CAN EAT SAUSAGES AND FRESH BREAD

When your stomach is weak or lacking in gastric juice, anything that you eat, no difference what it store. Now located at Bismarck, N. is, will sour on your stomach, raise the bile and acids to cover your food chaser. For particulars and photo- like oil on water, causing indigesgraphs of fountain and fixtures set up tion, dyspepsia, stomach nervousness and belching of sour poisons, which produce foul odors, nasty Crookston, Minn. taste, bilious headache, heartburn, intestinal griping and make you an object of misery. This is stomach trouble which cannot be overcome with ordinary digestive medicines. It is caused by fermentation of your food, which will be demedied at once by Pape's Diapepsin, a preparation pleasant to take and as harmless as candy, though it will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat.

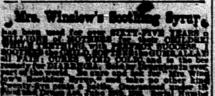

Indigestion is a result, not a cause of your trouble. If the stomach is sour and unhealthy, your food becomes tainted, and that's what is causing the indigestion and gas on stomach and other miseries. Pape's Diapepsin is an anti-acid, most powerful digestive and thorough regulat or for weak stomachs. These triangules will digest any kind of food you eat and will clense the stomach and intestines in a natural way, which makes you feel fine five minutes af-

Any good pharmacy here will supply you with a case of Pape's Diapepsin for fifty cents. Just reading about this remarkable stomach preparation will not help. You should go now and get a case. Put your stomach in full health and by tomorrow you will forget the misery of stomach trouble. Your case is no different from many others. It isn't stomach nerves or catarrh of the stomach, or gastritis or dyspepsia. It is food rotting-food fermentation-that's all-and takes about five minutes to overcome.

A CLASH WITH TURNER.

Retort of the Print Seller Who Longed to See the Artist.

Turner, happening one day to pass printshop, noticed in the window a copy of one of the engravings from his famous "Liber Studiorum." The print was in a very dirty, ragged state. Entering the shop, Turner asked to see the master and when the man came forward proceeded at once to blame him in no measured terms for having neglected so valuable a print and for having allowed it to become so disfigured. The man protested that it was no fault of his, as he did but offer the engraving for sale in the same state in which he had bought it from some other dealer.

This did not satisfy Turner, however, and he and the man continued arguing for some time.

At last the print seller lost all pa

"Perhaps, sir," he said, "when you have quite finished what you have to say you will kindly tell me what you have to do with this engraving and what business is it of yours whether the print is clean or dirty."

"This is what I have to do with it," answered the enraged artist—"it was I who drew the original of that print. My name is Turner, and I did every line of that engraving with my own hand. Now do you wonder that I am angry at seeing my work in so disgraceful a state?"

"Indeed, sir!" replied the print seller. "So you are the great artist himself! All my life-long it has been my wish that I might some day have the good fortune to see Mr. Turner. Now that I have seen him I sincerely hope that I'may never see him again.'

REGULATING BALLOONS.

France Made the First Laws Govern ing Aerial Traffic.

In 1871, when French balloons from beleaguered Paris were dropping on the "sacred soll" of Prussia, a royal decree declared them confiscate as contraband of war. And on the conclusion of peace a measure was passed through the German reichstag which forbade under penalty of death any future similar aerial violation of German territory during time of war.

So long ago as 1830, again, balloon ascents were made illegal in Turkey, so far as regards Constantinople and forty miles around, and in 1872 the prohibition was extended to include the entire Turkish empire. To France, however, belongs the distinction of having made the first laws for the regulation af aerial traffic. In 1784 it was solemnly decreed that nobody should be permitted to go up in a balloon "or any other kind of aerostatic machine" which was worked by burning spirits of wine or any other means of making

Later, in 1811, it was enacted in France that benceforth no balloon, whether free or captive, should be permitted to ascend with any species of furnace or stove, that no one should be allowed to ascend in a balloon unless he carried a parachute and that ascents were not to be begun later than one hour before sunset nor earlier than an hour after sunrise. Furthermore, no ascenta whatever were to be undertaken during the garnering of the nor for six weeks prior

The First New Woman.

"We new women are really not so them. "In the thirteenth century there were lots of us. Can anything 700 years old be new? The University of Bologna had for professor of jurisprudence Movella d'Andria. She was no more new than beautiful. Her I begin to dictate a letter to her she charms were so overpowering that the trustees made her lecture behind a curtain. When she lectured openly the students, their minds wholly occu pled with her beauty, could not attend to what she said. Madonna Manzolina was professor of anatomy, Matilda out of the office and try to talk over Tromboni taught languages and Marie Magnesi held the chair of mathematics. This university was by no means a second rate one. On the contrary, it was perhaps the leading university of Europe. It had 10,000 students."

Called For the Author.

The Friars, an organization of theatrical press agents, dined a manager more conspicuous for his shrewdness than for his culture. When the menu a speech notable not only for its grace and wit, but for some show of erudition. He sat down at last amid loud applause, when Augustus Thomas, at the same time joining the handclapping, shouted: "Author! Author!"-New York Tribune.

Emotional England.

Ours is a nation of sentiment. We are probably more sentimental in a tearful way than any other country to a reporter in Europe. The strongest man in England can weep when he hears a hymn porter. that used to be played on the organ of the village church when he was a boy, but there is not much depth in as he swung on to the last car and the tears. They are not very salt.-London Ladies' Field.

A Bank on Two Logs. "For more than thirty years the most popular woodsman's bank in Maine was a bank on two legs," says Major Holmes Day, author of "King Spruce." "Until he was over seventy years old Uncle Nate Swan was conductor on the Bangor and Piscataquis railroad, running between the city and Moosehead lake. With him rode the woods and driving crews. When they forgot themselves and made a racket on his train he used to cuff them into submission, and no man ever raised his hand against Uncle Nate. When the men came out of the woods with their pay most of them realized from bitter experience that the city folks would get all their money away from them in a few days. As soon as they would get aboard the train they would begin to strip ten dollar bills off their rolls and hand the money to Uncle Nate to 'sink' for them, banking it on call. They never forgot, nor did he, and in all the years there was never a dispute between Conductor Swan and any of his depositors. When they came back on his train they were sure Immediately after the production of The Woman In White," when all England was admiring the arch villainy of Fosco, the author, Wilkie Collins, received a visit from a lady who congratulated him upon his success with somewhat icy cheer and then said: "But, Mr. Collins, the great failure of your book is your villain. Excuse me if I say you really do not know a villain. Your Count Fosco is a very poor one, and when next you want a character of that description I trust that you will not disdain to come to me. I know a villain and have one in my eye at this moment that would far eclipse anything that I have ever read of in books. Don't think that I am drawing upon my imagination. The man is alive and constantly under my gaze. In fact, he is my own husband." The lady was the wife of Edward Bulwer Lytton.

Fixed Bayonets In London.

The privilege of marching through London with fixed bayonets is enjoyed by but very few regiments, such as the Royal fusileers, who trace their origin to Cromwell's trained bands, which in later years produced so famous a captain as John Gilpin. After the Royal fusileers, or perhaps even before them in point of regimental seniority, come the East Kent "Buffs," now the third of the line, who claim a similar city ancestry , while the Royal marines for some reason or other also enjoy the same fixed bayonet rights in the city. A battalion of the grenadier guards was once impressed to serve as marines, and hence they share the privilege of the men who are "soldiers and sailors too." This also explains why that grenadler battalion has for its tattoo "Rule Britannia"-as a souvenir of the time when its combative existence was of the amphibious kind.—London Standard.

The Mental Jog.

"There is a certain type of person," said the business man, "especially in New York, who seems unable to understand what is said to him-or herunless the statement or remark is prenew as we think we are," said one of fixed by some catchword, usually the word 'listen.'

> "For instance, I have a stenographer who simply stares at me in dumb amazement if I say anything to her without first saying 'Now, listen.' If will not write a word if I forget to give that mental jog. When I snap that at her she will scratch like mad. She is not the only one. The telephone girl cannot take a message unless it has that prefix. When I am the wire with her I must always begin, 'Now, listen,' or else she is hopelessly at sea and seems not to understand a word I say."-New York

Different In Books. In the books this is the way they

"Outside the wind mouned unceasingly, its voice now that of a child which sobs with itself in the night, now that had been properly discussed the guest of a woman who suffers her great pain of honor amazed his hosts by making alone, as women have suffered since life began, as women must suffer till life wears to its weary end. And mingled with the wailing of wind rain fell -fell heavily, intermittently, like tears wrung from souls of strong men." Outside the books we say:
