

CALOMEL SICKENS! IT SALIVATES! DON'T STAY BILIOUS, CONSTIPATED

I Guarantee "Dodson's Liver Tone" Will Give You the Best Liver and Bowel Cleansing You Ever Had—Don't Lose a Day's Work!

Calomel makes you sick; you lose a day's work. Calomel is quicksilver and it salivates; calomel injures your liver.

If you are bilious, feel lazy, sluggish and all knocked out, if your bowels are constipated and your head aches or stomach is sour, just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone instead of using sickening, salivating calomel. Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working. You'll be cheerful; full of vigor and ambition.

Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal guarantee that it will clean your sluggish liver better than nasty calomel; it won't make you sick and you can eat anything you want without being salivated. Your druggist guarantees that each spoonful will start your liver, clean your bowels and straighten you up by morning or you can have your money back. Children gladly take Dodson's Liver Tone because it is pleasant tasting and doesn't gripe or cramp or make them sick.

I am selling millions of bottles of Dodson's Liver Tone to people who have found that this pleasant, vegetable, liver medicine takes the place of dangerous calomel. Buy one bottle on my sound, reliable guarantee. Ask your druggist or storekeeper about me. Adv.

PORPOISE FISHERY IS OLD

One of Least Known Industries Has Been in Existence at Cape Hatteras for 200 Years.

One of the oldest and least-known industries in America is the porpoise fishery which has been operated from Cape Hatteras in North Carolina for about 200 years. It should attain an unusual prosperity in the next few years, for the bureau of fisheries is urging more general use of porpoise hides in place of cowhides. It is an excellent leather, and could undoubtedly be used more widely.

Heretofore the most valuable product of the fishery has been the oil which is extracted from the jaws of the porpoise, and is worth about $20 a gallon. It is universally used for lubricating watches and other very delicate mechanisms. The body blubber is also valuable. Attempts to manufacture fertilizer out of the carcasses have failed because of the distance from a fuel supply.

The porpoise are taken at Hatteras in seines, operated from the shore, and it is probably the only place in America where this has ever been done successfully. During the fall, winter and spring many porpoises are seen off the South Atlantic coast, and at Hatteras they come within a few hundred yards of the surf. They are taken by spreading seines about 200 yards outside the surf lines. As soon as the porpoises have come inside the seines, they are dragged ashore. Often a whole school of these sea creatures is taken in a single haul.

War in Europe Finds an Echo on the Bowery

NEW YORK.—The war is on every lip. Whether it is a Fifth avenue drawing room or a Bowery saloon, its occupants invariably turn to the world conflict as a favorable topic of discussion, and frequently the argument waxed hot and vehement.

Michael Gianski, twenty, a laborer, of 340 Bowery; Nicholas Romanoff, twenty-two, of 223 Bowery, and John Schultz, twenty-two, of the same address, met in a Bowery saloon. Although of different nationalities they had been friends for a long time. When drinks were ordered and served and glasses clinked Gianski turned to the Russian and said:

"A man with the name of Romanoff should not drink with one by the name of Schultz, especially at this time."

Then a discussion of the war started, and in less time than it takes to tell the interior of that saloon resembled a bombed section of Reims. The combatants went to it with the ferocity of tigers, and every man in the place was taking either a healthy wallop or a vicious kick at everybody else. All were impartial in the delivery of their blows. It was a case of whenever a head bobbed up to knock it down.

In the heat of battle Gianski cried out that he had been stabbed. Schultz and Romanoff dove for the door, but were stopped by other combatants. An automobile filled with secret service men was passing and hearing the uproar in the saloon they stopped. They arrested Schultz and Romanoff and sent in a call for an ambulance.

Then they piled their prisoners in the car and started for police headquarters. Patrolman Bowers of the Fifth street station, who had just heard of the fight, ran up and, thinking the two combatants were being spirited away by friends, leaped on the running board of the car and with pistol drawn ordered the chauffeur to stop. Explanations followed and all went to the police station. Gianski will recover. The two prisoners were charged with felonious assault and held in $1,500 bail each.

Up-to-Date Settlement of Matrimonial Tangles

HAVRE, MONT.—When a man falls in love with another man's wife, usually there's a shooting affray, remarks the Detroit Free Press. And, again, when a woman gets to liking another woman's husband better than her own there's the denice to pay. But not so here!

When Mrs. T. W. Turcotte, wife of a prominent Havre lawyer, felt she loved the husband of Mrs. Henry Jordan better than her own mate she didn't hide the matter.

Nor did Mrs. Henry Jordan when she fell in love with Mr. Turcotte.

Nor did Mr. Jordan when he became fonder of Mrs. Turcotte than of his own wife.

Their way out of an unusual love tangle was to trade wives and husbands. Mrs. Jordan agreed to swap her husband to Mrs. Turcotte in exchange for Mr. Turcotte with nothing to boot. The husbands were willing enough to be traded. In fact, they were well along on a plan to trade wives with each other.

So, instead of any killing or unwritten-law defenses or suits for alienation of affection, there evolved two unique matrimonial trades. The Jordans and Turcottes agreed to get divorces. Divorce decrees were granted them at Boulder Hot Springs.

Then the former Mrs. Jordan became the new Mrs. Turcotte, and the former Mrs. Turcotte became the new Mrs. Jordan.

The two couples stood up together at the ceremony, and the friendliest relations exist between them. Now they are living again as neighbors in all good fellowship.

Before the divorces the Jordans and Turcottes were next door neighbors. It was then the husbands and their wives concluded they were wrongly mated and decided to back out of their matrimonial alliances and start anew.

Both couples had children, each a boy and girl. After the matrimonial swap one couple took the two boys and the other took the two girls. This gives each father and mother one own child and a stepchild.

Not Like Home.

The bright boy in khaki was dilating on the woes of army life.

"Yes," he said to his old mother, "we don't get much in the way of fancy foods, or anything like that. Our camp cook's all right on stews and soup, but he can't go beyond them. The other day you know, when I went back, I took a cucumber with me that I was going to share with one or two of the boys. I gave it to the cook and asked him to get it ready for us, and what d'you think he did with it? Put it in the oven and baked it."

"Oh, poor boy!" said the fond mother. "A pity I couldn't have been there to look after you. I'd have boiled it lovely for you!"

An Illuminating Postcard.

A young girl of plebeian ancestry achieved fame as an actress in London. Feeling the necessity, however, of a rest from her labors, she wrote to her uncle, a police sergeant of a country village, asking him if she might come and stay with him to recuperate. She ended her note: "Please send a P. C. to say if I may come."

A few days later her landlady rushed upstairs with an awestricken countenance—a policeman wanted her! The girl descended with an ominous feeling at her heart, says London Tit-Bits. "If you please, miss," said the stolid being who confronted her, eyeing her with stern disapproval, "I'm the P. C. what you asked your uncle to send, but I may as well tell you straight away as I'm a respectable married man. Your uncle's prepared to take you in if you're willing to make yourself useful—feed the pig, clean his office, and the two clogs."

Jones was always complaining of his wife's memory.

"She can never remember anything," said he. "It's awful!"

"My wife was just as bad," said Brown, "till I found out a capital recipe."

"What is it?" asked Jones, eagerly. "Why," said Brown, "whenever there's anything particular I want the missus to remember I write it on a slip of paper and gum it on the looking glass."

Jones is now a contented man.

Bernard was present at a dinner party, in which some of the guests brought their children. One little girl wanted to play with Bernard's toys, but he was selfish and wouldn't let her.

"Now, Bernard," said mother, "you must be a little gentleman."

"Yes," said he, "but she must be a lady."

Beer Mask Proved Antidote for Ammonia Fumes

DETROIT.—"The Germans have taken Bates street and have pushed as far east as headquarters. They are gassing the Gold Dollar bar and the chop suey joint." The ice man thus reported a sad incident Monday afternoon at police headquarters. Over in the alley that runs west from Farmer street, between Monroe avenue and Bates street, a battle continued with unabated fury, as the war offices say.

Somewhere down in the depth of the chop suey emporium an ammonia pipe on the refrigerating plant had sprung a leak. An ice wagon horse, left to an unkind fate, sneezed until his cheekreins broke. His mate's eyes flowed until little puddles bathed his hoofs. The heartless driver poured copious tears into a tall shell in the adjoining saloon. Except for the weeping horses the alley was empty for over an hour. Inspector James Sprout volunteered to cross the street and direct the operations of relief, but one whiff from the alley sent him back to the highest step of the headquarters grand stairway.

By four o'clock the leak had reached such proportions that several passing Harper and Fourteenth cars were seen to shake as with a fit. But one of these shuddering vehicles brought the man who solved the problem. He was a negro who used to work in an ammonia factory in Cincinnati. Entering the bar he ordered a burlap sack soaked with beer. Wrapping the dripping sack around his face "Ammonia Bill" went into the cellar.

"Send down another sack, 'n soak it well," he called up in about five minutes. The sack went down and the first one came up—dry as flint. Half a dozen times the beer-dripping bags went down and came up dry. By that time the fumes had disappeared. The proprietor of the cafe invited the ammonia plumber to have a couple without having to wring them out, and traffic was resumed.

Food Conservation Vitality Interests the Movies

CHICAGO.—Now it is proposed to Hooverize the drama. Thomas H. Ince, member of the food commission of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, in a telegram to Chuck Czar Hoover recommends the elimination during the war of scenes in motion pictures and plays calling for the use of food. He estimates the food wasted in such scenes amounts annually to several hundred thousand dollars.

It's a blow to art, no doubt of that. What will the comedians do without custard pies to throw? Picture the desolation of Fatty Arbuckle when he is told that he mustn't peel potatoes with an electric fan. How will Charlie Chaplin exist without hurling a cream puff into the face of a policeman every morning? And then, too, what about the more or less legitimate drama? Really there will be no use for the pestered heroine to put on her black shawl and, sniffling into her soggy handkerchief, go out into the bitter night where the property snow is falling, unless she can leave a roast turkey on the dining-room table with a lot of wolves around it about to pounce on the bird.

What will be done about the banquet scene in "Macbeth"? Must Gobbo give up his apple? Shall Jack Falstaff drink his cup of slack without a toast in't? Shall the good knight's boon companions, Nym, Bardolph and Pistol, lusty trenchermen all, go unlined with capon? Why, this Hoover person might even bar chickens from the musical shows!

Cutting Down Gossip.

"How do you suppose some people spent their spare time before motion pictures were invented?"

"I don't like to appear unkind to those persons, but before they started to spending practically all of their leisure moments in photoplay houses they knew a great deal more about their neighbors' private affairs than they do now."
