseman, now with Toronto.

"Mickey" Doolan of the Phillies, tough of name, walk and actions, is a Jekyll and Hyde—a leader of double lives. Mickey Doolan is only a baseball alias, assumed to make him popular with the Irish rooters, and the fierce swagger, unshaven chops and uncouth behavior, strongly reminiscent of the sand lott, are all a well-studied fake. In private life the fierce fellow is Mr. M. J. Doolittle, college graduate, polished gentleman and alas! not even an Irishman.

In a fanning lee the other night in Boston the subject of third basemen and first-sackers came up. Jack O'Connor of the St. Louis club, with Lou Criger, Bobby Wallace and Hemp Hill were grouped. It was the consensus of opinion that Jimmy Collins, now manager of the Providence club, and the old Boston third-sacker, was the best in the business.

Larry McLean keeps poking out safe hits for the Reds. He is again leading Bescher in the race for the team batting championship. Larry has a better eye this year than ever before. His hits have the right ring and generally come at the right time.

Pitcher Duggan was shipped by Indianapolis to Ed Ashenback's team in the New York league. It is said that Carr still has a string on him.

IN A SERIOUS CONDITION.

A Case of Terrible Kidney Trouble.

Henry Palmer, Cole and Walnut Sts., Barnesville, O., says: "My kidney trouble was caused by hardships and exposure in the army. The awful pains across my back gradually became more severe until I was in constant misery. My feet and hands were swollen to twice their natural size. The kidney secretions were in a terrible condition—for months I voided what seemed to be clear blood. I became so dizzy everything seemed to whirl. My condition was alarming when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Before long I improved and was soon strong and well."

RECOGNIZES A GOOD WORK

Ex-President Roosevelt Pays Enthusiastic Tribute to Mission Hospitals.

In Uganda, Mr. Roosevelt responded to an invitation to open a new addition to the Mengo C. M. S. hospital. Mr. Roosevelt said: "Long before I came here I had known of the work that was being done in Uganda, and felt particularly anxious to see it. Here you have a peculiarly intelligent native race, which has already developed a very interesting culture of its own, a culture both political and social. And the great work must of necessity be to try to help that race onward, and to try to do it in a practical fashion, and to do it so that the doing of it shall be primarily a benefit to the race, and secondly, a benefit to your own people from whom you come.

"I have the strongest feeling as to the good that is being done by the medical missionary. There must be some visible fruit in the life and work of the man who preaches if his preaching is going to have a very great effect upon those to whom he preaches. That visible fruit can be shown in many different ways, and one of the most efficient ways of showing it is by just such work as is being done in connection with this building, which it will naturally be a source of peculiar pride to myself to have my name associated with, and which I now take pleasure in declaring to be open."

A Tart Tongue. Col. Robert C. Carter, at a Nashville banquet, was talking about campaign comrades.

"Then there was Dash of Company A," he said. "Dash had the reputation of being the nastiest-tongued man in the regiment.

"It was Private Dash, you know, who, out foraging one evening on a rich estate, came accidentally upon the owner's wife, a grand dame in evening dress.

"Dash asked her for food. She refused him. He asked again. But, still refusing, she walked away.

"No," she said, "I'll give you nothing, trespassing like this! I'll give you nothing. My mind is made up."

"Made up, is it?" said Dash. "Like the rest of you, eh?"

An Almost Universal Prayer. "Among the late Bishop Foss' anecdotes about prayer," said a Philadelphia Methodist, "there was one concerning a very original Norristown preacher.

"This preacher, in the course of a long prayer one Sunday night, recounted the many misfortunes and evils that had befallen him in the course of his long life. Then, sighing heavily, he prayed:

"'Thou hast tried me with affliction, with bereavement, and with sorrow of many kinds. If thou art obliged to try me again, Lord, try me with the burden of wealth.'"

Paired. She was an amiable old lady, and volunteered much information to the fair stranger who had come down to see an important event in the country town—the laying of the foundation stone of the new church.

"Yes," prattled the old lady, "that is the duke and duchess, and the couple behind them are the mayor and mayoress; and those two to the right are the vicar and—er—vixen."—Ideas.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is inside in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. Constipation is the most unclean uncleanness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Peppermint Cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.
