ADDRESSES LEGISLATORS

Speaks at Special Session of Minnesota State Solons

The president told the legislators, as he has all of his audiences to date that the opposition to the treaty of peace is due to ignorance. But it reads at the control of the said.

Cannot last, he said.

The facts are marching on and God is marching with them.

He said he did not need to argue the worth of the treaty before a Minnesota audience, as he was sire that the people here understood the treaty and all that it contains.

The president again told the audience that the "hope of the world is in America"

"The eyes of the peoples of the world are on us he said. They world are on us. he said. They are watching for the spirit of America to work out their salvation.

The president paid tribute to the nonpartisan character of his reception everywhere, declaring he was glad that party politics was ad-

"We are all Americans," he said "Scratch a democrat or a republican and you will find an American Take the label away and you will find everywhere the unconquerable American spirit. It is the spirit that comes with hope. The American purpose mirrors the future of the world."

The errand on which I left Washington is so intimate a mailed in the daily life of our own country that I appreciate this opportunity, said the president. You were called here for special objects. One of these suffrage, has been soften. called here for special objects one of these, suffrage, has been accomplished. The next is the high cost of living. That is a most complex problem. The cost of living at present is a world problem due in fact to the fact that the man power of the world has been sucrificed on the field of hattle. The result is that entire of everything have grown treat factories, needed for peachave had to be used to creain was materials.
