Evening Grain Letter.
 Chicago, Dec. 30.—Wheat.—Opening prices showed practically no change as compared with those of Saturday and the range throughout the session was within narrow limits, the trend being somewhat firmer after the publication of the visible figures. The market being still so largely of a professional character fluctuations are chiefly dependent upon such operations, as there is absolutely no news at the moment to cause any marked change in values.

Corn.—The trend of the market was again heavy, although prices showed only moderate recessions. Rallies are very feeble and was the final little upturn in wheat which probably caused the corn to steady.

Outs.—Some further covering in the December delivery caused that future to rule strong, and helped to sustain the deferred months. Receipts continue to show an increase proportionately larger than the demand.

Chas. E. Lewis & Co.

DEBATE AT CROOKSTON

Moorhead and Crookston High School Teams Will Discuss Public Ownership of Railroads.

Superintendent Edwards of the public schools has closed arrangements for two debates between the high schools of Moorhead and Crookston, the pro and con of the public ownership of railroads, each team to take both sides of the question. The first tussle will be with Crookston at the latter city about the middle of the month. The announced debate with the school team of Ada has been called off for reasons unavoidable.

The several public schools of Moorhead will reopen, following the Christmas vacation, one week from today, when work will begin and be continued in earnest for the remainder of the school year.

John Olson Has Ordered Suit Against The N. P. for Recovery of Damages for Loss of Feet.

As counsel for the complaining witness, John Olson, Senator Marden is preparing the papers in a suit for damages which the complaining witness seeks to recover from the Northern Pacific Railway Co.

The complaining witness alleges that he was run over by the defendant's shop train, as it was backing through the Moorhead yards, from Fargo to Dilworth, at the Fourth street crossing in his city and that he sustained serious injuries to both of his feet. The injured man was treated at the Moorhead hospital and only recently was discharged from the institution.
