MANY UPSETS IN MAJORS WITH WESTERN TRIPS

New York Clubs Hold Onto Top Rungs in Pennant Races

NEW YORK, May 28.—In a week marked by numerous upsets, together with sensational "comebacks" by Brooklyn and Cincinnati, in the National league, the champion New York clubs clung to their leads in the major league pennant race, but only after meeting some of the stiffest opposition they have encountered so far this season. The Giants emerged from the throes of a slump just as Pittsburg threatened to jump to the top, while the Yanks retained their lead more because of indifferent playing by their chief rival St. Louis, than their own good work.

There was comparatively little change in the relative standing of older circuits with hitherto trailing the American league clubs, but the teams running amuck, underwent a radical shakeup. Pittsburgh displacing St. Louis in second place, while Brooklyn scrambled from around the bottom to the first division, closely pursued by Pat Moran's rejuvenated Cincinnati Reds. The Giants thus far are having far from the runaway race predicted at the start of the season, with four teams showing decided pennant aspirations, while in the American the Yanks are having troubles of their own keeping ahead of the ambitious pack of rivals, particularly St. Louis, Philadelphia and Detroit.

Regaining confidence on their return home. McGraw's champions saved an otherwise disastrous week by winning three straight from the Boston Braves, who had enjoyed the spotlight earlier in the week by taking four in a row from St. Louis. The Giants' return to form while the Cardinals and Pittsburgh were fighting hard in a five-game series, enabled them to boost their lead to three and a half games by virtue of a victory over Philadelphia, while Pittsburgh dropped the deciding game of its series with the Cardinals.

Displaying terrific strength at bat and with their pitching staff in rare form, the Brooklyn Dodgers forged rapidly to the front, winning eight out of nine games from Chicago and Philadelphia, including three double-headers, while Cincinnati, the other sensation of the week, took three out of four from both the Giants and Cubs. Moran's team is displaying the sort of peppery play that won a championship for his 1919 outfit and in Donohue and Couch he has two stellar hurlers. Brooklyn and Cincinnati both lost today, however, and are in a tie for fourth position.

Phillies Hit Rocks.

The Phillies, although showing batting power second only to Brooklyn, dropped eight out of nine games, the lone victory in the last game of the Brooklyn series ending a losing streak of 12 games, due mainly to weak pitching and erratic fielding.

The Yankees have shown improvement in all-round play, despite the return of Ruth and Meusel, Babe's temperamental outburst Thursday as a result of his batting failure costing him his captaincy and a $200 fine. Meusel, however, has clouted out three home runs since getting back in the game and may yet figure in the slugging race honors which passed today to Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Nationals, who rapped out two homers and increased his total to 13, one more than Kenneth Williams of the Browns and two more than Bing Miller of the Athletics.

St. Louis, after splitting even with the Yanks in four games, met unexpected opposition on returning to the west, losing three in a row to Chicago, but winning today. Philadelphia, losing or winning all its games by a one-run margin, maintained a slim hold on third place, closely pressed by Cleveland, whose pitching staff and all-round playing have improved, and Detroit, still on the warpath under Ty Cobb's fiery leadership.

WRESTLERS WORK OUT BEFORE BIG CROWDS SUNDAY

Many Women Watch Mat Artists Go Through Their Pace

A record crowd, in which there was a copious sprinkling of women, watched Ed Lewis, champion of all the wrestlers, and Cliff Binckley, who are slated to mix at McNulty park Friday night for the championship of the world, in their workouts Sunday afternoon in the Hotel Tulsa grill room. Both mat artists went through a heavy program and the workouts waxed fast and furious.

The champion was the first man on the mat. He worked for more than an hour with John O'Briggs, Tulsa traffic officer, who will meet Sailor Jack Ryan in the preliminary bout. The men worked hard for nearly an hour and each ran the gamut of holds and dealt out a lot of punishment.

Cliff Binckley, who has won over the Tulsa fandom since he first appeared in a Tulsa ring some few months ago, started his turn on the mat with Sailor Ryan shortly after 2:30 o'clock. He worked his scissors hold at will and let Ryan do his best with the headlock, made famous by the champion.

Ryan and O'Briggs are working hard for their match. O'Briggs declares that he is "right" and his workouts with Lewis will put him in shape for Ryan, while the Sailor just smiles and says that O'Briggs forgets that he has been wrestling 12 years.

Overtime Ruled Against in All U. S. Postoffices

WASHINGTON, May 28.—President Harding took action affecting more than 50,000 postal clerks and carriers throughout the country when he approved a recommendation of the postoffice department for the establishment of a strict eight-hour basis for postal employes.

The president's approval of the plan followed a conference at the White House with Acting Postmaster-General Bartlett, who had explained that thousands of employes by reason of the exhaustion of appropriations for auxiliary clerks were obliged to work from one-half to two hours overtime each day. The president was of the opinion, it was understood, that additional clerks in sufficient numbers should be put to work at all points where overtime is now required in the discharge of postal duties, in order that the mails be properly and expeditiously handled on a strict eight-hour basis. To make such a move possible the president was said to have advised Mr. Bartlett that he would ask congress for an additional or deficiency appropriation.

Leonard's Manager Is Tired Of 'Four-Flushers' Gathering Publicity at Benny's Expense

Charlie White Flatly Turned Down Offer of Fight With Champion July 4; Lew Tendler Has Failed to Indicate What He Wants for Match; Gibson Peeved.

By ROBERT EDGREN

"I am sick and tired of these four-flushers getting publicity at the expense of Leonard," writes Billy Gibson. "Floyd Fitzsimmons called me on the phone and told me Charlie White absolutely refused to discuss a match with Benny. I had signed with Fitzsimmons for Leonard to meet White, Kansas or Dundee July 4 at Michigan City. I thought White would get the shot, because ever since he regained consciousness after Benny knocked him out two years ago the Chicagoan has been ballyhooing for another match.

"Tendler has claimed the lightweight title for the fourth time," Gibson goes on, "and for publicity only. Each time he has engaged in a boxing contest immediately afterward. Naturally all the P. T. Barnum ballyhoo about claiming the championship didn't harm the gate receipts. It seems mighty strange to me that a boxer with the nerve to proclaim himself champion cannot stand on his own as a drawing card, but must use Leonard's name to help draw money in at the gate.

"I have tried to find out from Tendler how much money, flat, he will accept for an opportunity to box Leonard. As yet he has named no figure. I am sure when he does so he will convince everyone that he is by no means sincere in his claims.

"I have been offered 10,000 pounds for Leonard in a match with Ernie Rice in England and we may jump across for a month or so this summer. I have also received a good offer for a Leonard-Lewis match, and the only stipulation I will make, if we take that on, is that Ted must make the welterweight limit.

"By the way—to return to the Tendler-Leonard thing, where does Rocky Kansas—Benny's next opponent, stand? Kansas floored Tendler and decisively defeated him at the Garden last October 21, and a couple of months later Leonard beat Kansas in a decision match there.

"Don't forget to watch Joey Leonard when he starts. Benny thinks his kid brother is the coming champion."

In the old days every ring was called a "grudge fight." It helped the gate. For over a year the air has been full of sizzling wireless waves from the Leonard and Tendler camps. It may look like publicity stuff, but as a matter of fact the champion nearly blows up every time Tendler's name is mentioned, and Tendler thinks Leonard is hanging on to the title just to spite him.

The rivalry will probably be settled at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City Labor day and the gate will be big enough to pay off a few national war debts.

In the meantime Tendler won't shed any tears if Rocky Kansas tips Benny over July 4 or if Britton turns the trick in June, and Benny will sit close to the ringside on June 2, hoping to see Barrett wind Tendler's fistic affairs up with a wallop.

Jimmy Dougherty, who knows as much about fighting and fighters as any man, says that Leonard can beat Tendler unless weakened by making weight. Tendler says if he fights Leonard the champion must make 135 pounds at 10 a. m. for an afternoon battle. Leonard is usually several pounds over this mark. He seldom makes weight for a fight, and he's pretty finely drawn at the lightweight limit, although he claims that he can do 135 any time it's necessary.

Jim Corbett says in an interview in the Los Angeles Times that Dempsey is a dub champion, that he knows nothing about boxing, and can't punch.

"Dempsey is the most overrated man who ever held the championship," exclaims Jim. "He can't box; doesn't know the first thing about boxing. He doesn't even rate very high as a slugger. His punch is very much exaggerated."

Then Jim goes on to tell what a slugger (he) was in his time.

"I was very proud of my punch," says Jim.

Of Carpentier, Jim says: "He really knows very little about boxing."

And of Benny: "Any of the great lightweights of the past, like Gans, could have beaten him."

Dear, dear! How we do rattle on in our old age!

Corbett, in his entire ring career, fought 228 rounds. He won 5 fights with knockouts, won 7 decisions, had 5 draws, lost 1 decision, was knocked out 3 times, and seconds entered the ring to save him from knockout once.

Dempsey to date, has fought in all his ring career 264 rounds. He has won with knockouts 45 fights, won 14 decisions, 4 draws, lost 2 decisions, was knocked out once.

Dempsey's best knockout year was 1919, when he won five fights with knockouts in a round each and knocked out Willard for the world's championship in three rounds. Eight rounds of fighting—six knockouts!

In 1918 Dempsey fought 21 fights and won 12 of them with knockouts in the first round.

For a guy with a punch that "is very much exaggerated" this is doing fairly well.

As for Carpentier, in England he is regarded as the greatest boxer ever seen there, and in this country he made Battling Levinsky, a rather clever fellow, look as if he'd never worn a glove before.

And as for Benny Leonard, a Joe Gans might possibly have beat him, but no other great lightweight of the past ever showed a combination of skill, speed, aggressiveness and punching power that would give him anything on the present lightweight champion.

The idea that the world stands still died out in Galileo's time, but some people don't realize it yet.

FOUR DRIVERS TO QUALIFY MOUNTS IN RACE CLASSIC

Indianapolis Speedway Teems With Activity on Eve of Race

INDIANAPOLIS, May 28.—Practice will be suspended tomorrow at noon long enough to give drivers a final opportunity to qualify their automobiles for the annual 500-mile race to be run at the Indianapolis motor speedway Tuesday.

The drivers—Howard Wilcox, Frank Davidson, William Gardner and Jack Curtner—were scheduled to take their trials this afternoon. Inability to get their racers ready, however, kept them off the track.

The speedway presented a busy spectacle today. Several drivers who already have qualified by reeling off a 10-mile spin at a speed of 80 miles an hour or better, were on the oval limbering up their motors.

Tommy Milton, winner of the 500-mile race last year and 1921 speed king, showed splendid form in several practice sprints. His car made one lap, a distance of two and a half at a speed of a little better than 103 miles an hour. This is the fastest lap clocked this year.

Jimmy Murphy, who won the pole position by averaging a hundred miles an hour in his qualification trial, also had his eight-cylinder special built speedster on the track and reeled off some fast laps.

Ralph de Palma also turned some fast miles.
