

MALARIA

AN INVISIBLE ENEMY TO HEALTH

Malaria is a slow poison, but the most stubborn and deeply rooted when it takes possession of the system. We breathe into the lungs the polluted, germinant air; the little microbes then enter into the system, and feeding upon the red corpuscles of the blood, soon reduce this vital, life-sustaining fluid to such a weak, watery state that the patient becomes listless, pale and anemic, and mentally and physically depressed. Malaria may begin with slight rigors or chills, followed by fever and thirst; but gradually all parts of the system are affected; the liver becomes torpid, and dark or yellow spots appear upon the skin; the stomach fails to properly digest the food, and there are frequent headaches, dizziness, bad taste in the mouth, constipation and a general worn-out, tired feeling that only a sufferer from Malaria can describe. Other and more dangerous symptoms are apt to follow where this disease is neglected, such as nervous prostration, palpitation, sleeplessness, enlarged liver, weak kidneys, boils and risings and dangerous-looking sores and abscesses. Malaria is all the more dangerous because of its insidious and stealthy nature. It is an invisible atmospheric poison, and the germs and microbes that are lodged in the blood are propagating and increasing in number all the while, clogging the circulation and gradually wrecking the health.

What is needed in Malarial troubles is a blood purifier and tonic. S. S. S. purifies the germ-infected blood, tones up the stomach, improves the appetite and invigorates the entire system. It stimulates the torpid, sluggish organs of the body, enabling them to properly perform their functions and carry off the poisonous secretions and health-destroying matter that have been polluting the blood and clogging the circulation. S. S. S. contains no strong minerals, but is strictly a vegetable remedy, a blood purifier without an equal, and the greatest of all tonics. If you have any symptoms of Malaria, write us, and medical advice will be furnished without cost.

IN WOODS ALL NIGHT.

Mrs. Richard Ebreke, who resides at 502 Washington street, went out to the hill east of the city Thursday to pick berries. When night fell she did not return home, which caused her children some alarm, but thinking that possibly she had remained at some farm house for the night they did not report the matter to the police until next morning. When she did not return next morning Chief Malone was informed, and he and Sheriff Chellis drove out in the territory in which she was supposed to be and spent the forenoon in looking for her. Mr. Ebreke, who was working at Tomahawk, was telegraphed for and came home on the morning train. In the afternoon the three went out for another search. Mr. Ebreke on foot and Messrs. Malone and Chellis by team. The latter in inquiring along the way found several farmers who had seen such a woman as described to them. While stopping at the farm of Frank Berard, about three miles east of the city, to make inquiries the woman was seen coming out of the woods. She was apprehended and asked if she was not lost but as she does not speak English she could give no answer. They, however, succeeded in making her understand that they would take her home with them. When she arrived home she gave her daughter an account of her doings. She claimed to have gone into the woods and filled her pail with berries and when about to come home a rain shower came up and she sat down under a tree and remained all night. The dog that accompanied her was still with her when she was found by the officers. It is quite evident that she wandered around in the woods for some time, for she was worked up to a pitch of excitement and had eaten scarcely anything. She still had left four apples when she had picked the day before, though the balance of her lunch was consumed. She spent about thirty hours in the woods, but though the country through which she traveled has a growth of timber, most of it is so cut up with roads and farms that it would be almost impossible for anyone to get lost for any length of time.

ASYLUM ZOO.

Two fawns were born a week ago at the county asylum grounds and give promise of thriving well in captivity. Our readers will perhaps remember of P. O. Means and several others catching a deer back of the Leader store last fall. The deer and a mate were driven into the city by dogs during the hunting season, and after one had crossed the river above the Island mill, it took refuge back of above named store and was caught. The captors a few days later presented it to the asylum, and some time after, the superintendent, Mr. Thomas, bought a mate for it. It was the practice for a while to lead the male around on the barn floor for exercise, but one day last spring he objected to being led, and raising one of his front feet, attempted to loosen the rope around his neck, but got his foot tangled up with the rope and his ankle was broken. The ankle was bandaged up and an effort made to save him, but he died. The superintendent informs us that trees will be planted about the asylum in the near future and that the grounds will be made as park-like as possible. Deer and other animals will be placed in the grove, and the contribution of wild animals from citizens will in time make a zoological garden of the now almost treeless lawn.

WAUSAU THEIR HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Martin and daughters left for Wausau today, where they expect to make their future home, having rented a residence at 727 Jefferson street in that city. Mr. Martin represents the J. R. Watkins Medical Co. of Wisconsin, Minn., and has all of Marathon county as his territory. He has represented this company for some time and has met with "excellent success in the sale of medicines, spices, extracts, etc. This family have resided in Stevens Point for many years, this being the birthplace of Mr. Martin, and our friends at Wausau will find them citizens to whom they can extend a welcome hand.—Stevens Point Gazette.

Violent Attack of Diarrhoea Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and Perhaps a Life Saved.

"A short time ago I was taken with a violent attack of diarrhoea and believe I would have died if I had not gotten relief," says Mrs. John J. Patton, a leading citizen of Patton, Ala. "A friend recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I bought a twenty-five cent bottle and after taking five doses of it was entirely cured. I consider it the best remedy in the world for bowel complaints. For sale by all leading druggists.

HAS A NEW GAME.

The following, taken from the Oshkosh Times, represents the recent workings of a man known in Wausau:

"Representing that he was employed by the city of Oshkosh on street work and received his pay twice a month, a man who gave the name of David Mitchell and later said his real name was Martin Gilnes, ran a grocery bill of about $7 at the store of Fred Below, 40 Oregon street, and thereby paved the way for his arrest and present incarceration in the city jail.

"Gilnes was arrested last evening on the South side by Officer James Mulva, on a warrant charging him with obtaining goods under false pretenses.

Below, the grocer, became suspicious shortly after trusting Gilnes for a quantity of groceries, and called at the city hall to inquire if a man named Mitchell was on the city payroll. Learning that no such man was employed by the city, he caused a warrant to be sworn out for the arrest of his customer.

During the past two days Gilnes has been working at the Lutz stone quarry. He has been here about a few weeks, and said that during the past two years he had been living with his family in Appleton.

In explanation of his conduct Gilnes last evening at the police station said that he had been drinking rather heavily of late and hence had become short of money. When he came to Oshkosh he had nothing to live on, and represented that he was working for the city in order to get credit at the grocery store. It was found that he has been boarding and rooming, in company with two or three other men, at 152 Second street. The police say they have received reports from other sources stating that he has worked the same game in stores besides that of Below. Gilnes said that he was a married man, and had intended to bring his wife here to reside, within a short time.

The man mentioned above came to Wausau in the spring of 1901 and after hanging around for a few days, during which time he made a "good fellow" of himself by spending lots of money for drinks, he began a series of crooked deals that landed him in Wausau. Stepping to a telephone one day he called up Joe Lucia, proprietor of the Adams House, and changing his voice represented himself as one of the officers of an Antigo bank and said that if Martin Gilnes needed any money to supply him and the bank would make it good. A little later he called, and claiming to be a lumber foreman hiring men to send up on the drive, he asked Mr. Lucia for some money to pay their railroad fare up the line. The money was given him and later in the day Mr. Lucia, who felt somewhat suspicious, communicated with the bank at Antigo with the result that the officials claimed to know of no one as the man described to them. Lucia then started out and soon found Gilnes and had him arrested, when later it was found that he had worked the same game on Strachota Bros. The man a few days later decided to plead guilty to the charge preferred against him and was sentenced to one year in the state's prison. After being liberated from Wausau he went to Appleton and worked the same game, claiming to be a foreman in the employ of the Menasha Woodware Co. That time through some hook or crook he escaped with a light punishment.

GOOD COUNTY.

"Marathon county is the best county in Wisconsin and we have the best crops to be found anywhere," said B. F. McMillan, the well-known lumberman, at the Hotel Pilsner. "Our hay crop is simply immense and all other crops are in proportion. When I say that Marathon county is the best county in Wisconsin, I mean every word of it. We have the best land, the best farms, the best stock, the best barns, and when it comes to the people, the best republicans and the best democrats, too."

RAILROAD IS REACHING OUT.

Evidence of Milwaukee's Plan to Extend Valley Division.

Evidence of the intention of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road to extend its Wisconsin Valley division into Michigan to Lake Superior is the plans for extensive construction work around Ontonagon, Mich. Work has been commenced on a large railroad bridge over the river at Ontonagon. It has been announced also that work will be started about Sept. 1 on the construction of the Nelson-Sullivan logging road, which will run to the Wisconsin line from Ontonagon. Six miles are to be built this season. At Star Lake considerable construction work is also being done and it is said the road will have been extended fourteen miles before cold weather comes. With the building of new roads toward each other from both ends, it looks as if it will not be long before the line will run through to Lake Superior.

A continuation of the Valley division northward will tap a district rich in timber and minerals. It would also improve the Milwaukee road's facilities for reaching the great copper country, a district which produces a large amount of freight and passenger traffic. In this connection, it would seem, that the Milwaukee was planning to land a share in this business, as it is again reported in Boston that the Milwaukee has made an offer to buy the Copper Range railroad, which runs from Mass City to Calumet through the mining district. The question of price, it is said, is delaying the completion of the deal. The Copper Range people want $4,500,000 for the property. The road is a dividend-payer and has still brighter prospects.

Northern Wisconsin is developing rapidly and the railroads are constantly giving more attention to the district. If for no other reason it looks as if the Valley division will probably be extended in order to haul the increasing quantity of timber now being transported from the north to the saw, pulp and paper mills in the Wisconsin river valley—Tomahawk Leader.

The above mentioned extension may be like a good many other railroads—built on paper only. While the extension might be of some indirect benefit to the people of this valley it is not very plain where any great gain to us would result. It is true a timbered section would be opened up that might be a source of supply for our wood working institutions, but so far as there being any increased shipping from Northern Michigan over the valley division we doubt it, and if there was, no one would be benefited but the railroad company. The St. Paul, when it bought the old Milwaukee & Northern road a few years ago, secured a much shorter route from the copper country of Northern Michigan to Milwaukee and Chicago than would be the valley division, even though the latter should be extended to the Michigan peninsula. But then the St. Paul company no doubt knows its own business.

HORSE DELAYS TRAIN.

The north bound St. Paul passenger train which leaves the city at 7:35 each evening, was delayed several minutes Wednesday night at the long bridge which crosses Jim Moore creek and a slough north of town. The delay was caused by a horse. Alvin Levenhagen and Will LaCerte went up to Spanaway park to investigate reports that campers in that vicinity were building fires, which were dangerous to the property of Mr. Levenhagen, who owns the park. After due investigation they started for home but found one of their horses untied and running loose. In endeavoring to catch him the other also got out on the railway tracks and both started for town. One animal crossed the long bridge in safety, but the other got caught between the ties. A man who was passing at the time agreed to go down the track and flag the passenger train which was then about due. As the train neared the bridge it was stopped, and the train crew and passengers came to the rescue and after the horse's shoes had been pried from its feet the animal was secured. Its feet were then tied and the horse dragged off and the train proceeded.
