Ardmore, Thursday, June 25, 1936

The year that is ending has been one of the most interesting in our country's history.

And now a great battle has been fought in the Senate chamber.

The Senate's refusal to ratify any further change in the National Prohibition Act is a landmark.

Some of these presidential aspirants who have been making Wood for a year or more have had considerable success.

Julius Fierer has been chosen to accept the nomination for vice president at Denver.

There is no question of the order of the general election.

The coming year is expected to be a busy one for the nation.

The year that is ending has been one of the most interesting in our country's history.

In the recent business of securing loans to the Spanish Republic.

It is the hope of the people of this country that the Spanish Republic will be able to secure the necessary funds.

REPUBLICANS ARE GETTING TOGETHER.

With their accustomed good will, the republicans are getting together and will present a united front.

Taft had no sooner been nominated than Fierer, who had seemed to be his mortal political enemy.

With small apparent prospects of winning Fierer forced the fighting in Ohio and continued to fight after his overwhelming defeat.

WHETHER ARE WE DRIFTING? There would seem to be no doubt that the Taft administration...
