What's Said

Laura C. Birchall: On account of the meeting of the Convocation at Gethsemane cathedral on Monday and Tuesday, the private kindergarten will not meet on those two days. There will instead be sessions on Saturday, May 29 and on Monday, May 31, on which latter day the kindergarten will close for the summer vacation.

E. Geo. Guthrie, Rec.: There will be an assembly of Fargo Council of Royal and Select Masters on Monday night, May 24, at Masonic temple, for the reception of candidates and other business. A large class of candidates will be present for the degrees, and refreshments will be served at the close. Each companion is earnestly urged to be present and will be cordially welcomed.

Mrs. Henry Harte: I should be pleased to have some minister or other thinking person answer this question: If I were a divine being, all powerful, and knew all that was transpiring everywhere, and could by raising my hand, cause to cease forever all suffering to innocent human beings and all dumb animals, and refrain from raising my hand, would I not be more cruel than Nero, and more to be hated and despised than the worst tyrant that ever lived on this earth?

All Right.
 "That girl's all right," said the blond girl in the dressing room after she had looked everywhere for her overshoes. "The one who has just left, she's gone off with both the right overshoes and left me the left ones."—New York Times.

An Early Riser.
 "Are you an early riser, Pat?"
 "Am I? Sure, I'm such an early riser, sor, that I'm afraid some time I'll ketch meself gittin' up when I'm goin' to bed!"—Yonkers Statesman.

A Good Excuse.
 Little Willie—I don't need to take a bath tonight, mamma. Mamma—Why not? Little Willie—I was out in the rain today and got all wet.—New York Journal.

I speak the truth, not so much as I would, but as much as I dare, and I dare a little more as I grow older.—Montaigne

Patti Wanted Her Money.
 One of Adeline Patti's peculiarities was that she never sang a note until she had her salary either paid or so fully assured that there was no doubt as to her getting it. When she sang at the Academy of Music, in New York, at one time the manager was so busy that he forgot to pay her, but she always stoutly refused to sing until she had her salary.

One night at a quarter past 8 her representative went to him and said: "Madam is all dressed except her shoes. She will put those on when she gets the money."

The manager, half distracted, rushed about the house and succeeded in raising one-half the amount due the prima donna, which he hastily sent to her. But another quarter of an hour passed, and though the audience showed great impatience, there was no Patti, whereat the manager ran to her room.

"My dear madam, why do you not go on? I have sent you half the money, and the rest will reach you before the end of the first act."

Patti smiled dolefully, exhibited the tips of her feet and said: "You see, I have only one shoe on. I cannot go on the stage without the other. It would be quite impossible."

Almost crazed, the manager rushed out and discovered that the other half of the money could be raised.—New York Tribune.

The March of the Caravan.
 Perhaps the weirdest and most impressive of the many unwelcome memories that the traveler carries away with him from travel in the east is the recollection of the camel caravans which he has encountered at night.

Out of the black darkness is heard the distant boom of a heavy bell. Mournfully and with perfect regularity of iteration it sounds, gradually swelling nearer and louder and perhaps mingling with the tones of smaller bells signaling the rear guard of the same caravan.

The big bell is the insignia and alarm of the leading camel alone. But, nearer and louder as the sound becomes, not another sound and not a visible object appears to accompany it. Suddenly and without the slightest warning there looms out of the darkness, like the apparition of a phantom ship, the form of the captain of the caravan. His spongy tread sounds softly on the smooth sand, and like a great string of linked ghouls, the silent procession stalks by and is swallowed up in the night.—Persia and the Persian Question.

It is to Smile.
 In walking through a train a smile always relieves the tension of the moment, even if it is the train of your hostess' best dinner gown.

A smile is frequently used to conceal a vacuum. If it is a broad smile, however, it defeats its purpose.

If your newly married friends insist upon your holding the baby, grab the infant firmly by the back of the neck and smile. The parents will remove the child at once.

If your dinner partner is talking over your head, smile. He will probably grow uncomfortable immediately and change the subject.

Papers written by a Cass county student in the eighth grade examinations given Thursday and Friday, have started to arrive at the office of Supt. Mattie M. Davis and during the next several weeks deputies will be kept exceedingly busy marking the answers.

Owing to the May Musical festival, which opens Monday afternoon, the meeting of the Fortnightly club has been postponed till Monday, May 31, at the same time and place.

The Chicago Musical Leader has the following to say in regard to Francis Rosenthal, who will take the part of Elijah when it is presented by the Fargo Conservatory Musical festival, at the First Baptist church Monday evening, May 24. He will also be heard at the matinee Monday afternoon, May 24, to be given by the Soloists. "Mr. Rosenthal, whose voice has been favorably commented on by no less a critic than Walter Damrosch, displayed a magnificent basso in his singing of the Me-phisto role."

Pretty Slow.
 Horace L. Moore was lieutenant colonel of the noted Nineteenth Kansas cavalry. He could lead men for a long period without rest on a single ration of cheerful good humor than any other officer. Though not given to jokes, he was the reputed author of as many astonishers as the great Lincoln.

One time, on the march, he sent an orderly with a message to an officer at some distance. Before the man was out of hearing Moore shouted: "Hey, orderly! Come back here!"

He came galloping back, sitting limply in the saddle.
 Moore dropped his voice and, assuming a half confidential manner, inquired, "Orderly, in the course of your life have you ever seen a snail?"

"Yes, sir," was the astonished reply. "You met him, then," replied Moore, "for you'd never overtake one!"—Kansas City Journal.

His Business Ability.
 In the Adirondacks lives a man too lazy to work, but evidently of great business ability. One winter when he was sitting around smoking his family came so near starvation that some of his neighbors, who could ill afford to help him, took up a collection and bought for the suffering family a barrel of flour, a barrel of pork and a load of wood. They were not considered enough to cut the wood, but the business man knew how to manage.

He hired some of the neighbors who had not contributed to his donation to cut the wood and paid them with half the pork and half the flour.—Lippincott's.

Admirably Equipped.
 Cardinal Mezzofanti, the famous Italian linguist, who died at the age of seventy-five, knew and could speak more than fifty languages. He could entertain his English friends with specimens of the Yorkshire dialect and his French or German visitors with the patois of their respective countries.

"Dear me!" exclaimed Lord Byron, to whom this was told. "He ought to have been the custodian of the tower of Babel!"

Breakfast Months.
 A traveler stopped at a hotel in Greenland, where the nights are six months long, and as he registered asked a question of the clerk.

"What time do you have breakfast?"
 "From half past March to a quarter to May."—Harper's Weekly.

Wooden Dan mayes.
 An old playbill of the Kilkenny Theatre Royal for May 14, 1793, was a few years ago reprinted in the Western (England) Mail, and the following is an extract from it:

"The tragedy of Hamlet, originally written and composed by the celebrated Dan Haynes of Limerick and inserted in Shakespeare's works."

The playbill concludes with the interesting notice that "no person whatsoever will be admitted into the boxes without shoes or stockings." It is probable that this Irish claimant to the honor of the authorship of "Hamlet" is not so well known as his astounding claim might warrant.

Pretty Thin.
 "My dear," said a thin little Brighton man to his wife, "this paper says that there is a woman down in Devonshire who goes out and chops wood with her husband."

"Well, what of it? I think she could easily do it if he is as thin as you are. I have often thought of using you to peel potatoes with."

The thin man laid down his paper with a sigh that sounded like the squeak of a penny whistle.—London Answers.

Immediate Results.
 Mrs. Hinney—Jennie, phwa's that noise? James—The little Paddy Mulligan pokin' a stick into th' ribs o' Casey's goat. Mrs. Hinney—Ah, he's stopped now! James—No, mother; he's gun' yet. I think he won't stop till he strikes th' house.—Exchange.

MRS. KIMBALL IS SUMMONED

WIFE OF PORTER KIMBALL PASSED AWAY AFTER MAKING A GAME FIGHT FOR HER LIFE—HAS HOVERED AT DEATH'S DOOR FOR A WEEK.

After a brave fight for her life, lasting over a week, Mrs. Porter Kimball, 208 Tenth street north, succumbed to the grim reaper at an early hour this morning.

Mrs. Kimball was 53 years of age, and has lived her whole life in the northwest, having been born at Fairbault, Minn. She moved to North Dakota with her husband in 1882 and they settled at Hope, where they made their home until six years ago. At that time they moved to Fargo and they have lived here since that time.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Kimball is survived by the following seven children, the youngest being 7, and the oldest 27 years of age. They are: Perley C. Arthur N. Edgar P. Merritt, Eva Ruth, Grace and Clarence. Perley C. Kimball lives at Hope, N. D., and Edgar Kimball is visiting at the present time at Duluth. They will be here to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Kimball was also survived by three brothers, Chas. Merritt of St. Paul, Newton Merritt of Glyndon, Minn., and Elmer Merritt of Fort William, Ont. They have all been notified by telegram and are expected here in time for the funeral.

The cause of death was Bright's disease with which Mrs. Kimball has been suffering for years.

She was an estimable christian woman, a member of the First Baptist church of Fargo, and was a devoted wife and mother. She leaves a large circle of personal friends, both in Fargo and at Hope who will greatly grieve over her loss.

The funeral will be held from the home, 208 Tenth street north, at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. Rev. Herbert Tilden will officiate.

THE A. B. C. EXCELS.

Having attended other commercial schools, previous to my enrollment at Aaker's Business College, I believe I can say that my testimony is based upon actual experience and proof. I find that the A. B. C. does not advertise one thing and practice another, but that a person can rely upon it in every respect. The school is strictly modern in equipment, building and methods of teaching. With pleasure I recommend it to all those desiring a good business education. For direct information write to
