THE BEIDGE GAVE WAY.

When the party approached the bridge on their descent, the driver checked up his horses and drove very clowly at the same time applying the breaks. Finally the vehicle reached the bridge, which began to reak noticeably as soon as the horses stepped upon it. This somewhat alarmed the party, but as soon as the vehicle rolled upon the structure there was a perceptible shaking, followed by a crash. In a moment the artidge had given away on the right, throwing Mrs. Myers out, violently to the bottom of the ravifle, twenty feet below.

At that moment the driver forced his horses off the bridge, but saw at a glance

At that moment the driver forced his horses off the bridge, but saw at a glance that they could not pull the vehicle out from the position in which it was wedged. Little Willie Trieg had fallen out in the creek, and little Barbara Trigg, who is only five years of age, was cinging to the side of the vehicle, and hanging over the precipice, crying to her mother to help her. Brave little creature that she was, she held on while swinging over the abyss and maintained her grip during the excitement, while the horses were plunging fod trying to some back upon the bridge. Little Bertle Trieg had fallen out of the vehicle, and was in a most precarious position.

A THRILLING MOMENT.

A THRILLING MOMINT.

The driver, seeing the extreme danger and realizing the horrible results that would necessarily fellow if the bridge collapsed entirely, with Mrs. Myers lying unconscious on the re-ks unismeath, and little Willie Trigg, in the creek bellow, sereamed to Mrs. Trigg, and the other ladies in the vehicle, to scramble out as best they could, and get those underneath the bridge cut of the way. He himself, was nelpless to come to their aid. If he loosened his reins for a moment the horses would step back on the structure, and with the additional weight, the bridge would be obliged to fall. There was not a moment to lose, and yet he could not leave his post.

taking, for twenty seconds' delay would have meant death to the whole party. Scarcely had the ladies succeeded in getting Mrs. Myers out of the way before there was a deafening crash, followed by a heavy settling sound, and then two horses badly maimed were struggling to get out of the debris. The driver had kept the horses off the bridge as long as possible. He stuck to his post like a hero, and amid all the danger, he would not leap for life until the crisis was over.

Then it was that all efforts to force the way to keep them from stepping back way to keep them from stepping back upon the bridge. The deafening crash the struggle of the injured horses to extricate themselves from their pitiable situation, the realization of the terrible position from which the party had barely escaped with their lives, the sight of blood upon Mrs. Myers' face and hands resulting from her fall, all combined to make the situation peculiarly hands resulting from her fail, all com-bined to make the situation peculiarly trying upon the ladies' nerves. The shock was terrible. They stood it as best they could, however, and at once turned to the relief of Mrs. Myers, doing what little they could under the circum-stances to revive her.

THE INJURED ONES.

Mrs. Myers was with some difficulty brought back to consciousness. She was very painfully cut and bruised about the face and arms, but it was after-wards learned that no bones were croken and there were no internal injuries. Lit-tle Willie Trigg was badly bruised and skinned about the head and hands, but otherwise escaped injury. The other members of the party received slight scratches and very severe nervous shocks. The injured were carried to the hotel, and medical aid summoned at once. They secured in addition to the ervices of a physician and a trained nurse surgical aid from Pittsfield, Mass. Upun examination it was found that Mrs. Myers' innation it was found that Mrs. Myers' in-juries were painful, but not necessarily serious. She and Master Willie Trigg are doing very well now, and the other ladies have recovered from the severe shock, so that there is no occasion for alarm on the part of their many friends here.

HAD BEEN CONDEMNED.

The bridge which collapsed had been condemned. Several complaints had been made to the authorities about the langerous condition of the structure, it was very rickety, and the timber out It was very rickety, and the timber out of which it was made had rotted nearly through. Some workmen had recently put some additional boards on top, which did not at all strengthen the bridge, but, on the contrary, added more weight to it. Despite the complaints, however, the old death-trap had been allowed to remate.

The accident was thought to have been The accident was thought to have been one of the most remarkable that ever occured in that part of the country. Persons at Williamstown, who learned the particulars, wendered at the presence of mind and determination of the ladies who acted with so much judgment and coolness at the critically perilous moment. That the whole party were not killed was one of those miraculous things that appeared to border upon the providential.

One of the horses was so badly injured that it died shortly after the accident, while the vehicle was reduced to kind-line-wood. The thoughtfulness of the driver in looking out for the safety of those under his care was warmly applauded by the ladies in the party and their friends.

at the corner of Thirty-second and Broad streets.

The blaze proved to be in house No. 2011 east Main street, or what is known as the extension of Main. It is helox and beyond Chimborazo Park, and owing to its inaccossibility. It was some time before the fire department could bring the hose to play apon the house, which was a frame structure and unor-supled.

Next to this building, which was completely destroyed, were two other frame houses, occupied by Mr. J. W. Schemmell and Mr. A. R. Buffin. The formet's house was gruted, while the building in which Mr. Buffin lived was badily damaged about the roof. The fire originated in the unoccupied house, and was first discovered by a box named Earl Wilkinson, who gave the alarty. Messrs, Schemmell and Buffan, who are married men, and both of whom had retired, succeeded in getting their furniture out before it was damaged. Each have $50 insurance on their houses, while Mr. Buffin had an additional $80 on his furniture. He is a contractor, and built the houses, Mr. Schemmell is an employe of the Southern Railway Congiany. The noise which was destroyed was for rent, its agent hear the property of the Southern He Lackson Brandt.

of the charges against Phil Rearney Post, of this city.

It will be remembered by readers of The Times that Commander Watrous, of Wisconsin G. A. R. in a speech made the charge that Phil Kearney Post, G. A. R., of this city, had appropriated to a fund for the erection of a memorial hall here about $10,000 sent here by the Northern posts, for the purpose of decorating the graves of Union soldiers buried in and around Richmond. This charge created a storm of indignation in the ranks of Phil Kearney Post, and the members of that organization demanded an investigation, which was held by a committee appointed for that purpose, and resulted in a vindication of Phil Kearney Post.

COURT MAY ACT TO-DAY.

THE SUPREME COURT IS EXPECTED TO GIVE A DECISION

In the Case of the Lunenburg Women. Captain Wise Sees the Governor-Captain Cunningham's Telegram.

Surday alternoon Captain A. B. Gulgon went to Staurton for the purpose of laying before the Supreme Court the petition for a writ of error in the cases of the Lunenburg women, which was refused by Judge Samuel F. Coleman at Amelia Courthouse on Thursday last. Yesterday afternoon Captain Wise received the following telegram from Captain Guigon: "Court has adjourned. Promises insmediate and continuous attention. Decision probable to-morrow morning. I await it."

sion probable to-morrow morning. I await it."

A special to The Times from Staunton last night says:
Captain A. B. Guigon placed in the hands of Judge Keith, president of the Supreme Court of Appeals, early this morning the application for a writ of error in the case of the Lunenburg negroes, Pokey Barnes, and Mary Abernathy. It is expected the court will render its opinion early during the morning session to-morrow. As the unfortunate women were without counsel in the lower court there are no rulings or points of exception upon which the court can hang an opinion. It wild seem to be a case calling for action purely and simply as a failure to give a full and fair trial to the end that justice shall be meted out. It is the general opinion here, that if the court fails to find grounds for action that the Governor should act promptly in the exercise of his constitutional power.

SAW THE GOVERNOR.

SAW THE GOVERNOR. Captain Wise called upon the Governor yesterday and had a lengthy interview with him. He requested the Governor to examine the Lunenburg case critically, examine the Lunenburg case critically, and to refresh his mind upon its various points, in order that he might act speedily, in case a refusal of the Supreme Court to grant a writ of error should necessi-When Governor O'Ferrall was seen law.

When Governor O'Ferrall was seen by evening he said that he had nothing at present to say about the case; taat there was nothing before him to act upon, and until there was, nothing could be said. It is thought, however, that should the women succeed in securing a new trial the Governor will grant Marable a respite as he was the only witness against them, and his testimony will be necessary to their trial.

Captain Wise has little doubt that a writ of error will be granted by the Supreme Court, and his visit to the Governor was purely a precautionary measure, as
