BISMARCK TAKES TWO FAST ONES FROM HALLIDAY

Crack North Branch Team Defeated in Two Wonderful Exhibitions of Baseball

SUNDAY ATTENDANCE SETS SEASON RECORD

1400 People See Champs Shut Out

Visitors in Errorless Game

—Goldie a Star

Bismarck more than retrieved its former defeats at the hands of Halliday in two wonderful exhibitions of baseball Saturday and Sunday, when the Champs took the visitors into camp by scores of 5 to 4 and 5 to 0, respectively. Without question, the big crowds which attended both games saw some of the best baseball which ever has been played in the capital city. Sunday's attendance, 1400, set a new record for the season.

NOTES—BY "WIN."

Joe Collins made his first appearance in the game this year and the table shows that he was very much in the game, in fact, Joe is playing a better and faster game than last year.

Grant, the new southpaw, made his first appearance and he will do, making ten strikeouts an astounding feat for a pitcher. He has made good and has won a place in the hearts of the fans.

Farmer, for the visitors, pitched a nice game, but errors back of him at critical times were disastrous.

A good deal of wrangling was indulged in over decisions of the umpires, who were very rank in a great number of the decisions given, one side getting about as much of it as the other.

At the beginning of the fifth inning L. Wasem, the catcher for the visitors, received a pitched ball on his ungloved hand, which split the fleshy part of his hand between the first finger and thumb, making a bad wound. At this point Ellis went in to catch and Gardner went to center field.

CHAMPION FOR SIXTEEN YEARS

KROMER PROVES VALUE OF CLEAN LIVING IN ATHLETICS AND BUSINESS

By PAUL PURMAN.

Sixteen years ago a youth of 20 went to his home in East Orange, N. J., with the news that he had won the bicycle championship of the world. He took with him the first money he had ever won on the board track.

A few days ago he lost his title to a youth of 20, then went out and broke his own record for the half mile.

He is Frank Kramer, a champion among champions—a man who for 16 years defended his title against all comers and in that time earned over $200,000 at a game where winnings are small as sport winnings go.

To win this meant that he worked hard at his profession all of the time. He still has the money. This means that he has saved his accumulations.

Together they mean the rule of success, clean living, economy and hard work.

Kramer's rules for success are worth remembering. They are worth while alike to the athlete, to the business man or to the young man just getting his start.

Go to bed early and rise early, get plenty of sleep, eat regularly of wholesome food, are the rules which Kramer has always followed.

Do not dissipate. Booze and body building don't make good bedfellows, neither do booze and business.

When Arthur Spencer, the Toronto youth, won the championship Kramer had held for many years, Kramer took him by the hand.

"You have won the championship at the same age I did," he said. "I hope you take care of yourself and keep it as long as I did."

SPORT GOSSIP

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington Americans, is considered one of the hardest losers in baseball. And Griffith's friends say he hates to lose an argument about as much as he dislikes to drop a ball game.

Washington recently lost a game to Detroit because of a close decision which gave Cobb a base on ball.

O'Loughlin was the umpire. Griffith met O'Loughlin and his partner after the game.

"You two highwaymen looked fine in there today," said the Nationals' manager.

"What's the matter, Griffith?" asked Cobb.

"That third strike you missed on Cobb cost us the game, that's all."

Des Moines, Ia., July 21.—Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington Americans, has his eye on several local Western league players.

He has notified Tom Fairweather that he is going to "look them over" personally soon.

Detroit, July 21.—Howard Ehmke, the tall twirler of the Detroit Americans, is now considered the nemesis of the Boston club.

Ehmke has beaten the world's champions three times this season and in these games, his opponents have collected but one run.

Wausau, Wis., July 22.—The 18th annual Wisconsin state transpotheaters tournament, opening here yesterday for a three days' shoot, promises to outclass any previous tournament of this organization.

Indications point to a record entry of amateurs, professionals and women shots. More than $1,400 in prizes will be awarded.

The tournament will terminate on July 24, when Wisconsin amateur marksmen will compete for the position of winner or runner-up, entitling entry in the grand American handicap to be held at Chicago on Aug. 20-24.

Racine, Wis., July 23.—Joe Burman, the Chicago bantam, who won fame and fortune in eastern rings, made his first appearance before his "home folks" today when he met George Thompson, the Pacific coast champion, in a 10-round contest.

Special trains will bring a big crowd of Chicagoans. Thompson, who is fast and scientific, received most of his ring schooling under the direction of Willie Ritchie, the former lightweight champion.

St. Louis, Mo., July 23.—Fielder Jones, manager of the St. Louis Americans, considers George Sisler, his youthful first base star, the "perfect ball player."

"Sisler can do anything Cobb or Speaker or any other player can do," Jones said. "He can hit as far as anybody, field as fast as anybody, and is a dash of lightning on the bases."

What more can you add? They say that Sisler is the most modest player in either major league. He neither smokes, drinks or chews.

Sisler is a star with the bat, but injured his thumb tagging a player a few weeks ago and the injury was so painful that he had difficulty in gripping the club. But with the sprain entirely healed, Sisler expects to be clubbing his way up near the top of the American league list of hitters.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 23.—Baseball players always give umpires the "worst of it" on close plays in the opinion of William Friel, manager of the Milwaukee club of the American association. Friel was a player for years, then a manager and umpire.

Since his experience as an umpire, Friel said he became aware of a few things he didn't know existed in the old days.

"It's against the rules for a baseball player to be fair with an umpire," Friel explained. "A player doesn't want to know that an umpire was right; he doesn't want the public to know it either."

"After I became manager of the Milwaukee club, a friend wrote me, asking if I was going to jump on the umpire. I told him it would be as tough for me to go through a ball game without yelling at the umpire as it would be for George Cohan to go through a play without waving the American flag."

"I am going to take all I can get on the ball field. It puts life into the game to roar a bit even though the umpire is absolutely right."

Naturally.

"Motorists never have a good word to say for pedestrians."

"Of course not. It is the nature of things for them to be continually running pedestrians down."

It's Merit.

"You call this portrait of your wife a beautiful work of art? I must say it is not a speaking likeness of her."

"That's the beauty of it."

FRANKLIN WAS A VEGETARIAN

Declares He Saved Money With Which to Buy Books and Gained by Reason of Clear-Headedness.

Franklin told us how to outwit the beef trust, save money, improve our health and enrich the brain all at one stroke. As nobody else could possibly tell it so well as Ben himself, I quote him, writes Girard in the Philadelphia Ledger.

"When about sixteen years of age I happened to meet with a book, written by one Tryon, recommending a vegetable diet. I determined to go into it. My brother, being yet unmarried, did not keep house, but boarded himself and his apprentices in another family.

"My refusing to eat flesh occasioned an inconvenience, and I was frequently child for my singularity. I made myself acquainted with Tryon's manner of preparing some of his dishes, such as boiling potatoes or rice, making luscious pudding and a few others, and then proposed to my brother that if he would give me weekly half the money he paid for my board, I would board myself. He instantly agreed to it, and I presently found that I could save half what he paid me.

"This was an additional fund for the buying of books, but I had another advantage in it. I made the greater progress from that greater clearness of head and quicker apprehension which generally attend temperance in eating and drinking."

And he kept on thinking so clearly that he was one of the most active reformers of the constitution of the United States when he was eighty-one years old.

SUPERSTITIONS OF THE MOON

Luck Depends Upon Various Lunar Stages, According to Many Popular Beliefs.

It is considered unlucky to see the new moon for the first time through glass. To see it outdoors over the left shoulder is lucky; over the right shoulder is unlucky.

Letters asking a favor should be written in the full of the moon. In fact, the full of the moon is lucky for all events. A birth or marriage in a full moon is indicative of prosperity.

It is considered unlucky to have the eyelashes cut during the wane of the moon. They will not grow well, but will grow away and fall out. To have them grow long they should be cut while the moon is on the increase.

Animals born when the moon is crescent-shaped will be weak and short-lived; those born at the full of the moon will be strong and long-lived.

Trees are thought likely to decay when cut during a waning moon. The bacon of a hog killed in a waning moon is also said to waste much in the smoking.

First British Martyr.

St. Alban has the honor of being regarded as the first British martyr. The bloody persecution of Dioclesian, which raged in other parts of the Roman empire with such terrible fury that Dioclesian declared the Christians exterminated, was kept in check in Gaul and Britain by Constantine, who governed those provinces with almost royal authority. But some few are alleged to have suffered, and among them St. Alban was first. He sheltered a priest, whose name was Amphibalus, who is said to have converted him, and when he could conceal the priest no longer, he assisted his escape by changing clothes with him. For this act Alban was brought before the Roman governor, condemned and beheaded.

How the Tornado "Works."

Pages of magazine and columns of newspaper space have been devoted to graphic and vivid, if not lurid, descriptions of the tornado in action, says the Kansas City Star. But William Soda, a farmer who never "writ" a line of literature in his life, expressed it all in a single short paragraph, in a perfectly clear and understandable way, when he was asked by a reporter about the twister that had made a complete wreck of his home:

"How long did the storm last?" "Feller," he replied, "I don't believe she worked more than two minutes, but while she worked she worked like the devil."

Any American can get that without a diagram.

No Hurry.

The telephone bell rang with anxious persistence. The doctor answered the call.

"Yes?" he said.

"Oh, doctor," said a worried voice, "something seems to have happened to my wife. Her mouth seems set, and she can't say a word."

"Why, she may have lockjaw," said the medical man.

"Do you think so? Well, if you are up this way some time next week I wish you would stop
