

TO EXPERIMENT WITH OIL FOR SPRINKLING.

Citizens in Orange will Test the Value of that Material for Laying the Dust.

Provided the necessary consents can be obtained, the Civic Sanitation Association will soon make an experiment in the use of oil for sprinkling the streets. At a meeting of the association yesterday morning in the Charities building, 6 Essex avenue, Orange, Mrs. Bertha Day was appointed a committee to co-operate with George J. Bayles and William D. Crumble in this work.

The association wishes to select a street in the centre of the city where the people will have more of an opportunity to determine the value of the experiment than is the case at the hospital. For this reason a street on which there is considerable travel will be chosen provided the consent of the municipal authorities and the property owners can be obtained. The oil that is used does not injure rubber tires or varnish, because the elements which affect these have been refined out of it. A lighted match can be thrown into the oil without danger.

PRESIDENT'S SUMMER HOME.

Oyster Bay Residents Will Celebrate His Arrival.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 9.—The board of trade is making arrangements for a reception to President Roosevelt on a grand scale when he comes to his summer home. The main feature will be the singing of patriotic songs by school children.

About 100 business men and summer residents here are members of the board. Sheriff Johnson of Nassau county has obtained from the navy department an old cannon that was used in the civil war. This is to be mounted in front of the town clerk's office, and it may be unveiled at the time of the reception.

Near the end of the month there will be a three days' celebration of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the settlement of the village of Oyster Bay.

Canadian Crops Have Suffered.

Montreal, June 9.—Crop reports throughout the Dominion indicate record crops in half the area; average crops in about one-third the area and poor crops in one-tenth of the whole. The Montreal district suffers most. Rain is now falling in many districts. The early season is the redeeming feature in places where crops are backward. Favorable weather would now undo much of the damage even in the worst districts.

LANDS RECLAIMED.

Situation at Kansas City Is Improving Fast.

RAILROADS AND FACTORIES RESUME

Condition Still Bad, but Much Work Is Now Being Pushed, and All Laborers Obtainable Are Put to Work.

KANSAS CITY, June 9.—All the laborers obtainable were put at work in the region lately submerged. The railroads have reclaimed only a small part of their yards. Water was shut off from the city owing to accidents to the pumps, but the aqueduct bridge across the Kansas river will be completed today, when there will be an abundant supply of pure water.

The Western Union has stretched a cable across the Kansas river, thus closing an important gap in telegraphic communication. The Missouri Pacific has begun to repair the Kansas river bridge, and trains will cross late this week.

Many factories have resumed work, and others will soon start. The Armour Packing house was unable to begin killing, repairs being still incomplete.

The Santa Fe, Frisco, Missouri, Kansas and Texas and Rock Island roads are using the Union depot. The Rock Island is operating to Chicago by way of boat to Kansas City, Kan., and the Missouri Pacific to St. Joseph. The Alton's route to Chicago is over the Missouri Pacific tracks to St. Louis. The St. Joseph and Grand Island, Union Pacific, Chicago Great Western, Burlington and Milwaukee lines are operating by boat to Randolph and thence north by railroad. The Wabash lines are not operating out of Kansas City.

THE ST. LOUIS FLOOD.

East St. Louis Is in Great Peril—Protected by Sand Bags.

ST. LOUIS, June 9.—The flood has claimed everything on the east side of the Mississippi here except East St. Louis. Only a few inches more of water and the flood would top the row of sand bags, plastered with mud, that now stand the sole barrier that protects the city from ruin. The water stands several feet higher than any of the streets in the business part of the town.

Several hundred refugees were brought to St. Louis on flat cars across the Merchants' bridge. Several hundred more were rescued from house tops and carried to places of safety in Granite City.

Opposite Carondelet and lower down the river has spread many miles over the lowlands. In the vicinity of Cape Girardeau it is forty miles wide.

Late reports say that so great an extent of territory is covered by the flood, so constantly changing are the conditions as the water creeps higher and renders the situation the more chaotic and unreliable, that statistics of the devastation and loss of life and property cannot be obtained. It is certain, however, that over 200,000 acres of rich farming lands are under water.

All of Venice and the greater part of Madison and Granite City are under water.

Twenty-five thousand people are rendered homeless. Freight traffic is completely paralyzed and passenger traffic practically so.

The shipping and manufacturing district of East St. Louis for three miles along the river front is under from two to eight feet of water.

Hundreds and probably thousands of head of stock have been drowned.

East St. Louis is threatened with complete inundation. St. Louis is flooded only along the water front.

The entire property loss is estimated at $3,000,000.

FIGUIG BOMBARDED.

French Artillery Punish Rebel Zenaga Tribesmen.

NATIVE MOSQUE WAS DESTROYED.

Moorish Guns Were Not Effective. Melinite Shells Demolished Many Buildings—Women and Children Were Protected.

BENI-OUNIF, Algeria, June 9.—The French artillery opened a preliminary fire at 5:30 o'clock in the morning on Figui, the stronghold of the rebellious Zenaga tribesmen who recently attacked and tried to ambush Governor General Jonnag and his escort, of whom thirteen were seriously injured.

The actual bombardment began at 7:30 o'clock and lasted until 11 a. m., when a great destruction of houses had been wrought, the mosque destroyed and, it is believed, a great number of natives killed.

General O'Connor commands the punitive expedition, consisting of 4,000 men of the foreign legion and a strong force of artillery armed with guns firing melinite shells. General O'Connor's plan was to advance on Figui in three columns and post his artillery on commanding hills surrounding the rebels' stronghold.

The French troops occupied Julve hill and another eminence, both strategic positions, by a surprise movement. The ramparts of the town were then 1,200 meters distant and, like the houses which were half a mile behind them, were built of compressed earth.

From these hills the artillery made excellent practice, the melinite shells making a big breach in the ramparts and destroying a multitude of houses the inhabitants of which had fled at the first shots. Finally the fire was concentrated on the mosque, which was much venerated, and the edifice was blown to pieces.

The destruction of the mosque is expected to have a great moral effect.

The Moors concealed in the palm groves repelled with artillery to the French bombardment, but without effect. The French guns were then withdrawn to Djennanned-dar, where General O'Connor is awaiting offers of submission.

All the women and children left the town before the action. The French fired a few shells at distant parts of the oasis in order to impress the Moors with the power and range of the French guns. Throughout the engagement there was no loss on the French side.

The French artillery fired 600 shells at the town. The Spahis (native cavalry), the Chasseurs d'Afrique and the troops of the foreign legion were posted during the bombardment at points surrounding the town, but the infantry did not fire a single shot.

At half past 3 an envoy from the ameer of Figui arrived at this place.

General O'Connor has received congratulations from the commander of the Nineteenth army corps on the skill with which he conducted the operations. The French troops have returned to their encampment. No decision has been taken regarding future operations. It is possible if the Figui tribesmen do not come to terms other villages in the oasis will be bombarded. General O'Connor has issued a general order congratulating the troops on the manner in which they acquitted themselves.

On the following day a dinner will be given in honor of Mr. McKim at the Royal Institute of British Architects, the invited guests including Ambassador Choate.
