

EXPERT IDENTIFIES SEVEN SPECIES OF MOSQUITOES HERE

Says June Rains Start Hordes Coming Out of Breeding Spots Near City

Seven types of mosquito have been identified here in the investigations carried on over three days by W. P. Komp, the Greenwood, Miss., expert of the Public Health Service.

Following search for wigglers in the left-over flood water on the Wachter tract near Fort Lincoln and the breeding spots up the river near the Milan Ward farm, Mr. Komp and A. L. Bayonne, state sanitary engineer, visited the swales around Mandan, Thursday, and made a closer study of the situation. These swales are the source of hordes of the pests, their stagnant waters and weeds being ideal breeding places.

Today Mr. Komp visited the weather observatory and took down data covering several years, on winds, precipitation and humidity. What he learned confirmed his theory that it is the June rains that start the hordes of mosquitoes. They provide the moisture and fill low places and depressions with water that multiplies breeding puddles.

Mr. Komp will obtain some maps and aerial views showing the character of the terrain and also flood conditions, then he will leave on his return to Greenwood, Saturday morning. He has laid the basis for a further study of the mosquito situation if it be desired to take steps in the nature of permanent relief. For this summer relief can be of an alleviating scope only, as it is too late in the season to head off the pests now. The health authorities here will receive a report from him through the public health service when he gets back to his official quarters.

CHICAGO GANGSTERS VICTIMIZE ANOTHER

Third Murder in 36 Hours, the Most Brutal of the Trio, Probed by Cops

Chicago, May 31.—(AP)—Another murder—the third in 36 hours and the most brutal of the three—was done last night when a man walked up to Ettore Quaterri sitting in front of his little grocery, and fired four bullets into his body.

Quaterri did not die at once. He was conscious when police arrived, and able to talk. But he would not say who shot him; and he denied knowledge of any reason—gang connection, black hand threats or personal vengeance—for the shooting.

The groceryman was 54 years old. He was married, the head of a family of three children, the oldest being 20. Yesterday police found the body of Dominick Costa, known as a thief and stool pigeon. He had been down to death in gang fashion—taken for a "ride," beaten, shot and then dumped into a field on 33rd street. A few hours earlier Thomas McElligott was killed in a pistol duel in the basement barroom of a downtown grill. McElligott was often arrested in connection with "rackets" and crimes of violence.

The kidnapping, apparently for ransom, of "Kid" Austin was another of the flares sent up by gangsters over the holiday. An anonymous telephone call to the detective bureau said: "Don't worry about that Austin guy. He is just being detained until his friends fix up a purse of $20,000."

MacIntyre Dancers Revue Is Success

A program characterized by some exceptionally fine singing and dancing numbers was that given last evening at the city auditorium as the MacIntyre Dancers Revue. The entertainment was divided into four parts with excellent scenic and lighting effects throughout.

The opening number, "Children of the Moon," in which 28 children participated was one of the outstanding acts. A delightful fantasy, it gave opportunity for tap, toe, and clog dancing, as well as group dances of the butterflies, flower girls and fairies. Dorothy Barneck as the king, Marilyn Ruth Duemeland as the queen and Ruth Coghlan as the jester, were very good.

"On the Links," a novelty sketch, followed. The "raggedy" dance depicted by Veronica Weststein and Ronald MacIntyre was well done as was the tap dancing by Inez Landers and Mr. MacIntyre.

For the classical dance group, Mary Slater gave interpretative Indian dances, and her sister Alice Slater, sang "The Indian Love Call." Miss Weststein and Mr. MacIntyre appeared in the Argentine Tango and each appeared in solo dances as did Marian Slater and Gwen Pilmor. "India," a mystery dance-play, was built around the theft of the famous emerald in a temple near Calcutta. The gem, guarded by a priestess (Veronica Weststein), is stolen by an explorer (Ronald MacIntyre), who accidentally finds the temple. He gains the affection of the priestess in order to steal the gem, but is later killed when he refuses to return it.

The "Song of India," by a chorus of Bismarck women, and "Allah's Holiday," by J. Robinson, were two very enjoyable musical numbers. Feature dances were the "Dance of Death," and the "Dance of Exultation." Peter Culbertson as the idol, and Tom and John Culbertson as the slaves, and Inez Landers, Gwen Pilmor, Elsie Slater, Alice Sarheim, Hazel Hedstrom as the attendants, were other members of the cast.

In the chorus were Mesdames L. R. Friske, J. A. Larson, Jennie Thompson, Graham, Arthur Bauer, H. J. Duemeland, W. G. Childs and Grace Durvey Morris.

Mrs. Clara Morris played a number of piano novelties during the evening.

South Carolina Is 'Marry-Land' for Busy Judge Smith

York, S. C., May 31.—(NEA)—There was a time when this town was called Yorkville. The 'ville was dropped some 14 years ago. And now exponents of change are considering still other names. They want to call it "Cupid's Corner," "Gretna Green," "Marryville," or something of the sort. Here's why:

In this town of 5,000, there have been more than 5400 marriage licenses issued, and marriage ceremonies performed, in the last two years. And that, York is confident, is a record not only for South Carolina, but for every county south of the Mason-Dixon line.

It doesn't mean, of course, that everybody in York has been married twice in two years. It means simply that York is to matrimony what Reno, Nev., is to divorce. It's a famous "hitching-post."

Where It's Cheaper to Wed

There are two perfectly adequate reasons why about-to-be-married lovers flock to York. One of them has to do with its geographical location, and South Carolina marriage laws. In the hard-hearted dominion of North Carolina, just across the border, a license for wedded bliss costs in the neighborhood of $5, while medical examinations for two and other bothersome formalities are like a rain in the total up to a week's pay check.

An auto ride and $2.50 is all that's necessary in South Carolina. What more natural than that Tar Heels should slip across the border to be tied.

The other reason—and the reason why so many select York in preference to other border towns—is Probate Judge G. P. Smith, of York county.

Judge Smith is easily the champion marrier below the Mason-Dixon line.

He is urbane, chivalrous, kindly and sincere, a gentleman of the old South, a former state senator. His ceremonies are marked by dignity and decorum. From all walks of life they pour in, the men blushing and stammering a bit, the women nonchalant and carefully casual, to take their vows.

But not all of them get licenses. Despite the laxity of South Carolina marriage laws, Judge Smith uses discretion. He refuses licenses to minors, or to couples obviously ill-fitted for each other.

And when Judge Smith is away, there is always his clerical secretary, Miss Bessie Wiley. She has wedded as many as 18 couples in one day, which is believed to be a record for a woman.

LAZY MAN'S WATCH

New York.—A wrist watch shortly to be introduced on the market winds itself. The watch works by means of a weighted segment pivoted in the center which, swinging with the movement of the arm, moves a gear connected with the main spring. When this spring is fully wound a friction spring disengages the winding action.

FIREMEN LIKED THAT

Bayonne, N. J.—Edward Farrell, a delirious patient at Bayonne hospital, was responsible for a sleepless night for firemen here recently. He wandered about and pulled a fire alarm, sounding the warning at fire headquarters and repeating it over the local circuit. Six companies were dispatched to the scene of the false alarm.

CARPIO PASTOR DIES

Minot, N. D., May 31.—(P)—Rev. Alf Hendrickson, 64, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church at Carpio, died in a Minot hospital yesterday.

TILDEN STAGES HARD FIGHT TO WIN MATCH

American Net Ace Loses First Two Sets to Baron De Murgurio, Italy

Paris, May 31.—(AP)—Big Bill Tilden won one of the greatest uphill battles of his tennis career today, defeating Baron H. L. Dekorpurgo of Italy in the quarter-finals of the French championships after losing the first two sets. The scores were 9-11, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2, 8-6.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

THE TROLLEY CONTROVERSY

Editor Tribune: I was sorry to read in tonight's Tribune (Tuesday) that the old "trolley car controversy" has bobbed up again.

It seems to me there are lots of other things in Bismarck that could be cleaned up and disposed of that would really be worth while doing, in as much as the city would be benefited and also the citizens.

It is a true fact that our old trolley is not an ornament, but I can not see why there is so much howl about, as it really is a source of service to a great many. I think it would be inconsiderate of those who take the trolley away—inconsiderate because the capitol building is located so far away from the homes of those who must either walk the long distance several times a day or hire taxis. Perhaps the trolley is a joke. That's very well for folks who need not depend upon it; but how about those who do depend on it? I am not writing this because the trolley is necessary to me or mine. It is not—though I use it many times.

I think the joke is that a city as large as Bismarck can not stand a single street car, or cannot manage more.

When the thermometer shows that the weather is "cold"—or, in other words, when the mercury has dropped out of sight or is hovering around 25 or 30 degrees below—then is the time that folks are glad to ride in that old trolley. And when I think how obliging our skipper is in bad days, stopping at convenient spots along the way so that the passengers may get on or off conveniently, I think we should vote him a permanent job. If the citizens object to this old trolley let us get a new one.

A can not see that the tracks on Fourth street are such a nuisance. Folks who buy property on Fourth street know the tracks are there, and if they object so strenuously I think it's from a selfish motive.

I think that a matter of this kind should be decided wholly upon the basis of the good of the community. Selfish personal reasons should not be considered at all.

As far as I can see or understand, the street car is doing more good than harm.

"Traffic congestion!" That is a joke. One messy street car causing confusion and traffic congestion!

Of course, if the city wishes to listen to a few property owners and act on their complaints I suppose those who really need that street car wouldn't have much chance at being heard, and of course a vote would be one way of settling the matter.

But a vote might be disastrous also to the "traveling public." First, because there are a lot of people in Bismarck, a lot who never need the street car. Second, there are a lot of people living on Fourth street who want to take the car away, also a lot of merchants who wish it bad luck.

So the only ones who would vote for the old trolley remaining are those who earn their daily "bread at the capitol building, and perhaps a few others who wish to see fair play.

I am thinking only of the capitol workers, in terribly cold weather especially, and at all times throughout the year.

I trust the citizens of Bismarck will think the matter over. Why take away the old street car and just open the way to "taxi business prosperity?"

Everyone knows the taxi companies would harvest rich returns, but what about the convenience of our capitol workers?

"And Now I just order Barker's Doughnuts"

It was at the Wednesday Bridge Party and Mrs. Brown was talking about her other half—

"Henry's recreation is eating. How he would love to catch me at my baking, for he'd sing out in that same voice of his—I want a girl like Mother was, just to tease me you know."

The way he raved about his Mother's doughnuts you would think she made them of 16-karat gold. But now I just order Barker's Doughnuts and even he admits they're better than his Mother's."

Barker's Cake Doughnuts are so light and crispy that you will be surprised at the way each bite seems to float away in your mouth.
