MURRAY WAS SWORN IN

New Temperance Commissioner Has Assumed the Duties of His Office at Bismarck.

Bismarck Tribune: George Murray, the new temperance commissioner recently appointed by Governor Burke, arrived in the city yesterday from Sherbrooke. He at once called on the governor and qualified for office and is now, or will be when his office at the capitol is fixed up for him, ready for business.

In conversation with The Tribune last night Mr. Murray said he had not had time to talk the business of his office over with the governor, but would have an interview with him today and get his views and policy in the premises. He spoke in praise of the stand the governor and attorney general had taken for the enforcement of the law and said the legal steps taken in Bismarck had had a very marked effect for good all over the state and that it would make enforcement of the law much easier for him.

Mr. Murray has come to make Bismarck his home for the next two years at least. He is a very pleasant man and one who undoubtedly will "wear well," with those who come to know him socially. He has a big lower jaw which betokens will power and he looks like a man who went after things and got them.

Establishes Y. W. C. A.

It is stated that there is soon to be considerable activity in the line of firmly establishing a branch of the Young Woman's Christian association in Fargo. A number of ladies have given the matter very careful thought, have studied ways and means and the belief is that Fargo must have such an organization.

Campbell for Judge.

Jamestown Alert: The board of county commissioner of Morton county and the city council both have endorsed Hon. J. E. Campbell of Mandan for the appointment of judge of the Tenth judicial district. The Tenth district will be composed of all the territory west of the Missouri river which formerly formed a part of the Sixth district. The law creating this new district becomes operative on July 1, at which time the governor will appoint a judge to preside until the next general election. The endorsement of Hon. J. E. Campbell for this position was a deserved compliment to an able lawyer, an old and respected citizen, and one of the most popular democrats in the state. Governor Burke will certainly make no mistake in appointing Mr. Campbell to the position of judge of the Tenth judicial district.

JOHNSON GETS CONTRACT.

Fargo Contractor to Build Boiler House at Grafton Institute.

To Casper H. Johnson has been awarded the contract for the construction of an addition to the main building and the erection of a boiler house for the institute for the feeble minded at Grafton. The Fargo Plumbing & Heating Co. was given the contract for the plumbing and heating, and Hancock Bros. drew the plans so that all the work in connection with the improvements which will cost in the neighborhood of $30,000 will have been done by local men.

Mr. S. L. Bowen of Wayne, W. Va., writes: "I was a sufferer from kidney disease, so that at times I could not get out of bed, and when I did I could not stand straight. I took Foley's Kidney Cure. One dollar bottle and part of the second cured me entirely." Foley's Kidney Cure works wonders where others are total failures. H. H. Casselman, Lion drug store.

Deer Lake.

Deer Lake, N. D., April 10.—To The Forum: Grant Young and Lou Wright had an enjoyable time the other day in engaging in horse trading. It is not known at the present writing which of the gentlemen played the "favorites."

George Senter of Paris postoffice was doing business in our suburbs last week.

While Delbert Pendergast left his team a moment, in order to step into the house, the animals took French leave and gave their owners a merry chase but were finally caught by Mrs. Marion Pendergast who is not slow when it comes to outwitting a runaway team. Fortunately no damages resulted.

The writer called on Grant Young one day last week to look over his sheep, and found Mr. Young busily engaged with his young lambs. At the present writing he has about seventy-five, having recently lost about one-fourth of them. Had it not been for the hard winter, Mr. Young says the loss would have been very light. Last year he lost but three out of a hundred.

Mr. Becker has lost several head of cattle during the past winter, owing to the fact that the water supply on his farm gave out, and the animals would chill on coming out of a warm barn and traveling to a neighbor's for water.

Edward Carlson has gone to Buchanan to work on the new livery stable that is being constructed at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Briggs called at the Petty sheep ranch last Saturday.

Leu Wright has gone to assist F. W. A. Rosemore with his spring work.

Howard Roe made a combination trip to Jamestown last week, on business and pleasure.

Miss Justina Stong is home for a time, doing time on her claim. She will return to her school in the near future.

Elwin Pendergast writes from California, Minn., to the effect that he has so far recovered from his recent operation that he would be able to return home, but for illness of the baby.

The stray broncho, that was taken up last fall by Edward Pendergast, took another notion last Saturday. It started for the valley country, taking with it their horses and causing their owners a hard day's ride and bare back too.

Johnnie Carlson is expecting his brother to arrive almost daily from Minnesota.

Nobody enjoys the spring storms any more than our mail carrier. They all come on mail day.

Howard Roe went to Windsor on Saturday to get a minister as they were to have a preaching service in Scandinavian at the south school house Saturday afternoon.

Baseball Managers Have Different Methods of Handling Their Men

Few of the fans who sit in the grand stand and bleachers and enjoy a ball game during a hot summer afternoon realize how the manager who occupies a seat on the bench feels and acts. It's great to be the manager of a winning team, but it's hard to imagine anything worse than the leader of a tail-end aggregation. If you happen to be manager of a team that wins the pennant the fans will insist that you're one of the wisest in the business, that you understand how to handle a bunch of players, that it was your inside work that landed the flag and that in general you're the whole explosion.

On the other hand, if you happen to be piloting the cellar champions, you will be told time and time again that you're a lobster and should be digging ditches, that your place is the tall bushes and green grass and that you couldn't win a pennant if your team was made up of Lajoles and Wagners.

The men who sit on the bench and guide the destinies of the big league teams earn all the money they are pulling down. The manager has to direct the play, take the abuse resulting from all the mistakes made by the players, explain every defeat and do all the worrying for the entire bunch. Every manager has his peculiarities, his superstitions and his hobbies. It's really interesting to watch how the various leaders of the American and National league teams act during the progress of a game. It is generally possible to tell how the game is going by watching their expressions and actions.

Fielder Jones Serious.

Take Fielder Jones of the Chicago White Sox, for instance, the winner of the American league pennant and world's championship. During a game Jones is all the time serious. He sees nothing funny. While in the outfield he paces around in the center like a caged lion.

The umpires insist that Jones has a path worn on every grounds from center to the plate, due to his coming in to dispute all close decisions. Any time a pitcher looks as if he was about to go up Jones is on the spot offering his advice. He remains on the bench very little during a game.

In direct contrast to Fielder Jones is Connie Mack of the Athletics, the winner of the American league pennant of 1905. Mack directs the play from the bench and is always attired in street clothes. He rarely says anything and then only in the ordinary tones. He is the "fox" of the business. Mack has an unusually long face, and when the game is going his way he always wears one of those everlasting smiles. When things break against him his face seems twice as long as usual, and that's going some for Mack. He is a good loser, however, and takes defeat as gracefully as he does victory.

Clark Griffith wears out more shoes during the season than all the other magnates put together, for he covers all kinds of ground. Griffith seldom is on the bench. He is generally doing stunts on the coaching lines and never lets an opportunity go by to question a decision if he thinks there is something to be gained. Griffith is of an unusually nervous temperament, and every year he is scheduled for a nervous collapse. Last year report had it that Griffith subsisted on olive oil and raw eggs during the last months of the race.

McCloskey's Sad Fate.

Manager McCloskey of the St. Louis Nationals, who, by the way, has gained much fame this year by issuing a signed statement that he didn't expect to win the pennant, is one of the peculiar characters of the diamond. It has been McCloskey's misfortune to manage more tail-end teams than any other man in the game. Perhaps there was method in his madness when he announced that he didn't expect to win. McCloskey delights in cussing, and it's a great treat to listen to the conversation he holds with himself. He has a habit of moving from one end of the bench to the other when an opposing team starts to pile up a bunch of runs. Thus it can be easily seen how McCloskey leads the league in wearing out trousers.

In order to tell the score of a game in which the St. Louis Browns are playing one has only to take a "pipe" at Jimmy McAleer's hat and the position of his feet. If the Browns are in the lead the hat is tipped a trifle to the rear and the legs crossed in a careless fashion. When the Browns are up against it or in the rear McAleer always has his hat well to the front, and sometimes has his face buried in his hands as if in deep study.

Lajoie Does Not Argue.

Napoleon Lajoie is a man of action and few words. Larry gets into few arguments, gives his commands in an authoritative way, and they are always heeded. He watches the play from the bench, and during an exciting inning his face is a study.

"Muggsy" McGraw is one of the few managers in his big league whose motto is, "Win, no matter how it's done." McGraw relies mainly on his bulldozing tactics for success. Since Harry Pulliam took charge of the National league and the umpires got wise to McGraw, his star has considerably dimmed. In order to regain lost prestige he must win the pennant in the National league this year, and the odds are all against him.

Frank Chance is the man with the smile. In victory or defeat, Chance always looks happy, but the size of the smile is the very best indication of the result. If it covers the face, the Cubs have won; if it is just a sickly smile, then something has happened.

Billy Murray, the new manager of the Phillies, who was with Jersey City last year, is much after the style of Connie Mack. He is of a quiet disposition, has but little to say, and a rather sad face, that is considerably brightened by victory. Murray, however, always has something to say when he talks.

A peculiar characteristic of all the big league managers, especially those in the American league, is to get thin. There wasn't a mogul in the league who didn't drop from ten to thirty pounds during the season of 1906. Jimmy McAleer was the heaviest loser as to avoidulps. McAleer was in poor health all season.

MILEAGE IS FRIGHTFUL

Teams in the North-Cop Will Be on the Road About Half the Time.

The fan with a penchant for figures may dig some interesting facts out of the schedule of the Northern-Copper Country Baseball league. The scattered circuit of the Northern-Copper Country league has made that organization the butt of the efforts of the "funny" men who handle the sporting pages on more than one paper.

When one comes to look over the Northern-Copper Country league circuit, it certainly is a shoe-string affair. With but four teams in the league and 71 miles from one extremity to the other, there is more truth than poetry in the term "Grasshopper" league. The teams will have to do some jumping to each play 110 games in seventeen weeks on that circuit. The jump from Winnipeg to Houghton is broken only by Duluth and from Winnipeg to Duluth is 440 miles.

Although Winnipeg is the most remote of the towns in the league, it fares the best in the matter of mileage. The Winnipeg team, if the present schedule is strictly adhered to, will travel but 3,964 miles during the season. Duluth will go 4,904 miles. The Calumet team will cover 6,238 miles along the circuit and the Houghton team will be the champion travelers, at least, with 6,348 miles before them. That's traveling some for a four-club league.

Here is the way the teams will travel:

Houghton—To Winnipeg, four round trips, 5,568 miles; to Calumet, twenty-six round trips, 780 miles; total 6,348 miles.

Calumet—To Winnipeg, four round trips, 5,568 miles; to Houghton, eighteen round trips, 780 miles; total 6,348 miles.

Duluth—To Winnipeg, four round trips, 3,520 miles; Houghton, two round trips, 1,024 miles; between Houghton and Calumet, twelve round trips, 360 miles; total 4,904 miles.

Winnipeg—To Houghton, two round trips, 2,784 miles; to Duluth, one round trip, 880 miles; between Houghton and Calumet, ten round trips, 300 miles; total, 3,964.

The total team mileage of the league will thus be 21,444. At the rate of 2 cents a mile, the railroads of the circuit will receive from the league $5,145.56, divided among the different teams as follows: Houghton, $1,555.52; Calumet, $1,434.72; Duluth, $1,176.96; Winnipeg, $951.36.

Add the sleeper, dinner, hotel and incidental expenses, together with salaries, to those figures and it may be seen that the fans will have to dig for their quarters to keep the teams on their feet. But if good ball is forthcoming, the fans will dig and willingly.

O'DEA WITH LETHBRIDGE.

Ex-Duluth Manager Has Deserted the North-Cop League.

Duluth Herald: Coy Artie O'Dea appears to have made up his mind, at last. After flirting with the White Sox, Fond du Lac and goodness knows what, Artie has turned his dreamy eyes toward western Canada. Jack Morrison, who managed the Calumet team last year and threw a few easy ones from the south once in a while, has charge of the Lethbridge team of the Western Canada league. Artie looks good to John and when he held out a sheet of paper with some figures on it, John looked good to Artie. Artie grabbed, and Morrison is now waiting for the signed document. The last bulletin from Secretary Farrell of the National commission says that O'Dea has accepted terms with Lethbridge and accepting terms is about as good as signing a contract in the eyes of the national commission. So it looks like the land across the border for Artie.

CANDO SIGNS MEN.

Players Already Secured For Team That Will Represent That City.

Cando, N. D., April 10.—Cando, which is to be a member of the Central Dakota baseball league, has already got part of its team signed. Among the men that will play are the following:

Harry Spinney, of Hudson, Wis., one of the best all-around men that ever wore a Cando uniform, will be one of the regular pitchers. When not pitching Spinney will be seen elsewhere in the game, his batting insuring him a chance in all games. Spinney's record last year as a winning slab artist was a remarkable one.

Johnson, another Wisconsin boy, will help out in the pitching department. He is a new man in Cando circles, but comes very highly recommended and much is expected of him.

Ray Borrowman, last year's catcher, will officiate behind the bat. His hitting and strong throwing mark him as one of the best. Borrowman hails from Iowa.

First base will be well cared for by a new man named Church from Clear Lake, Wis., and Cando considers itself very fortunate to land him.

Floyd Foss, of Hudson, Wis., will hold down second base. His work for Cando last season was of such a high order as to cause him to be much sought after by the managers of other teams and there is joy in the local camp at his return.

The manager has men in view for both third and short and their contracts are expected any day. The remaining players will be announced in a few days.

Hugh Reynolds, of Hudson, Wis., has signed a contract for the season and will play left field. This will make his second season with Cando and his many fine plays last year assure all that his position will be well cared for.

Guy Bohlen, the new signed center fielder, is an experienced player with a good record. Bohlen hails from Mazza.

Will Robinson of Mayville, N. D., will play right field. Robinson is a good fielder and strong batter.

Jack Kendall, who will be remembered as Cando's crack first baseman of last year, has been signed by an Indiana Central league team. If he fails to make good in Indiana he will be given another trial at Cando.

KLING COMES IN.

Murphy Finally Captures the Star Catcher.

Chicago, April 10.—Johnny Kling, star catcher of the Chicago National league champions, is back in the fold and in all probability will be behind the bat in the opening game of the season at the West side grounds Thursday afternoon. This was the announcement made last night by President Murphy and later confirmed by Kling in Kansas City.

SMATHERS IS VINDICATED.

Jury in Lou Dillon Case Gives Verdict for Cup Holder.

New York, April 10.—Elmer E. Smathers will retain the gold cup won by his horse, Maj. Delmar, in a race with Lou Dillon in 1904, as the result of a verdict returned by the jury in the suit brought by the Memphis Trotting association.

Squires After Jeff.

Honolulu, April 10.—William Squires, the heavyweight pugilist of Australia, arrived here yesterday on the steamer Ventura, en route to San Francisco. In an interview he said that this was the first time he had been out of Australia, and expressed his willingness to meet and confidence in his ability to defeat Champion Jeffries.
