

A DIFFERENT DRUG STORE

SOME PEOPLE have an idea that drug stores are all pretty much alike. It is not so, however. Our store differs from the ordinary one in a great many respects. You will notice a difference in the way customers are met—you'll receive prompt attention the minute you step into the store. You will notice a difference in the way goods are wrapped—your packages will be neat. Our service throughout is marked with care. Then there are other differences that are of even greater moment that you'll not think so much about at first, but you'll realize their value if you trade here awhile. The most important is the pains we take to guard our customers' interests.

We shall appreciate a chance to prove to you that there's a difference in drug stores.

BAILEY.

Special Correspondence.
Bailey, I. T., Sept. 16.—Our farmers are getting busy after the heavy white which promises a fair yield.

Rev. W. H. Plomming of Ardmore, Tex., is here conducting a revival meeting. He has had several conversions and he will continue ministering this week.

We are having quite a bit of sickness in our neighborhood just now. Hon. B. B. Harfoot, who will be attorney for Grady county, spoke here in the I. O. O. F. hall Friday night to a large and appreciative audience.

Tomorrow is our voting day and we have been expected to line up solidly for the good old democracy. Haskell and the constitution. No "social equality here."

Miss Bertha Seagars has returned from her extended visit to her brother's at Neosho, Mo.

We have several hundred dollars' government appropriation for school but as yet we are unable to secure a teacher. We pay $75 per month to the right man.

We hope Supt. Umboltz will be able to send us a teacher right soon.

Grandpa Byson, from his home in New Mexico, is here very sick at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Geo. Justice. Very little hope for his recovery.

Nearly all of our farmers are in the hog business the export to get fifty cents out of their corn in that way.

Dr. Hugh G. Rogers from Knoxville, Tenn., was here last week visiting friends and expects to locate somewhere in the new state. The weather conditions look good for rain this morning.

IN CAMP OF ENEMY.

Rev. Dinwiddie Visits Guthrie for First Time in Campaign.

Ardmoreite Special.
Guthrie, Ok., Sept. 17.—Rev. E. C. Dinwiddie, in charge of the prohibitionists' campaign in the two territories, invaded the capital last night for first time since the constitutional convention. He and three local clergymen spoke to a large crowd on the streets in the interest of a "dry" state. Guthrie is acknowledged hotbed of the saloonists' league, which has been desperately fighting prohibition. Great enthusiasm was shown by the preachers' audience.

ANTI-AWNING CRUSADE.

Guthrie Woman Files Injunction Against Removing Awnings.

Ardmoreite Special.
Guthrie, Ok., Sept. 17.—A woman has started a fight on the anti-awning crusade, which was instigated by the council recently. Guthrie was dotted with unsightly coverings and the aldermen, after urgent requests from the progressive element, ordered the awnings removed. Sophia Adler today filed an injunction suit in restraint of the city from taking down the awnings. In front of a business house owned by her. The case will be heard this week.

To Protect Indian Oil Lands.

Muskogee, I. T., Sept. 16.—The Department of the Interior has made a new rule that will effect all gas and oil pipeline companies acquiring right-of-way in Indian Territory. In the case of the Ardmore Natural Gas company, requesting approval for twenty miles of pipeline right-of-way the department approved the application with the provision that on the right-of-way here should not be drilled any well within 500 feet of any Indian allotment. This is for the purpose of preventing oil and gas companies from acquiring narrow strips of right-of-way and drilling wells upon it and drawing gas and oil from under the allotments of Indians who own adjoining land.

Census Figures Completed.

Guthrie, Okla., Sept. 15.—Final census figures for Oklahoma territory were announced tonight by Director Hunt at 721,141, as compared with a population in 1900 of 398,331, an increase in seven years of 322,810, or 81 per cent. Final figures were received today from incomplete counties, giving Cimarron 5,865, Beckham 17,849, Jackson 17,087, Roger 75,329 and Logan 30,711.

Complete Indian Territory figures will be announced tomorrow. Director Hunt and his force will leave some time tonight for Washington, with the exception of six men, who will work in Texas and Oklahoma on divorce and religious statistics for the Census Bureau.

TO BETTER SERVICE

EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO SECURE TRAIN FROM THIS CITY TO TEXAS FAIR.

The people from this section of the Indian Territory will join the citizens of Dallas, Texas, in an endeavor to secure a better train service from this section of the country an opportunity to visit Dallas and take in the fair.

On account of the train service the people of this section have been handicapped, and the crowds that would attend the fair have not done so. A movement will be put on foot in a day or so by the officials of the fair at Dallas and assisted by the people of this section to secure a better service. Col. Sidney Suggs was in Dallas Saturday and in an interview to the Dallas News gave out the following information on the subject.

"The people are showing considerable interest in the coming meet of the State Fair of Texas and if the proper railroad facilities are provided there will be a big attendance from that section. The trouble heretofore has been in the changing of cars on the return trip from the fair.

This especially applies to Santa Fe connections at Fort Worth for the north. Time and again from 100 to 150 people returning from the fair have arrived in Fort Worth in time to see the Santa Fe train leaving, necessitating their staying in that city over night, which works a great hardship on the women and children. Of course, it is all right for men and boys to knock around a good part of the night, but when you have tired women and children with you, and especially with those that are a little short of funds, it is no laughing matter, and naturally causes a great deal of hard feeling.

"In order to get the crowd you must have better facilities, and my idea is to make up a train at Ardmore, to be known as the Texas State Fair train, and run it straight through to Dallas without any change whatever. The train could leave Ardmore at 5 o'clock in the morning, arrive in Dallas at 9 or 9:30 a. m. leave this city about 8:30 p. m. and arrive in Ardmore at midnight. Of course the train would not have to be run every day; run it say every other day, or every third day. The train could be advertised and thus enable territory visitors the best of accommodations to visit the Texas State Fair and be instructed, entertained and amused.

"A special train run over the Frisco, leaving Ardmore, would pass through Providence, Durwood, Madill, Mansville, Woodville and thence to Denison. Via the Santa Fe the train would make Overbrook, Marietta, Thackerville and Gainesville.

"One of the most popular days with territory people this year will be Confederate Day at the Fair, Tuesday, Oct. 22. In the country adjacent to Ardmore and in the city itself are hundreds of men who fought with the Confederates in the Civil War, and they will come down here to meet their old comrades in arms. "Another inducement that will make a large attendance is the fact that there are thousands of Texans of many who have written their friends in north, south, east and west Texas to meet them at the Fair on a certain day.

"Captain Smith tells me that every stall in the live stock department has been taken by exhibitors in fine horses, cattle, sheep and hogs, and that over 2,000 head of stock will be exhibited as per applications on file in his office. I note with pleasure that J. C. Washington of Marietta, I. T., will be here with his short horn herd. Mr. Washington breeds some of the finest shorthorns in this country, and I have been with him when he has taken the highest honors in the live stock shows at St. Jo. Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago.

"The Oklahoma State Fair will soon open in Oklahoma City, and promises to be largely attended. It will have a great influence in the upbuilding of the new state of Oklahoma, which, by the way, will enter Democratic ranks by a majority of 50,000 next Tuesday. At the Oklahoma Fair will be held the National Farmers' convention, attended by agriculturists from every state in the union. You people should have a representative up there to get the north-east farmers to visit your state and the Texas State Fair, as they are down here looking over the country, and perhaps for the purpose of making their future home in the Southwest."

Mrs. J. J. Blake returned from Ardmore Sunday. She was accompanied home by her niece, Mrs. Ola Drennan.—Mill Creek Times.

UNTIMELY MESSAGES.

A Bit of Business Enterprise That Was Not Appreciated.

A story of the delightfully effective turning of the human worm comes from the Chicago Record-Herald. For several weeks Raymond had been the only tenant of his house. Mrs. Raymond and the children were waiting in the south for the weather to settle. Late one evening, when Raymond was in his bathtub, he heard somebody ringing the front door bell.

He decided not to pay any attention to it. The person who was doing the ringing would presently get the idea that nobody was at home and go away.

But the ringing continued. Raymond went on scrubbing his back with the long handled brush and rubbing soap over himself and hoping that the individual who was ringing the bell might be good enough to quit before the battery was exhausted or the wires were worn out. At last, when he could stand it no longer, he got out of the water, put on a bath robe and went to the front window, from which he was able to see who was at the door.

He beheld a telegraph messenger and at once began to feel queer in the region of the heart. Something had happened to his wife or one of the children.

"Be down in a minute!" he called to the boy, and he was as good as his word. He did not wait to put on any more clothes. He even forgot that he was barefooted.

When he had opened the door the boy handed him what looked like a telegram, but was, in fact, only a clever imitation of one. He tore open the envelope and read this message:

Dear Sir—Have you examined our ten dollar overcoats? If not, you should do so at once. They will interest you.

DASHINGTON, Clothier and Haberdasher.

The boy, who wore a uniform like that of a telegraph messenger, departed while Raymond was reading the advertisement, and thus probably saved himself from being personally assaulted.

Raymond was angry. He threw the piece of paper on the floor and stamped his heel on it; but, being barefooted, he hurt his heel more than he did the advertisement. This did not improve his temper.

His anger increased as the moments passed. When he went to bed he was in a fighting mood. He wondered if it might not be possible to prosecute a man who counterfeited telegraph blanks for the purpose of deceiving people. He tossed about, nursing his anger against Dashington, and vowing that he would go naked through the streets rather than buy so much as a necktie at the Dashington store. Finally, at about 2 o'clock in the morning, a happy thought struck him.

He hopped out of bed, went to the telephone, found Dashington's house number and called for it. Reasonably soon somebody sleepily asked what was wanted.

"Is this Mr. Dashington's residence?"

"Yes."

"I should like to speak to him."

"He can't be disturbed at this time of night. Call in the morning."

"No; I must speak to him now."

"Won't you give me your message?"

"No; I must speak to him personally."

"But do you realize what time it is?"

"Yes, but I am very anxious to speak to him at once. Please call him to the telephone at once."

After a long time another sleepy voice was heard.

"Hello! Is this Dashington?" asked Raymond.

"Yes."

"Well, I just wanted to tell you that I got your telegram late this evening, and I don't think I care to look at any of those ten dollar overcoats. I thought you'd be anxious to know whether the messenger succeeded in finding me, so I—"

There were jumbled chunks of language mixed with sounds indicating that the instrument at the other end was being subjected to harsh usage, and then silence. After this Raymond went back to peaceful sleep and pleasant dreams.—Youth's Companion.

Marching Geese.

Norfolk geese were driven up to London in thousands without losing condition. It paid better before the days of railways to let the geese transport themselves. The largest drove mentioned was one of 9,000, which went from Suffolk, through Chelmsford and on to London. They took their journey easily, marching ten miles a day. The ordinary day's march of the German army is thirteen miles, only three miles better than the geese. When Lord Oxford bet the Marquis of Queensberry that a drove of Suffolk geese would beat an equal number of turkeys in a walk to London the geese won by forty-eight hours.—Cornish's "Animal Artists."

The Exception.

"Turn up and your old grocery" shouted a man who backed up against the fresh paint.

"Didn't you see that sign, 'Fresh Paint'?" asked the grocer.

"Of course I did, but I've seen so many signs hung out here announcing something fresh that wasn't that I didn't believe it."—Indianapolis Journal.

Attorney Drinks the Poison.

Allentown, Sept. 16.—To prove the harmlessness of the poison that Mrs. Mamie Leiby and Oliver Hinnershitz and wife were alleged to have given last June to Clarence Leiby, the husband of Mrs. Leiby, Capt. James L. Schaad, counsel for the accused, took a large dose at the beginning of the trial yesterday, and lives to tell the tale.

The test made by Jermyn Schaad had much to do, it is said, with the acquittal of the trio by direction of Judge Trexler.

Leiby, who had been separated from his wife for some months, came to Allentown last June at her invitation, and called at the Hinnershitz home. He stayed for dinner and ate freely of canned quinces. Shortly after he became ill, alleging that his wife and the Hinnershitzes had put chloral hydrate in the quinces for the purpose of killing him.

JOKE LED TO DEATH.

Guest Choked on the Dinner He Jest ed About.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 16.—A joking remark about knowing the best time to visit his friends cost the life of Thomas Ramsay last night. A piece of beefsteak which he was eating caught in his windpipe as he laughed at the reply of his hostess, and he quickly died.

Ramsay went to call on Mr. and Mrs. John Richards, old friends, just as the family was sitting down to the evening meal.

"Well, I'm just in time for a meal," shouted Ramsay as he entered the doorway.

Mrs. Richards told him to sit down at the table, and he had just taken the first morsel of meat when he remarked:

"Tell me I don't know the best time to visit my friends, eh?"

"You certainly do," said Mrs. Richards. "I believe you were born under a lucky star. You easywraslu.... a lucky star. You are always in time to eat with us."

This caused Ramsay to laugh, and the laugh ended in a choking fit.

TRAIN WRECKER FOUND GUILTY

Convicted of Manslaughter for Derailing Frisco Passenger.

Antlers, I. T., Sept. 16.—The jury in the case of Ben Jordan, charged with murder, brought in a verdict of manslaughter.

Jordan was indicted with Carl Brown for laying a railroad spike on the track two miles north of Kosoma on July 29, 1906, which caused No. 6 Frisco passenger train to jump the track and roll down an embankment.

HAIR TURNS WHITE.

Prisoner Had been Convicted of Crime When Innocent.

Escanaba, Mich., Sept. 16.—With his hair, which three months ago was jet black, turned white, Charles W. Elegity was released from the Delta county jail after being held since June on a charge of which he was innocent. Constant worry over his imprisonment and his inability to secure the aid of friends to expunge his cause is believed to have caused Elegity's hair to change in color. He was arrested on a charge of burglary and bound over to the circuit court by a justice. When his case was called in the circuit court an investigation was ordered by the judge with the result that the officers found that the story told by the accused man was true and he was released.
