

PRISON SENTENCES LAND DEPARTMENT TRESPASS POLICY

Rolette Countians Sent to Jail for Cropping Trees on State Property

Inauguration of a new policy in dealing with persons who willfully trespass on state land was announced here, today, by Land Commissioner W. E. Byerly, following a recent survey made while conducting listings of state-owned property.

In the past, the land department has made financial settlements with persons taking a large quantity of wood from state land for other purposes, Byerly said. In the future such trespassers will be prosecuted and jail terms asked if it is apparent that the trespassing was done willfully.

The first person to tell the weight of the law under the new policy is Joseph Hennaucoeur, Rolette county, sentenced to a two-year prison term for grand larceny. Hennaucoeur admitted taking a large quantity of wood from state land in Rolette county. Byerly said he was making a business of cutting down fine young trees and selling them for fence posts. If he can find the persons whom Hennaucoeur was selling the posts and can prove that they knew they were buying stolen property, Byerly said, he will ask that they be prosecuted also.

Joseph Delorme, Jr., and Freeman Bejarde each received 30-day prison sentences in connection with the same deal.

"Hennaucoeur's operations practically ruined the timber on three quarters of state land," Byerly said. "It did not belong to him and he had no more right to take that timber than if it belonged to a private citizen. State land is held in trust for the benefit of the people of the state and no citizen has the right to destroy its value. We cannot do anything else than prosecute them."

At present, he said, the department handles some $12,000,000 in farm loans and under the present arrangement present appropriations it is impossible to do the work as efficiently as it would be handled by a private concern. He contends that the department lacks facilities for obtaining reliable and unbiased information to guide it in handling an enormous loan business and it is too expensive to send investigators out from Bismarck to check up on individual matters.

The reorganization which he contemplates would place the department in various parts of the state and charge each agent with looking after the business of the department in his area.

The agents would inspect and appraise property here which loans were asked; check up on failures to pay loans; inspect state-owned land to ascertain if trespassers were reducing its value and represent the department in other matters.

Such agents would be valuable, Byerly said, because of their knowledge of local conditions, and would give proper service at low cost since their location in the centers of the various districts would reduce traveling expenses.

BIG COWS USUALLY LEAD AS PRODUCERS

Records of 220,000 Yearlings Set Conclusion in Favor of Size in Dairy Kine

A study made by the Bureau of Dairy Industry of about 220,000 yearling individual records of dairy herd improvement association cows shows that within the breed the larger cows on the average excel the smaller ones in the production of milk and butterfat. The big cows also produced a higher income over cost of feed in spite of the fact that they ate more roughage and grain.

A comparison of the large cows of one breed with the large cows of another breed and the small cows of one breed with the small animals of another breed reveals little difference between the breeds in production and income over feed cost.

Following is the difference in percentages between the butterfat production of the small cows and large cows within the various breeds: Ayrshire, grades 30.8 per cent, purebreds 46.2 per cent; Guernsey, grades 20.1 per cent, purebreds 18.8 per cent; Holstein, grades 33.6 per cent, purebreds 50.8 per cent; Jersey, grades 32.9 per cent, purebreds 34.2 per cent; Shorthorn, grades 25.5 per cent; Silky, grades 25.5 per cent.

However, size of the cow is only one of the factors which influence production and income over feed cost. It is not wise, therefore, to buy dairy cows on the basis of size alone. But if two cows are equal in all other respects the larger cow may be expected to produce more milk and return a larger income.

'No Medicine In the World Like Konjola'

Lady Suffered Four Years From Stomach Trouble—Now Is Well and Happy

What a glorious thing it would be for all who suffer and who would be well again to know of the tens of thousands of men and women who found their first and only relief from the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels, and from rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness, through the use of Konjola.

MRS. JANE JENNINGS
Konjola, the new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of roots and herbs, long known for their medicinal value. It is a recognized fact that unless a medicine brings results, reliable people will not voluntarily and sincerely endorse that medicine. The files of Konjola are filled with countless thousands of endorsements from happy people made well by this surprise to believe that what Konjola has done for these people it will do for you—for everyone? Take, as a typical example of Konjola at work, the case of Mrs. Jane Jennings, 511 South Front street, Mankato, Minn., who made the remarkable statement a few days ago:

"There is no medicine in the world like Konjola. My experience with this medicine proved that to me. Indigestion caused me no end of suffering for the past four years. I ate and drank as usual, but for every bite of food reacted unhealthily and made me so uncomfortable that I had no desire to eat. The slightest foods caused gas bloating and severe indigestion pains. Cramping spells made it almost impossible for me to stand up. Finally I became subject to dizzy spells and I had to hold onto something for support. Nervousness was the natural result and this prevented me from getting any sound, refreshing sleep. Don't think that I suffered without trying everything recommended for my ailments. That is why I was so discouraged, because nothing ever helped me."

"But all that is ended now and I owe it to my new glorious health to Konjola. I read so much about this medicine in the papers that I realized I was making a mistake not to give it a trial. Just as I was told it would, Konjola went right to the source, the root, of my ailments, and before I realized it I was feeling much better. When I tried eating foods that never digested before and they caused no trouble I realized health was just around the corner. Soon afterward all trace of stomach trouble vanished. Then my nerves were strengthened. I sleep, eat, and feel like a different person. No wonder Konjola has a million friends, it really deserves a billion."

"That is why Konjola has been called a boon to suffering humanity. It is said that no sufferer can afford not to give this medicine a trial. Konjola merely asks a chance to make you well."

The Konjola Man is at the Hall Drug Store, Third and Broadway, this city, where he is daily meeting the public introducing and explaining this new and different medicine. Free samples given—Adv.

DAKOTA SCIENTISTS REVEAL SECRETS OF LIGNITE STRUCTURE

N. D. Academy Meeting Today at Fargo Also Gives Attention to Crop Topics

Fargo, N. D., May 2.—(P)—Reports on numerous scientific studies into North Dakota's natural resources will be made by members of the North Dakota Academy of Science at their annual meeting, which opens here today.

Other subjects are purely scientific in nature and will be presented under titles which are simple enough to the educator but which leave the average citizen mystified. For instance there will be a report by Prof. John L. Hurdley, of the University of North Dakota, on the "Relative intensities of the positive rays from the isotopes of lithium" and another by John L. Froemke, of the state university, on the condensation of binary mixtures. Froemke was assisted in his studies by E. K. Anderson and C. R. Bloomquist, both of the university.

Subjects of more practical interest to the layman include discussions of the critical oxidation of Dakota lignite; "The microstructure of Dakota lignite" and "Studies on the benzene soluble extract of Dakota lignite." The first will be presented by Prof. A. W. Gauger and George A. Brady of the University of North Dakota; the second by Professor George H. H. Iverson and the third by Clarence J. Belcher, the state university, who worked on the subject in company with Prof. E. E. Harris.

Other subjects on today's program are: "The relation of production to price of North Dakota crops," by W. A. Cleveland, of the state agricultural college; "Comparative costs of marketing large and small crops," by Cleveland; "The effect of feeding poultry on dairy cows and the production and quality of the milk and butterfat," by Prof. J. R. Dice, agricultural college; "Hints on the possibility of commercial sale of quack grass roots," by Cap E. Miller, agricultural college; "The farm population of a trans-neptunian planet," by William B. Thomas, Jamestown college. Members and their wives will be entertained at an informal dinner tonight at the state agricultural college.

Speakers will be E. E. Harris, president of the state academy and dean of the school of mechanical arts at the state agricultural college; and Howard E. Simpson of the university, who will give an illustrated lecture on the "Story of the Plow" at the Friday session.

H. L. Walster, of the agricultural college, also will give an illustrated lecture on "The Story of the Plow" at the Friday session.

Stayton Letter Declares 'Hoover Not Dry at Heart'

Denies Buying Liquor for Banquet Celebration for Presidential Candidate

DRINKS' TOTAL COST $76.50

Supreme Court Under Taft Called 'Wishy-Washy' as Was His Administration

Washington, May 2.—(P)—A letter written by William H. Stayton, chairman of the board of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, placed in the record of the senate lobby committee today said he knew that President Hoover "is not at heart a dry."

The letter was read after the witness had denied, in response to a question by Senator Elihu Root, Republican, Wisconsin, that the association had bought any liquor to be served at a celebration for a candidate for the presidency in 1928.

No name was mentioned by Blaine in putting the question. Stayton said his association had not purchased any liquor to be served at a celebration for a candidate for the presidency in 1928.

"I fear that I must approach the conclusion that he is a dry because of the prospective profit in votes, and nothing that has to do with right and wrong or with facts will make any impression upon him."

Caraway read the letter written by Stayton to former Senator Wadsworth of New York on April 6, 1928, which discussed a speech Wadsworth was to deliver.

The chairman also read from a number of slips he said were attached to the letter. The notations mentioned champagne, gin, vermouth, and Scotch and gave what purported to be their price. The total, Caraway said, was $76.50.

Stayton said he was unable to explain the notations. The correspondence indicated the speech was to have been delivered at the University club at Baltimore.

In response to a question by Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, Stayton said his association had not purchased any liquor to be served at a celebration for a candidate for the presidency in 1928.

The topic was not mentioned further. Blaine's question not being elaborated.

Johnston, of New York, discussing the supreme court, said:

"In the days of Mr. Taft, we have one that is quite as wishy-washy as was his administration of the presidential office."

It added:

"It would not give the present court an opportunity to hand down an opinion prepared under dictation, we will, I think, be better off one, two or five years from now when we come to present the matter to a court of more experienced personnel."

Stayton was excused today and the committee adjourned until Tuesday. It will then begin an investigation of the Anti-Saloon League whose witnesses have not been determined upon.

AT THE MOVIES

PARAMOUNT THEATRE
"The Benson Murder Case," the third in the series of Paramount's all-talking Van Dyne mysteries, with William H. Cagney, in the lead, against George and Nick Beets in district court. He made exception in his decision as to an automobile, which he ordered stored in a garage until further proceedings indicate what disposal should be made of the car.

The court has not yet given decision in the move for dismissal of an action by F. E. McCurdy against E. A. Hughes, based on the same grounds as the suit tried in federal court here recently. The Hughes motion for dismissal is on the ground that no summons in complaint was served on him. This is disputed by the other side.

Another case pending since heard Thursday is an action between two McLean county farmers named Weber and Fitzgerald, each claiming to have rented an identical quarter section of land and each wants to seed it.
