

UNCLE SAM HAS THROTTLE, SAYS RAIL DIRECTOR

McAdoo Tells Railway Men They Are Working for Their Country

PLEADS FOR PATRIOTISM

Declares They Can Make it Possible to Lick Kaiser Ten Times Quicker

Washington, D. C., July 24.—The following address was made by Director General McAdoo of railroads to the railroad ship-workers at Washington, D. C.

"Ladies and gentlemen, fellow railroad workers: I wish I could make a speech to you but I overstrained my voice in three Liberty loan campaigns, and doctors have forbidden me to make any speeches for a short time; but I do want to tell you and the he associated with you in doing a very great work for our country.

"To us railroad men has been assigned one of the biggest parts in this war. It depends on us whether or not the Kaiser will be licked ten times as quickly as he otherwise will be. I know that we are going to lick him ten times as quickly because the railroad men of the United States are going to do their duty to Uncle Sam.

"You are all Uncle Sam's servants now—no private interests control the railroads any more. Uncle Sam is in command, and he has his hand on the throttle. He is running the railroads and you are going to help him. You are going to help him make a success of it. I want to give you all just and fair treatment as I know we are all servants of the American people. You and I alike, and it depends upon the way we discharge our responsibilities, whether or not the American people are going to treat us right.

"The strength of our position must always rest upon our opinion. What I do for you from time to time must be done with reference to what is just, not alone to you, but to the public who have got to pay the bill. I want to give you a square deal, but the public wants to give a square deal as well.

RETURNS FROM PRIMARIES NOT YET COMPLETE

State Canvassing Board May Be Unable to Do Its Duty Tomorrow

While under the law tomorrow is the last date upon which the state canvassing board may meet to canvass the results of the recent primaries, which must be officially registered not more than thirty days following the date of election, Secretary of State Hall today still lacked official reports from Morton and Mountrail counties. The official reports from Emmons, Nelson and Williams counties came in only this afternoon. Thursday was the date set for the meeting of the state canvassing board. If Morton and Mountrail have not turned in their reports by this time the canvassing board will order an inquiry into the reason for this delay. Ordinarily, unofficial reports are received ten days to two weeks in advance of the official. This year, however, not more than two thirds of the county auditors have filed their unofficial reports with the secretary of state, and the usual unofficial tabulation is not available. No contests are so close that the official canvass is expected to make any change in the result, but these statistics always are sought by those politically wise as a means of figuring out the dope. Indications are that this year there will be considerable figuring.

County canvassing boards are required by law to meet on the 16th of the month to canvass the result.

GROSS FRAUD IN ARMY CONTRACT IS UNCOVERED

Washington, July 24.—Fraud and gross profiteering has been uncovered in many contracts for army shoes, shirts, leggings, and other soldiers' supplies and equipment as a result of the investigation by army intelligence and department of justice agents, it was learned today. Information shedding light on methods by which manufacturers were able to evade rigid inspection tests and pass inferior articles to fill government contracts is understood to have been gathered from some of the confessions of some of the eighteen raincoat manufacturers under arrest in New York, on bribery, fraud or conspiracy charges.

Action will be taken against other manufacturers as rapidly as specific proof of fraud is developed, it was said. Officials plan to give publicity to the tactics. The reason for this, it was explained, is that the government agents have evidence of irregularity and profiteering in hundreds of contracts without the substantiation of proof on which conviction might be based.

Rich in Misfortunes.
At the end of life a man finds himself rich, not so much by his fortune as by his misfortunes. The Persians had a vase of glass, when empty was colorless, but when filled with wine flashed forth many rare pictures. So a bosom empty of a heart of pain makes a lusterless life, but a bosom in which a heart bleeds reveals hidden virtues.—Tilton.

CANTONEMENT COMMANDERS FIND ATHLETICS A WONDERFUL AID IN TRAINING OF SOLDIERS

Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, head of the athletic division of the commission on training camp activities, and four Contonement commandants who have endorsed army athletics: Above, Brig. Gen. H. A. Greene, Camp Lewis, Wash.; Maj. Gen. Henry T. Allen, Camp Travis, Texas. Below, Maj. Gen. F. Morrison, Camp Fremont, Cal.; Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, Camp Dix, N. J.

By PAUL PURMAN.
"Waterloo was won on the football fields of Eaton."
This was the Duke of Wellington's comment after the defeat of Napoleon and never has his truth been realized so much as in the present war. British, Canadian and Australian soldiers, the greater part of whom had been athletes, soon proved that man for man they were better than German soldiery.

American troops have proved the value of athletic training. When America first entered the war elaborate preparations were made for athletic activities in cantonments and this has been successfully carried through by the commission on training camp activities, headed by Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft.

The value of athletics in developing our soldiers into two-fisted fighting men has been attested by commanding officers at many camps in state.

ments made to the commission. The opinions follow:
Major General Charles H. Muir, commanding officer, 28th Division, Camp Hancock, Georgia, says:

"Athletics as carried on at this camp have had a very good effect in developing the fighting efficiency of the soldiers by getting them in good physical shape and keeping them contented."

Major General A. P. Blockson, 34th Division, Camp Cody, N. M., says: "Athletics develop initiative, agility, co-ordination, aggressiveness and endurance. Added to this they teach quick, accurate thinking under stress."

Brigadier General W. H. Sage, 38th Division, Camp Shelby, Miss., says: "In my mind the importance of athletics in the army is secondary in importance only to drills and military instruction."

Colonel M. B. Stewart, chief of staff, 76th Division, Camp Devens, Mass., says:

"Physical fitness is the foundation upon which fighting efficiency is built, and anything that contributes to the upbuilding of the soldiers' physique is in a corresponding degree contributing to his fighting efficiency."

Brigadier General Frank L. Winn, 89th Division, Camp Funston, Kansas, says:

"Athletics increase the endurance and self-confidence of the man, and it affords a form of relaxation and recreation which is so much needed by the fighting men during their periods of inactivity. Athletics has a place in the training of fighting men clearly as important as skill at arms.

All phases of training must go hand in hand."

Major General Henry T. Mullen, 90th Division, Camp Travis, Texas, says: "Boxing undoubtedly is one of the most valuable forms of physical training which a soldier can have; especially is this true in the case of the bayonet man whose physical power is an absolute essential and whose greater speed and punch than his opponent make him a sure winner in a bayonet fight."

Major General H. A. Greene, 91st Division, Camp Lewis, Washington, says: "One has only to compare the appearance of this command today with that presented at the time they reported for duty here, to be convinced of the value of athletic training in developing fighting men."

Major General J. F. Morrison, 8th Division, Camp Fremont, California, says:

"Team work, the team spirit, company feeling and pride are very important in fitting men for the test of battle. Developing the above is greatly helped by teams from one organization competing with others." Major General H. L. Scott, commanding general, Camp Dix, N. J., says: "In connection with the representative furnished this cantonment by your commission to assist in the prom-

Irish Water Power May Be Developed

Dublin, July 24.—There is satisfaction in Ireland at the announcement made in the report of the electric power supply committee that it is intended to make an investigation of the sources of power in Ireland for the supply of cheap electricity. The small industrial towns of Ulster would specially benefit by such a supply.

A large electric station is being erected by the Belfast corporation to supply the Belfast area with electricity, but no provision has hitherto been made for the distribution of electricity on a large scale over the industrial areas of Ulster outside Belfast.

The Sun-Ray Lens

More Than Meets the New North Dakota Law

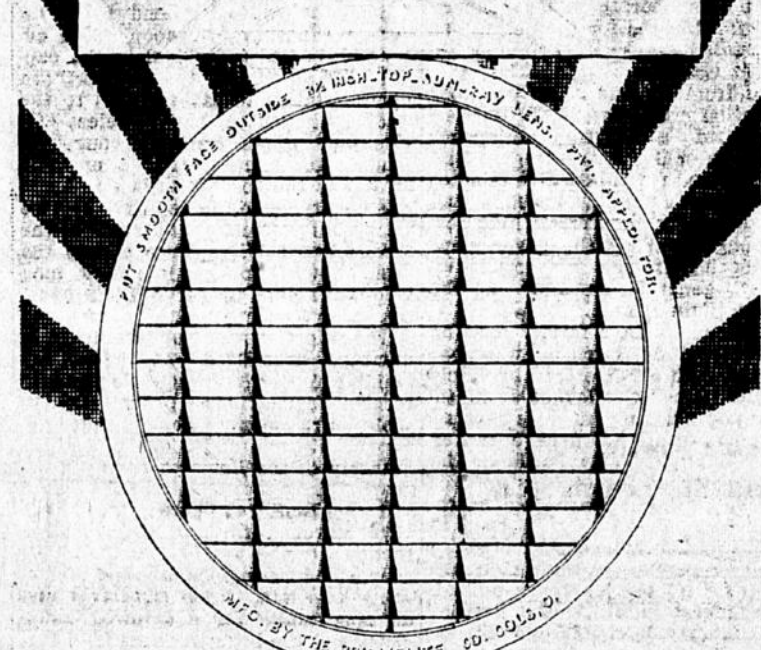

The Sun-Ray lens more than meets all the requirements of the new North Dakota law. It gives you all the advantages of the diffusive lens plus the good points of the refractive type.

It throws a strong driving light far ahead along the road and in addition gives a wide side lighting that clearly illuminates all objects on both sides of the road. It absolutely meets the 42-inch requirement.

Yet with all these advantages—all these high priced features, it costs only $2.00 a set in all sizes.

Put Sun-Rays in your lamps. If your dealer can't supply you send direct to us.
