

The Lonely Life

The Tragic Confession of a Spinster, Who Realizes That No Fame or Wealth Can Compensate for the Solitude of Her Life.

In this article the author, whose name for obvious reasons we are not at liberty to disclose, drops for once the mask which she in common with other "Bachelor Maids," is accustomed to turn to the world.

Though no longer young, she frankly says she longs for the companionship of a husband and the care of children. The circumstances which have kept from her the happiness which these blessings bring are stated with the same directness which characterizes the whole article. It is the life-story of a "successful" woman, a drama of real life in which the last act is a tragedy.

Roosevelt's Splendid Record as a Buster of Big Trusts

Suits begun during President Roosevelt's administration under the Sherman anti-trust, the old interstate commerce and the Elkins laws:

Under the Sherman Law.

United States vs. Northern Securities Co. Consolidation of competing railway lines in restraint of competition. The circuit court entered a decree in favor of the government, and it was affirmed by the supreme court.

United States vs. Swift & Co., et al. Conspiracy to prevent competition. The circuit court granted a permanent injunction, which the supreme court affirmed.

United States vs. Federal Salt Co. Conspiracy to prevent competition. The company pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $1,000.

United States vs. Federal Salt Co. For violation of the anti-trust law. The circuit court granted a permanent injunction. No appeal was taken.

Kills Off Mosquitoes.

Newark News: One good thing seems to have come out of the marine hospital service experience. It is the discovery and announcement that the burning of a distillation of pine called pyroform will effectively free houses and single rooms of mosquitoes. It is more deadly than sulphur and is not injurious to paints, metals or clothes. The fumes of this pine tar kills mosquitoes instantly, but do not harm human beings. But while this may be an excellent discovery and handy to use about the house, it in no way approaches in value the drainage system of mosquito destruction. While pyroform kills the few mosquitoes in a house, the system which destroys their breeding places aims to kill the great bulk of the whole noxious, stinging, pestiferous brood and in some places has already accomplished this desired result.

American Invasion of Europe.

Boston Herald: Marienbad is pronounced no longer attractive to the native-born European. Too many Americans is the cry; the Americans have spoiled "our bad." "We can not afford to go there any more" is also the burden of the old Englishman's complaint and it is hard lines when King Edward sets foot there yearly to be barred out. In short, they say, the little Bohemian town has been absorbed by Americans. Every available corner in hotels, pensions and private houses is booked till the middle of September. Blame it on the motor car! Americans are "doing" the continent in their forty horse power or their sixty horse power, etc., and the map of Europe is changing to meet the invading hosts flashing from Munich to Brussels, from Lucerne to Vienna.

AMUNDSEN EN ROUTE EAST.

Will Go Through Over the Great Northern Next Monday Night.

Capt. Roald Amundsen, who, in his little sloop, Gjoa, successfully traversed the northwest passage from the through this city next Monday night from the west, en route back to Norway.

Captain Amundsen is shipping to Norway a bag of skins valued at $5,000. The bag has already been forwarded from Seattle. It contains some rare skins collected during the trip through the passage.

One of the great feats in the history of Arctic exploration has been quietly performed by Captain Amundsen in his little sloop. Since 1497 when John Cabot is said to have tried to pass through the Arctic ocean to the Pacific, there have been many efforts to discover the much-sought-for northwest passage. Hundreds of men have perished in the attempt. The northwest passage has indeed been previously explored from each end, so that its whole course was known to geographers, but it had never been traversed its entire length by a single vessel.

Captain Amundsen sailed from Norway on June 1, 1903, in his forty-ton sloop. The Gjoa was not built especially for Arctic work, but was strengthened with a sheeting of two inch oak planks and equipped with a petroleum motor of thirteen horse power, by the help of which she was able to attain a speed of three knots in smooth water. She relied, however, chiefly on her sails.

The chief object of the expedition was to force a way into the region about the north pole and to make observations at a fixed station during an extended period. For this purpose the expedition was furnished with magnetic instruments. The location of the magnetic pole was discovered on June 1 of last year, two years after the expedition started. Many new islands between King William's Land, Victoria Land and the American coast were discovered, and the east coast of Victoria Land was charted as far north as latitude 72 deg. 10 min. The winters of both 1903 and 1904 were spent in harbor on the south shores of King William's Land, which lies just west of Boothia Felix peninsula. Last summer the explorers left winter quarters and continued the voyage westward. The passage was almost completed last year, but winter set in early and the way was blocked by ice at a point just west of the Mackenzie river. The expedition numbered seven members, the second in command being Lieut. Godfred Hansen of the Danish navy, and the total cost of the equipment was less than $25,000.

Information Wanted.

On Sunday, Oct. 22, two boys at Forman mysteriously disappeared from town, and are supposed to have taken one of the several freight trains which passed through town that day. The boys' names are Melvin Glorvick and Lucius Jackman. They are each about 13 years of age, but the Jackman boy is considerably larger than his companion. The Jackman had black hair and eyes and is of dark complexion and quite stocky build, and wore a blue sweater and black coat. The Glorvick boy is of sandy complexion, with light hair and blue eyes, and wore a new pair of overalls, black coat and sweater. The two had one grip. Anyone who can give any information of their whereabouts will do their parents a favor by telegraphing W. T. Jackman, sheriff of Sargent county, Forman, N. D., at his expense.

Right Side for the Heart.

Cleveland Plaindealer: Teacher—Johnnie, on which side is your heart? Johnnie—On the right side, teacher.

Teacher—No, Johnnie; it's on your left side.

Teacher—Yes, ma'am; that's what I said.

Teacher—What you said? Johnnie—Yes, teacher; the left side is the right side for the heart.

An Awful Cough Cured.

"Two years ago our little girl had a touch of pneumonia, which left her with an awful cough. She had spells of coughing, just like one with the whooping cough and some thought she would not get well at all. We got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which acted like a charm. She stopped coughing and got stout and fat," writes Mrs. Ora Bussard, Brubaker, Ill. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.
