A SYMPATHETIC STRIKE SATURDAY

CENTRAL LABOR UNION DELEGATES AT SUNDAY MEETING IN PHILADELPHIA DECIDE.

CLAIM 125,000 WILL RESPOND

Unless Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company Comes to An Agreement with Its Striking Employees by Friday, General Strike Goes On.

Philadelphia, Feb. 27.—After a session of more than six hours, the Central Labor union delegates Sunday night voted to call a sympathetic strike of the 140 trades unions in the organization, beginning next Saturday. The delegates claim 125,000 men will respond to the call. General riots occurred Sunday.

This action of the Central Labor Union is fraught with momentous consequences, the union officials say. The decision was made at a secret session of about 700 delegates in Labor Lyceum hall, which lasted more than six hours. There was apparently no question but what the delegates would vote to strike, the split being on the question of whether or not the strike would be started immediately. The more conservative element prevailed, however, and the walk out was put off until next Saturday.

Meanwhile, there is hope that the street railway strike will be arbitrated, despite the repeated declaration of the transit company, controlling all the lines in the city, that "there is nothing to arbitrate." Nobody doubts that tonight's action of the Central Labor Union makes the situation very grave. There is a strong feeling, especially among business people, that the strike should be settled speedily, as all lines of business suffer because of the stagnation resulting from the interference with traffic. Consequently there is much sympathy for the move for arbitration made by clergymen of all denominations early in the week.

There was surprise at the unanimity of the vote in favor of a general sympathetic strike. For several days the meeting today had been discussed and there was a mixed sentiment as to the wisdom of calling out all classes of workmen. Leaders of various trades unions said they were opposed to a general strike, because it involved the matter of broken trade agreements. Others doubted their ability to order all workmen to lay down their tools and have the order obeyed.

As the gathering was secret, little of an authoritative nature can be learned of what transpired behind the barred doors. That there was much strategy is evident from the fact that the meeting of the delegates lasted from a little after 2 o'clock until 8:30.

The great crowd of work people gathered outside the hall would occasionally hear loud cheering and a responsive cheer would go up from the outsiders. Finally, when the meeting broke up and the announcement was made that the delegates had decided that unless the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company comes to an agreement with its striking employees by next Friday the general strike in the history of Philadelphia will be inaugurated, there was a great cheer and the crowd dispersed.

Not only members of unions affiliated with the Central Labor Union, but allied building trades unions, but of every labor organization in Philadelphia in any way connected with the union movement participated in the conference.

A few minutes delay in treating some cases of croup, even the length of time it takes to go for a doctor, often proves dangerous. The safest way is to keep Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and at the first indication of croup give the child a dose. Pleasant to take and always cures. Sold by all dealers.
