A TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT.

The wings of peace have spread over the troubled political waters and a sweet calm rests over the erstwhile tempestuous political sea. The warring elements have sheathed their swords and the hand of good fellowship is extended. The Seaman-Boyle controversy is no more than an unhappy incident in history.

The aspirants for the successorship of the committee man from the Indian Territory to succeed the late A. R. Querry, Captain J. D. Seaman and Myron Boyle, became involved in a controversy which threatened to split the party locally. Boyle made a mistake in accepting what were termed illegal votes and Seaman erred in following up the fight after the convention had decreed in favor of his opponent. The fight grew so bitter that local republicans demanded its cessation. The World advocated that a party be chosen from neither faction, but since the two aspirants for the office have agreed and the factions urging their candidacies are satisfied, there is every reason to believe that the party will move onward with a united front and stand for a strong organization which will sweep aside opposition. It is difficult to see why the aspirants for the place should wage a fight so bitter for an office which will soon melt away to nothingness and it is earnestly hoped for the good of the party that factionalism is to be dropped and the interest of the whole party placed before personal aims. To this both the successful and the defeated candidates are pledged and the republican party never presented a more harmonious and determined enthusiastic membership than at the present moment.

Cleaner politics! That is the cry that is going up from Maine to California, from Puget sound to Key West. And it is time. Machine politics are growing more and more in disfavor, and machine politics can be eliminated in only one way—by the people generally taking more interest in the political game than heretofore. Corrupt political organizations are only possible through the indifference of the people. Tyranny is an inherent trait in human nature, and nowhere else is this statement more fully substantiated than in politics. Political machines usually become as corrupt as the people will permit them to be. Every act of tyranny, unfairness or dishonesty, if unrebuked, becomes a spur and an encouragement to commit further and worse excesses. The people are sometimes slow to awaken, but awakening is sure. Right now we have the spectacle of the president sending one of his cabinet members to a central state to combat ring rule, while the chief executive himself is dealing blow after blow against tyranny and corruption wherever he finds it parading under the guise of political organization, whether within or without the republican party.

The rumor is afloat in political circles that the McGuire faction has promised membership in the state committee, when statehood arrives, to Chairman Victor. The World has always been told that no such factions exist. Now, whence arises this rumor? In what pockets do the local faction carry the honor, and if they do carry it, who put it there? These are questions the rank and file are asking and in the humble opinion of the World Chairman Victor will find that the rank and file have a few things to say about the matter before the close of the statehood campaign. The old autocracy must give way to the voice of the people.

INVESTIGATIONS BEING MADE.

Subpoena Issued in Support of Charges of Criminal Conspiracy.

San Francisco, Aug. 1.—To support the charge of criminal conspiracy which the grand jury is trying to fix up on the insurance brokers who have compelled the policy holders to accept less than was due them on their losses in the great conflagration, a subpoena was called for this morning directing Prof. A. W. Whitney, insurance expert of the university of California to produce evidence of settlements made. Prof. Whitney is in charge of the insurance bureau of the Merchants Exchange and the intention of this bureau is to trace as nearly as possible the history of every settlement made consequent to the fire.

Dennis Flynn struck a popular chord at the Bartlesville meeting and voiced the sentiments of many of whom he stated the fight in the party ranks should all be before, and not after, the convention. He added: "When the party in convention makes its choice, that choice is good enough for us."

He cautioned the people of the east side to keep their ears close to the ground. Carry the campaign to the farm house and the laborer's cottage and give to the rank and file their voice in the policy and the management of the campaign. "I say to you frankly that in making their nominating conventions late and their campaigns short, the republicans of the east side have shown better political judgment than those of us on the west."

There was a love feast of newspaper men held in Rock Island, Ill., recently. Among those in attendance were George Ade, Richard Little, Henry Chamberlain and John T. McCutcheon. The last three are war correspondents of note and McCutcheon is the famous cartoonist of the Chicago Tribune. McCutcheon and Little were the only civilians to receive medals of honor from congress for bravery at the battle of Manila.

It now appears that the fight for political honors in Pawhuska was won by the democrats, not so much by the regular votes as by the irregularity of the votes. The democrats, it is alleged, even went so far as to vote a large gang of railroad grading men. In one ward in which a close republican canvass could find only 109 votes altogether, the democrats polled over and above that number of votes!

The democratic committees in the new state ought to issue an "imperative mandate" to the candidates and some of the newspapers that are preaching populist-socialist doctrines and "recall" their attention to the fact that they cannot use the democratic label on those brands of political heresy.—Shawnee Journal.

A BANKER IS MISSING.

W. W. White, of Francis, Okla., Has Disappeared.

Guthrie, Okla., August 1.—W. W. White, formerly of the Mangum Implement company, and who went to Francis, Okla., five or six months ago to organize a bank, is mysteriously missing and his friends fear that he is met with foul play. Local capitalists at Francis subscribed a majority of the stock for White's bank, and it has been in operation for some time. Some five weeks ago he had trouble with some of the bank's dis-betters and withdrew from any connection therewith, announcing that he would start an opposition bank. He went so far as to order a safe for the new bank.

Four weeks ago, White went to Sherman, Texas, on a supposed business mission, leaving his wife and children at Francis. He wrote his wife several letters from Sherman and since that time nothing has been heard from him. His wife believes he has been murdered.

Recently Mrs. White's father, a resident of St. Louis, where he is employed in the railway mail service, came to Francis and after making all possible investigations, took his daughter and her children back to St. Louis with him. There were charges made that White was short as cashier of the Francis bank, but this is denied emphatically and the bank itself is in a prosperous condition.

SCARLET TOBACCO PLANT.

Variety Produced by the Crossing of Plants with Red and White Blooms.

The national council of horticulture, through its committee, says of the scarlet tobacco plant: "One of the flower novelties of last year which was successfully grown by many experts is a tobacco plant which produces scarlet flowers, nicotiana glauca. It is named for its producer, an expert of England. The plant was originated by crossing two South American tobacco plants, one of which had white and the other red flowers. The result was a flower varying from a light pink to the deepest red. Planted in the fore- and of a border of the more family nicotiana glauca, which has white star-shaped flowers of a wonderfully sweet fragrance at twilight, a combination of color most striking is produced."

A pleasing characteristic of this tobacco plant is the flowering time, which begins at twilight and lasts until the hot rays of the following day wither the blossoms. Thus it is in bloom at the time when it is most appreciated by people returning home from a weary day's work. The plants are easily grown in seed sown on sterilized soil. Another method is to sow the seed in low boxes and transplant, when the fourth or fifth leaf has appeared, to open beds.

"This plant appears to bear flowers all summer long, and with ordinary care should succeed under a great number of conditions. It has been successfully tested in England, Germany and the United States. It has one well in sunlight and partial shade."

WINNING A LOLO BRIDE.

Custom in Western China That Calls for Courage in the Man.

It is customary among the Lolos of western China for the bride on the wedding morning to perch herself on the highest branch of a large tree, while the other female members of her family cluster on the lower limbs, armed with sticks.

When all are duly stationed the bridegroom clambers up the tree, assailed on all sides by blows, pushes and punches from the dowagers, and it is not until he has broken through their fence and captured the bride that he is allowed to carry her off.

Similar difficulties assail the bridegroom among the Mongolian Koraks, who are in the habit of celebrating their marriages in large tents, divided into numerous separate but communicating apartments.

At a given signal as soon as the guests are assembled the bride starts off through the compartments, followed by her wooer, while the women of the encampment throw every possible impediment in his way, tripping up his unwary feet, holding down the curtains to prevent his passage and applying willow and alder switches unmercifully as he stoops to raise them.

As with the maiden on the treetop, the Korak bride is invariably captured, however much the possibilities of escape may be in her favor.

BEFORE THE WAR MANSIONS

Deserted Alabama Houses That Were Once Almost Royal in Splendor.

"If a man is looking for a genuine, unadulterated, irreducible case of blues I know a land that will fit his case," remarked J. C. Mc Gee, assistant topographer for the Pensacola, Alabama & Western railroad.

"Our line enters the northwestern part of the state and goes down through the heart of Alabama," the engineer went on. "Many miles of our work is through swamps and tangled woods of midnight darkness."

"These swamps abound in scorpions, rattlesnakes, vipers, lizards, cottonmouths and the negroes affrightedly add, chalkfaced spooks; but those are not the depressing features."

"It is the hundreds of tenantless old mansions you are constantly encountering. These vacant homes are models of antebellum magnificence. There are large columns and wide verandas in front, spacious hallways and rooms of lordly proportions. Some of the carvings are almost of royal splendor."

"Nothing has been removed but the furniture. The masters were either killed in the war or have moved to the towns. The wild grass grows high clear up to the doors. The fencing is gone or tumbled down."

Elevators to Ascend Alps. Persons not hardy enough to risk the rigors of Alpine climbing are now enabled to mount to the summit of the Hammet-Schwand mountain, 5,600 feet above sea level, by means of the long set lift in the world, an elevator 606 feet high. The elevator is located not far from Lucerne, where is a grotto in which the elevator shaft is hidden. The elevator is operated by electricity. The cage is 12 feet square, and only seven passengers are carried each trip. The ascent is made in three minutes.

Dexterous Africans. For a feat of dexterity and nerve it would be difficult to surpass that of the Bosjesman, of South Africa, who walks quietly up to a puff adder and deliberately sets his bare foot on its neck. In its struggles to escape and attempts to bite its assailant, the poison gland secretes a large amount of the venom. This is just what the Bosjesman wants. Killing the snake he eats the body and uses the poison for his arrows.

News of the Oil World

Quite a good deal of interest is being taken in the oil pool 2 miles south of Red Fork, where the Ninety Six-Meridian Co. developed oil in a deep sand, they have now 5 or 6 good producing wells, some of which are flowing as much as 400 barrels per day. These wells are located along the east line of the west half of the N. W. 1-4 of section 3, township 18, Range 12, east.

Mr. Menchel brought in No. 2 on the Eliza Mackey allotment, section 34-19-12 and it is a good producer.

A rig is up in the South 1-2 of the S. W. 1-4 of section 3-18-12, Frar' A. Baker is building six rigs in section 3-18-12, and drilling will be commenced the latter part of this week.

The well being drilled in on the Narchie Scott section 33-19-12 has been hung up for a few days on account of a fishing job. They are now down about 1,400 feet.

Usher Carson is drilling on the E. 1-2 of the S. E. of section 4-18-12 and is now down about 300 feet.

Gailbraith & Colcord are drilling a deep well on the N. E. 1-4 of section 28-19-12 and another deep well is being drilled on the N. W. 1-4 of section 28-19-12.

Out of the wells being drilled, it is expected that some of them may develop to be as good as some of the good wells in the Glenn pool; this brings the development back nearer to Tulsa and the outlook now is for good wells, which will mean a good deal for the field. Developments in this pool will be watched with a good deal of interest.
