Excitement in Nogales

Some excitement, but no disorder, is reported from Nogales. Ambassador Wilson reports that John Kenneth Turner, a writer, for whom fears were entertained, is in no danger. John E. Chapman is reported safe at Pearson, and Consel Shanklin reports that H. B. Pond and family are safe, and that Dr. Harrison has left for Dallas, Tex. Consul Garrett telegraphed from Nuevo Laredo that he was yesterday attacked Laredo that he was yesterday attacked on the street by a saloonkeeper be-cause he had caused the arrest of criminals who were operating from the saloon and were robbing Americans. Ambassador Wilson will be permitted to continue to exercise his own dis-cretion in dealing with the new government, and some satisfaction is derived from his report that not only is the new government very friendly toward the United States, but that it has ward the United States, but that it has shown a disposition to meet reasonable requests for the protection of American interests in Mexico, which were to a large degree ignored by the Madero administration.

Officials do not expect immediate restoration of peace throughout Mexico. It is recalled that the dominant party in that country now practically is a new one; unless, indeed, it can be considered a reincarnation of the old party of Porficio Diaz. There is nothing in common between it and the revolution party which
