

DRAFT BOARDS WILL COMPLETE WORK DEC. 10

All Data to Be Collected and Transmitted to State Headquarters by That Date

Local draft boards this morning were ordered to complete all business and seal their records by December 10. It is the end of the duties of the selective service boards, to all appearances.

The chairmen are directed to collect and transmit to the state headquarters before that time all data contained in the annual report. The examination of the classes of 19 to 26, and the 18-year-old classes, is to be completed according to former instructions, and classification of every registrant in these classes is to be completed.

Physical examinations already have been discontinued, so that the work of classification will be disposed of rapidly. All appeals sent to district boards but undispensed of, returned to the local board's classification with the suspension of the appeal board's activities yesterday.

The monthly report is to be completed as usual by the thirtieth of the month. There is to be no alteration, addition or change until further notice to the records of the June 5, 1917, June 5, 1918, and August 24, 1918, registration lists.

All papers received by the local boards after December 10, are to be endorsed and stamped with the date of receipt, and filed separately until further orders from the state selective service headquarters or Provost Marshal General's department. The sealed records also are to be held until further orders from those sources.

After December 10, there is to be no accession to the sealed records. It is pointed out that they will furnish the great reservoir of information for war risk insurance and future pension claims, and also for historical reference.

Lancaster County Jail Is Unfit, Says Jury

Lancaster, Pa., Nov. 22.—The Lancaster county jail is still inadequate for the safekeeping of prisoners, according to the report of the grand jury presented to court yesterday. Pleading the escape of the three long-term prisoners, Garner, Langer and Hurst, and the murder by Garner of a young girl, the prison inspectors made a number of improvements, which, it was said, would be sufficient to keep the prisoners from going over the wall, but they did not conform in full with the recommendations of the State Board of Charities. Protest was made against the lack of adequate changes, but with no avail.

The grand jury in its report said that the jail is at present not properly equipped to retain prisoners.

CROP OFF CITY'S WAR GARDENS IS WORTH $10,000

School Children Did Great Work in Bolstering Food Supplies

Harrisburg school children and adults raised products in war gardens during the past season amounting to $9,484, it is estimated by Shirley E. Watts, superintendent of war gardens, whose report has just been made public by the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce. This total production is an increase of $2,000 over that of last year, he states. Products taken from the adult lots amounted to $4,620; from the school lots, $4,864. A vast amount of truck raised on gardens privately marked and in the backyards of the city.

The preparation of the lots was begun March 18 and 42 acres were plowed and harrowed for garden plots. The acreage was divided into the following plots: Bellevue, 425; Nineteenth and Paxton streets, 432; Reel and Wisconsin streets, 281; Reel and Division streets, 277; Twenty-third and Brookwood streets, 65; Sixth and Foster streets, 21; Curtin and Jefferson streets, 78; Vernon Woods, 50; Fifteenth and Vernon streets, 50.

In addition one and one-half acres were under cultivation at Nineteenth and Holly streets for the children's Imperial club. Four acres at Seventeenth street and the Pennsylvania railroad were plowed, harrowed and fertilized for the Associated Charities, in addition to the fifteen and Herr streets, extending as far as the Arsenal. Eight acres at Bellevue were planted in yellow corn because adults did not claim all the ground allotted to them.

School Board May Help Touching on the financial side, Superintendent Watts reports a balance of $762.70. An appropriation of $2,000 from the Chamber of Commerce and another of $750 from the Committee of Public Safety, plus other receipts made a total of moneys received amounting to $3,189.75. Expenditures, including salaries, plowing, fertilizing, printing and other expenses, amounted to $2,427.05. A decrease of expenses amounting to $522.63 was noted.

A charge of $1.50 was made to adults to partially cover the cost of fertilizing and plowing the ground. In every section of the city where war gardens were available the land was quickly disposed of, save in the Bellevue Park section where the plots were not all taken. Here it was necessary to give it to one person, to avoid wasting the land, and this was put into yellow corn. The size of the lots for children did not exceed 25 feet, and that of the adults 25 by 50 feet. James Smyser acted as assistant supervisor for the Chamber of Commerce. Acting as supervisors for the school board were Messrs. Ferguson, Machen, Keiper, Harlacher and Thomas. The salaries of these last named supervisors was paid by the school board.

In closing his report, the superintendent says: "There is a movement on foot by the Harrisburg school board to manage their own lots next year. Upon this matter up with Doctor Downes he stated that they felt that due to the paying of the salaries of the supervisors of the school gardens that the school board was getting sufficient credit for the money which they were spending and that next year they would conduct their own gardens. We stated to the school board that we had given them credit for any produce which they raised. It seems that after two years of preparation of this land and the large amount of money which the Chamber of Commerce has spent to encourage the school children to raise vegetables to aid in the war, that school board proposition is unfair. As a result of this we had under cultivation within five acres as much land as the adults. In other words the preparation of this land cost as much as that of the Chamber of Commerce within a few hundred dollars. It is understood that they expect the Chamber of Commerce to furnish the plowing and fertilizing for next season and they have no money to take care of the preparation of this ground.

The superintendent earnestly hopes that the garden movement will not be discontinued as the above figures show the value of this work and in reference to school children we wish to suggest that they especially continue this line of work and think that the proper way in which it should be handled would be for the school board to have the children work on these lots a certain period each day and have it considered a part of their education and receive marks on it the same as any other study. This will be the only way they can control the children and then it will develop into a system which is worth while."

POLICE SEEK AN INCREASE IN PAY

[Continued from First Page.] tion has no intention of attempting to enforce its desires. The order of police was formed among third class cities of Pennsylvania to better the conditions of the patrolmen, and the police organizations include in their bylaws the agreement not to go on strike. The local organization has the sanction of the mayor and chief.

Mayor Keister agreed with the policemen that their request for $125 a month is not unreasonable in view of present conditions. He said this morning that the request will be taken into account when the 1919 budget is made up. He said, however, that an increase of $25 for the policemen would be hard to secure, and that it might not be expedient to ask for it at this time. It would entail an increase in the payroll of $1,775 monthly, or $21,500 annually. He was hopeful, however, that something could be done to give the policemen a comfortable increase in salary.

Pension Idea Growing

Nothing definite has been done to secure the hoped for pension for the policemen. There is a growing sentiment in police, official and unofficial circles that the policemen, who give the best years of their lives in service of the city, are deserving of some recognition in the form of a pension when they are no longer able to perform active service. There are men on the police force who have served more than twenty-five years.

May Ask Legislature

The desire for a pension system has grown with the inauguration of the civil service system for policemen, which assures an able policeman a position for life. It is felt that with the promise of a pension at the end of a long period of active service, the stimulus for good men to join the force will be increased. Mayor Keister said this morning there undoubtedly would be action to secure pensions for the policemen. He could not hazard a guess as to how it would come about, but was certain the city would in time do its part. The Legislature, he thought, would take measures to secure the pension for the patrolmen.

To Organize Lobby

Herman Kautz, president of the Fraternal Order of Police, declared that there is no doubt that the police deserve an adequate pension. He said that the Fraternal Order of Police is so young that it has not had a chance to determine what can be done to secure pensions, but as it was formed primarily for the purpose of bettering the conditions of the patrolmen, the subject naturally would be taken up.

It was said this morning that the Order of Police will be asked by the Fraternal Order of Police of the First and Second class cities, which have secured state legislation giving policemen of the first and second class cities, generous pensions. A lobby committee will be maintained at the State Legislature by the new organization, it was said, to secure the desired pension. It is commonly conceded that when a pension does come, it probably will be primarily through the state Legislature.
