

HURT AS AUTO TURNS TURTLE

Man Badly Injured When Auto Turns Over at Rossville.

By Special Correspondent.
TOTTENVILLE, June 30.—Frederick Klepper, thirty-four years old, of 126 South Sixth street, Newark, is at the Staten Island hospital with a fractured skull, as the result of automobile in which he was riding, turning over in Arthur Kill road between Rossville and Krescherville, at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Klepper was riding with William Boyer, of 126 Eighteenth street, Newark, with Boyer at the wheel, when the machine skidded in front of 2,542 Arthur Kill road, struck a telephone pole and turned over.

Tottenville Police Are Taking Census of Autos

By Special Correspondent.
TOTTENVILLE, June 30.—Police attached to the 69th precinct, Tottenville, under Acting Captain John J. Turley are taking a complete census of every owner, chauffeur and operator of a motor vehicle within the entire precinct so that the department can have a record under the latest legislature requiring every one operating a car within the city of New York to take an examination and read test. It is believed that a number of people are driving cars today who have not secured license required by law, where each member of a family driving other than the owner must have a license to drive a car.

Princesses of Picardy.

Nature in her own way is looking after the solitary war graves scattered throughout the shell-shattered Picardy countryside, according to a writer in the London Daily Chronicle. Those that lie in the three-fought-over ground between Albert and Comblis are covered with early spring primroses. In Liermont the daffodils are blooming, and the brambles on the graves in Bernafay wood are green with new leaves. The lonely warriors are to be gathered together in the central cemeteries under the care of the Imperial war graves commission. The French government, in compliance to the British soldier, has purchased the necessary land, and has presented it for all time to England.

DRESSMAKER SAVED FROM OPERATION

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in Time.

Ithaca, N.Y.—"Three years ago I suffered from pains in my right side, so severe that I could not raise my feet from the floor. Pains would shoot down my limbs and through my back, and the doctor said I had an abscess. I was in bed two weeks with an icebag on my side and expected any day that I might have to go to a hospital for an operation. A friend came to see me and told me of your wonderful medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it, and after taking six bottles I feel well and strong, do my own work and dressmaking for others. I cannot speak too highly of your medicine and recommend it to others who suffer with female trouble. It is a Godsend to ailing women, and you may use my name at any time."—Mrs. FEMMA HULSHIZEN, 215 E. Fall St., Ithaca, N.Y.

Women who suffer from any such ailments should not fail to try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Charleston Postal Station Opens Again Tomorrow

By Special Correspondent.
TOTTENVILLE, June 30.—After being closed since June 16, when the rural mail was extended to that section of the island, the Charleston postal station at Krescherville will again be opened tomorrow and the same system will be established as heretofore. When notice of the rural delivery being put into operation at that place was received about the first of June, residents of Krescherville circulated a petition which was sent to Congressman Riordan to have him present it to the postmaster general at Washington demanding the return of the postal system again. The petition contained 400 names. Postmaster Driscoll notified Superintendent Peter Hanson, of the Charleston station, and Albert Killmeyer, who was one of the leaders in the petition, on Saturday that the postal station would again be put in operation tomorrow morning with two mails arriving and two mails departing as before. The residents of Krescherville claimed in their petition that they can be better served with their mails arriving at the postal station than having it come once a day by rural carrier from the Prince Bay station at Pleasant Plains. The free delivery service will be inaugurated in Tottenville tomorrow when two carriers will be put on to serve the people here where that service will be put in operation.

PAID WHILE THEY LEARN

Returned Soldiers Are Instructed in the Art and Practice of Mining Lead-Zinc Ore—Teacher Is Lieutenant.

Moscow, Idaho.—A schoolroom 1,400 feet underground in the Morning mine at Mullan, Idaho, in which returned soldiers are being taught the art and practice of mining lead-zinc ore, is one of the latest educational innovations of the University of Idaho. This work, which has been inaugurated by the school of mines of the university, is, so far as is known, the first attempt to apply to actual underground mining work the new system of vocational education provided for by the Smith-Hughes act, and the experiment is being watched with interest by miners and mine operators alike throughout the Western states.

The schoolroom is far under ground and it is devoid of blackboards, books and benches. Pupils and teacher alike are dressed in overalls and mining boots, and the school equipment consists of rock drills, driven by compressed air or "machines," as they are generally termed in mining parlance; steel or drill bits for these machines, picks, shovels, timber, dynamite, caps, fuses and all the other paraphernalia of those who go down to the mine in skips.

Teacher is Lieutenant.

The teacher is Lieut. Frank H. Skeels of the United States army engineers, recently released from service for this work. Before going into the army Lieut. Skeels had been a mine manager and mine superintendent, to which position he had risen after spending his life since boyhood in and about the mines of the Coeur d'Alene district.

Admission to the school is obtained by application to the federal employment agent at Wallace, and preference is given to returned soldiers who are young enough and bright enough to be teachers.

The work in hand is what is known as drifting—that is, driving a horizontal gallery or working lengthwise of the vein. The pupils operate the rock drills in turn, studying the number of holes necessary to break out the predetermined section of rock, the angles at which they must be driven to make the greatest progress with the least amount of drilling and the smallest possible supply of dynamite. In addition, the placement of timber to support a weak wall and all the various kinks of the underground trade are taught by making the student do them in actual, workmanlike fashion to pass the scrutiny of a domestic mine foreman and a lynx-eyed safety engineer.

Paid While Learning.

There is the more prosaic work of "mucking" or shoveling, and also of tramping the broken ore or waste to the shaft or dumping place. The young fellows who attend the school receive fair compensation for their time, as the school is carrying on drift work by contract, and payment for explosives and other supplies is divided pro rata among the men, the salary of the instructor being paid jointly by the state of Idaho and the federal government.

While at the present time there is a school in one mine only, it is expected that within the next month or two schools will be organized at each of the other four or five big properties in the Coeur d'Alene district.

"Like every other novel enterprise the school has had to overcome a good deal of skepticism and passive opposition on the part of some of those who should be most concerned in its establishment, but this is gradually fading out as the practicality of the scheme is being demonstrated," Dean V. A. Thomson of the University School of Mines said.

Applications for enrollment far exceed the present capacity of the school.

He Was Supplied.

Billy had just been going to school a short time, but considered himself wise in the ways of schoolboys. One day while playing with his younger brother he said, "Jeen, when you start to school you want to pick out a girl. I've got me one."

Life a Constant Battle.

Soapy Pear.

Little Jeanne was tremendously interested in the patriotic songs she heard at the community singing to which her mother had taken her.

A few evenings later she was playing close by as her mother practiced at the piano. "Mother," she asked, "can you play that piece about the 'soapy pear'?" I like that one best of all."

Her mother, knowing the child had confused some words, played various melodies she remembered hearing at the community singing and finally discovered, through this method, that it was the song "Over There" Jeanne referred to. The refrain, "So prepare, so prepare," was the one which to her ears, had sounded like "soapy pear."

Truly Times Have Changed.

A friend of Senator Sorghum encountered the solon on the steps of the capitol and after passing the time of day remarked playfully:

"Senator, how comes it you aren't making any of your famous speeches these days?"

But the senator was ready for him. "Times have changed," he replied without hesitation. "Now it isn't at all easy for a man with silk hat and frock coat to assert he is saving the country by himself, and say it at an audience that's all khaki uniforms and overalls."

Jump from Bed in Morning and Drink Hot Water

Tells why everyone should drink hot water each morning before breakfast.

Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried, some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness?

If we all would practice inside-bathing, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick, anemic-looking souls with peevish, irritable complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy, rosy-checked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. Every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms poisons like those which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clean the gutter from the house each day before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside of the body of the waste day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it.

The marvelous power of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour and poisonous acids, and the cleansing and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become rosy and bright the morning inside-bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone, its cleansing, sweetening and freshening effect upon the system.—Adv.

STOKES REPLY TO W. C. KING

Would be Improper for Him to Call Another State Convention

By Special Correspondent.
TRENTON, June 30.—Today's contribution of the local letter writing campaign which has been in progress for the past few weeks is another letter from former Governor E. C. Stokes replying to the statement last week of Warren C. King, asking why another convention of Republicans is not called for the purpose of allowing the candidates to speak. King is in the race for the Republican nomination for Governor and was one of those effected when the mandate went forth that the recent convention of the League of Republican Clubs was to be closed to candidates oratory.

In his answer to King today, Mr. Stokes points out that as chairman of the Republican State Committee, it would be entirely improper for him to carry out the suggestion of holding a meeting for the benefit of the candidates.

"I assume that you understand that neither I nor the State Committee will take any part in the candidates' campaign," says the letter of Mr. Stokes, "nor favor any candidate directly or indirectly. The law prohibits anything of that character on the part of the state committee, as does a decent respect for the proprieties of the situation."

The state chairman advises Mr. King to take his suggestion up with the candidates themselves and perhaps they could reach some agreement for such a meeting.

Transmigration of Souls.

A fresh young man was pressing an old gentleman, who evidently felt bored, to give him an illustration of the transmigration of souls, showing how a person's identity might be maintained. At last the old gentleman replied: "Supposing you should die, your soul might appear in a canary bird; when the canary bird died it might appear in a lion or a tiger; again, it might appear in a jackass—and I might stroke its ears and say, 'My dear fellow, you have not changed a bit!'"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.
