When Villa Had a Mind to Be Good and Why He Changed His Mind

EL PASO, Texas, June 8.—Francisco Villa, a lover of peace, a hater of bloodshed and a family man who wishes nothing so much as to work all day on an American railroad right-of-way and go home in the evening to play with his little son and continue his rudimentary education, started when he was a prisoner in the Belen prison at Mexico City, sounds like a paradox.

Yet that was the Villa of 1913 following his escape from prison where he had been placed by order of Gen. Victoriano Huerta.

After escaping from prison and Mexico, probably through President Madero's orders, Villa came to El Paso and rented a cheap room in the old Hotel Mexico in the Mexican quarter.

Sitting in a little Mexican restaurant of the hotel, Villa told the present correspondent of the Associated Press his plans for the future. His aims and ambitions and one of his expectations for a son to be born to him at the family home of his wife in San Antonio, "Chihuahua, At that time Villa was known as a reformed bandit who had followed Madero loyally and who had fought for independence and liberty for his people.

He was not only later "betrayed" by his fall on Columbus, N. M., and his subsequent acts.

I am tired, sick and tired of war and revolutions and bloodshed," Villa said in Spanish as he ate the Mexican dishes served in the little cafe.

HURLEY SEEKS FINAL SHIPBUILDING MONEY

Appropriation of Six Hundred Million Will Complete America's Program, He Tells Congress.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Chairman Hurley of the shipping board has asked congress for a final appropriation of a little more than $600,000,000 to wind up the government's shipbuilding operations.

This sum, he says, actually is $400,000,000 less than congress already has appropriated for the program.

The present needs of the shipbuilding program, as Chairman Hurley outlines them, take into consideration the cancellation of a suspension of contracts for 24 ships which alone will effect a saving of more than $300,000,000.

When all is done, chairman Hurley points out in a letter to Chairman Good of the house appropriations committee, $2,861,755,670 will have been expended in the country's great effort, which will be shown in 13,883,196 deadweight tons of ships.

FLOOD VICTIMS IN NEED OF AID

Work Yet to Be Done in Sections Where Storm Took Heavy Toll.

FLOODED AREA IS VISITED

Mayor Again Goes Through Section That Suffered Heaviest Loss.

HELP OF ALL IS SOUGHT

Situation Too Much for One Organization to Handle, Says Mayor.

That there is still great need for relief work among the flood sufferers of Tulsa and that the citizens of the city must not stop in their work until all are properly cared for was seen in a visit through the flood district yesterday by Mayor and Mrs. Charles H. Hubbard and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Carey.

The poorer people are, of course, the greatest sufferers, said the mayor. We visited sections of the city and saw many scenes that indicate there is still much to be done to aid the unfortunate ones.

Some families were literally swept out of their homes. In one instance the poorer section of the city, water had entered all of the possessions of the inmates and they were destitute with the exception of the clothing they wore when the storm fell.

The relief fund started by P. E. Fuller and Fred Mangum of the Union National bank and handled by The World and Mayor Hubbard, has done much to aid in alleviating the sufferings of the flood victims, but more help is needed.

Mayor Hubbard stated last night that the situation was too much for a single organization to cope with and that every citizen can help in the work.

PUSH PEACE "LEAK" TASK OF SENATORS

Leaders of Both Sides Declare They Are Anxious for Investigation to Get Underway.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Congress enters the fourth week of the new session tomorrow, with the peace activities and increased speed urged by leaders.

The so-called peace treaty "leak" investigation and the bill to end government control of telegraphs, telephones and cables constitute the senate's work of principal interest this week, while the house plans to engage in a cleanup of appropriation bills starting tomorrow.

One of the first difficulties to complicate the inquiry, however, will be the question of senatorial immunity as it applies to the peace treaty "leak" investigation.

Investigation of the peace treaty "leak" will be started by committees. At its opening tomorrow, the senate will investigate the peace treaty "leak" and the election of Victor Berger, socialist of Wisconsin, also will be started by committees.
