LEO M. FRANK of Atlanta, Ga. serving a life term for the murder of Mary Phagan, the Atlanta factory girl, and who was taken from the prison farm at Milledgeville, was found hanging by the neck to a tree two miles from Marietta, Ga., Friday night of last week. The mob which took him from the Millidgeville prison the night before made good their threat to hang him near the grave of Mary Phagan, his fourteen-year-old victim. So quietly was the work of the lynchers per formed that people in Marietta did not know that Frank had been brought to their very doorsteps for penal retribution. Shame on Georgia! The governor of the state has dis covered the identity of several of Frank's lynchers.

Lord Salisbury's Joke.

Count Miyatovich, former Servian minister, told in London the story of a meeting he once had with the late Lord Salisbury. "He was a brilliant man and a great statesman," he said "A little cynical, he never lost an op portunity of having a laugh at one's never a trace of any malice. In the interview I recounted my nation's his tory, when he seemed a little bored the end Lord Salisbury dryly re marked: 'I thank you, minister. Now I know what I did not know before that you have a brilliant history. But, my dear friend, it would have been much better for the Serbs if you had a less brilliant history and a port on the Adriatic.'"

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

Hon. Elihu Root On Woman's Sphere

The question of Woman Suffrage is an issue before the American people. Twelve states have adopted it, four more states vote upon it this fall and it is strongly urged that it become a platform demand of the national political parties. It is therefore the privilege and the duty of every voter to study carefully this subject. Hon. Elihu Root, in discussing this question before the constitutional convention of New York, recently said in part:

"I am opposed to the granting of suffrage to women, because I believe that it would be a loss to women, to all women and to every woman; and because I believe it would be an injury to the state, and to every man and every woman in the state. It would be useless to argue this if the right of suffrage were a natural right. If it were a natural right, then women should have it though the heavens fall. But if there be any one thing settled in the long discussion of this subject, it is that suffrage is not a natural right, but is simply a means of government, and the sole question to be discussed is whether government by the suffrage of men and women will be better government than by the suffrage of men alone.

o my judgment, sir, there enters no element of the inferiority of It is not that woman is inferior to man, but it is that woman is different from man; that in the distribution of powers, of capacities, of qualities, our Maker has created man adapted to the performance of certain func-tions in the economy of nature and society, and woman adapted to the Woman rules today by the sweet and noble influences of her character. Put woman into the arena of conflict and she abandons these great weapons which control the world, and she takes into her hands, feeble and nerveless for strife, weapons with which she is unfamiliar and which she is unable to Woman in strife becomes hard, harsh, unlovable, repulsive; as far wield. Woman in strife becomes hard, harsh, unlovable, repulsive; as far removed from that gentle creature to whom we all owe allegiance and to whom we confess submission. as the heaven is removed from the earth.

"The whole science of government is the science of protecting life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness. In the divine distribution of powers, the duty and the right of protection rests with the male. It is so throughout nature. It is so with men, and I, for one, will never consent to part with the divine right of protecting my wife, my daughter, the women whom I love, and the women whom I respect, exercising the birthright of man, and place that high duty in the weak and nerveless hands of those designed by God to be protected rather than to engage in the stern warfare of government. In my judgment, this whole movement arises from a false conception of the duty and of the right of both men and women.

"The time will never come when the line of demarcation between the functions of the two sexes will be broken down. I believe it to be false philosophy; I believe that it is an attempt to turn backward upon the line of social development, and that if the step ever be taken, we go centuries backward on the march towards a higher, nobler and purer civilization, which must ward on the march towards a higher, nobler and purer civilization, which must be found not in the confusion, but in the higher differentiation of the sexes."

He had then remained in the sitting room until he heard the return of the automobile containing his parents and uncle, when he had slipped upstairs and hidden under the bed of his parents. As nearly as he could determine this was about 9 o'clock. He heard the party talking and laughing, but did not know his uncle John was in the party, nor could he distinguish all that was said. He was still under the bed when his mother came to the room to retire, and he says that when he saw her kneel in prayer at the side of the bed, had it been possible for him to have gotten away without detection, he would have made his es cape. Shortly after the other members of the family retired and then his father came to the room and went to bed. He lay there for a long time waiting for his father to go to sleep and endeavoring to nerve himself to the job he had undertaken.

About one o'clock he crawled from under the bed from the side upon which his father was sleeping, and says that in doing so his father was born in this city and graduated from aroused and sat up in bed and then he the high school here in 1910. They pointed the gun at him and shot.
