WASHINGTON STREET BRIDGE.

To Receive the Immediate Attention of the Levy Court—County Indebtedness Cleared Up.

The Levy Court met this morning at 11 o'clock. After some routine business the school district No. 101, New Castle hundred, trouble came to the surface. At the last meeting it was deferred on account of the absence of Commissioner Sutton of that hundred. As soon as the matter was broached this morning Commissioner Sutton arose and said that the court had no authority to annul the action of the committee that had selected the plot. Their actions were in conformity to the law in every respect.

H. C. Conrad replied for the men who objected to the site being placed on the Walter's farm. He held that the court had no authority to annul the action of the committee that had selected the plot. Their actions were in conformity to the law in every respect.

Washington Street Bridge.

Mr. Hickman offered the following communication and it was read by Clerk Ellison:

To the Honorable, the President and Levy Court Commissioners of New Castle county, Delaware.

GENTLEMEN: On behalf of the citizens of Wilmington and Brandywine hundreds, we the undersigned would respectfully urge that a committee be appointed by your honorable body as soon as possible to make a study of the feasibility of building a bridge over the Brandywine at Washington street.

We are of the opinion that the present is the most opportune time for such an undertaking.

The citizens on both sides of the Brandywine are very urgent in their demands for such an improvement, and the necessities of the case require that initiating steps be at once instituted, looking toward the building of a bridge at this point.

Furthermore, we confidently believe that the increase of property values and the resultant increase of taxes will more than compensate the county for the required outlay of funds, in addition to the fact that the cost of such a structure would be much less now than it probably might be, if left until a later day.

Trusting that the subject will have your immediate attention, we subscribe ourselves,

J. P. DOUGHTEN,
WILLIAM A. HAWKINS,
H. C. CONRAD,
J. DAVIDSON,
J. N. ROBINSON,
H. F. OURE,
S. H. BAYARD,
T. T. LAWSON,
JOHN G. BAKER,
PHILIP B. CLARK,
THOMAS TATALL,
ISAAC S. ELLIOTT.

This communication was followed by an address by John G. Baker. He showed the great advantages to the city of such a structure.

On motion of Mr. Hickman the Levy Court will consider the matter as a committee of the whole. It will meet at the Court House on Monday morning, September 14, at 10 o'clock, and will proceed to the site of the proposed bridge and consider the matter.

Mr. Jolls offered a resolution authorizing the drawing of two warrants of $10,000 each, to meet notes due in the Farmers' Bank on September 1 and 8. The resolution was adopted.

A large number of bills were passed, after which the body took a recess to 2 o'clock.

He was so busy that he had to get Deputy Receiver Fincke, ex-City Auditor Mitchell, Patrick Neary and Lewis Dickey to assist him. They were kept busy until shortly after 11 o'clock, when they closed the books. The amount paid during the evening amounted to nearly $7,000, making his collections since the opening of the books amount to $125,000. He collected $2,500 in Blackbird hundred yesterday. HELD ON A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Lewis C. Young Fast Stand Trial For Having Lewdly Toys.

Lewis C. Young, who was held in $1,000 bail this morning to await the action of the grand jury, for lewd and lascivious toying with Jane Haggerty, a 7-year old child. Young was defended by Harry Emmons, who made a strong and determined effort to break down the evidence of the child and that of her mother, but without success. At one time he fancied that he had succeeded, for he rattled the little girl into saying things which she did not mean, but Judge Ball, with fatherly instincts, took the little creature in hand and let her back to the facts which she emphatically declared were true.

Mr. Emmons put Mrs. Margaret Horton on the stand and she stated that while in Mr. Young's kitchen she had overheard a conversation among Mr. and Mrs. Haggerty and the child. During this conversation Mr. Haggerty, she said, had told the child what to say in court, and threatened her with a whipping if she did not do as she was told. This was denied by all the Haggertys, out the child admitted that her mother had threatened to whip her if she did not tell the truth. Although Mrs. Horton's testimony was strong for the defense, it did not improve the defendant's case much, as she did not either by conduct or demeanor impress those present as a person of reliability.

The child's testimony was given very straight. She is an intelligent little girl with long white hair. Except in one or two particulars even the legal acumen of Mr. Emmons, who strove hard to break her down, failed to shake it. Her story coincided with that which her mother testified that the child had told her after the occurrence. The crime, according to the child's testimony, was committed twice, and a third attempt was made on the evening on which little Jennie complained to her mother. It was committed on the doorstep of the houses which adjoin each other. The mother said she saw no evidence of the crime beyond the story which her daughter had told her.

Mr. Emmons put a number of witnesses on the stand who testified to Young's previous good reputation. It was testified also on the stand that the defense that the prosecution had been instituted through malice, but not a little of evidence was brought forward to support the insinuation. On the contrary it was testified that the parties had always been on good terms, and there could be no malice in the bringing of the charge as no malice existed.

When the trial was over Mr. Emmons stated that he had shown the charge to be a trumped up one. Mrs. Horton, who is Mr. Young's mother-in-law, became very belligerent in her declarations that the whole thing was a lie. Those who know of Mr. Young's previous good character will not admit his guilt, but the child's testimony, given while she cried bitterly, was what Judge Ball could not overlook. The punishment in the case is seven years imprisonment.

FINED FOR INSULTING WOMEN.

Austin Hanley, James Delaney and John Nugent Fined Heavily For Their Transgressions.

"We are going to break up the custom of men improperly approaching women on the streets," said Judge Ball this morning, as he sentenced the third man to sixty days imprisonment or $10 fine for that offense this morning at the court.

The first case was that of Austin Hanley, who went into McLaughlin's patent medicine store yesterday afternoon and purchased a plaster from a young girl who is a clerk there. Then he went behind the partition and called upon her to put the plaster on his back. She very promptly refused, but he insisted, and when he could not induce her he left the store saying that she was not a lady. He came back to the store but was arrested. "Young ladies don't usually put plasters on men's backs, $10 and costs," said the court.

The second case was that of James Delaney, colored, who was also fined $10 or sixty days for improperly approaching a colored woman.

John Nugent insisted on going home last evening with Mrs. Delaney, who has charge of the waiting-room at the P. W. & B. railroad station. Nugent insisted that he knew Mrs. Delaney, although she had ordered him away. He followed her around to French street when a stranger intercepted him and drove him back. He was fined $10 or sixty days.

The mammoth poster bills adhering to almost every bill-board and fence in the city, and with their great bold letters and figures directing the presiding populace to take up and visit the Chester Beach, will soon be covered by the gay and festive print of the theatre amusements, and the chance to visit this attractive beach will have to be postponed for this year. The last opportunity this year these posters declare is for September 8th, running via the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad from Broad Street Station in a special train at 8:00 a. m., and connecting at Baltimore with steamer which runs down the Chesapeake Bay to Tolchester Beach, where in the waters washing the sands the Baltimore crab before being caught makes his home, and bagging him is a lively and gamey excitement at Tolchester. The round-trip rate appears to be but $1.50, and the prospect is that the excursionists will have as large a time as these big posters announce.

Ten cars were loaded at Wyomung, the varieties shipped being Crawford's, Fox's Seedlings, Shipley's, Late Red and Smocks. Red fruit brought 40 cents and yellow fruit 45 cents a basket. If the weather is favorable, heavy shipments will be made this week.

Peaches were plentiful in the local market, yesterday, and prices were fluctuating all day. While much fruit was bought for immediate consumption, the greater part of it was bought for canning and preserving. Only good fruit was in demand, but there was much poor fruit on the market.

MAYOR WILLEY DENOUNCED.

The Local Deities Are Charged With Holding the Negro Up to Ridicule.

The Twelfth Ward Colored Club held a meeting in Congress Hall, No. 335 DuPont street, last evening. But very few colored men attended, but those who did attend were representative colored men and the tenor of their remarks showed that they have no love for the Willey administration, and still less for the daily papers of this city, irrespective of politics.

The meeting was presided over by T. S. Anderson. Elijah Bird acted as secretary. The deliberations of the colored men lasted for several hours, and were characterized by violent utterances. Addresses were made by M. J. Anderson, William H. Clayton, A. G. B. Anderson, S. S. Lacy and Stansbury Murray. The daily papers were denounced and A. W. Worthington's Blackie paper, the Delaware Twilight, was endorsed by the meeting.

S. S. Lacy, who is a Philadelphia negro, caulked Mayor Willey because he practically ignored the colored men in his political appointments.

The thing then adjourned to September 14.

Week on the B. & O.

At 6:10 o'clock last evening, the Royal Blue "River" on the B. & O. railroad crashed into a small shifting engine and two cars in the Philadelphia yard below the depot. The engine attached to the Royal Blue train was No. 583, one of the big wheelers, and completely demolished the shifter. Fireman Thomas F. Gormley of Baltimore, Md., had his leg broken, but no one else was injured. The accident was caused by the slow motion of the engineer of the shifter in getting his train on a siding. The accident delayed the train thirty-one minutes.

Dredging for Oysters.

On April 8, 1891, Richard Willey, charged with violating section chapter 333, acts of 1890, by oystering in the waters of Talbot county without a personal business license, had a hearing before Justice Stevens at Oxford, who rendered a judgment of not guilty. The state took an appeal to the Circuit Court and the case was argued at the May term. Yesterday the state's attorney got the following decision by mail from Judge Stump:

LATON, Md., Aug. 29, 1891.—Major William E. Deane, Dear Sir: I intended to decide the case of the State vs. Willey at the July term, but in some way it was overlooked.

"The act of 1890, chapter 602, repeals the act of 1890, chapter 333, so far as it relates to the taking out a personal license."

"The clerk should issue the license required by chapter 602. Yours truly, 'FREDERICK STUMP'."

The effect of this decision is to restore the boat license as it existed prior to 1890, the government of the clerks of the courts this year. The personal license made a much larger revenue than the boat license, and it was used to provide local police protection for the tong men, which, it is said, must now be dispensed with. Should the matter get to the Court of Appeals, and that court sustain Judge Stump's decision, will arise what becomes of the money paid last year for personal business license?

PRIME BIRDS PLentiful.

The Festive Reed Bird Being Hunted Down by Hundreds of Gunners—Rare Ball Matters.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE EVING JOURNAL. NEW CASTLE, Sept. 1.—The streets are fairly alive this morning with gunners, who are going out on and returning from expeditions in quest of the festive reed bird. Since 4 o'clock this morning the marshes have resounded with a successive banging that is exactly like the morning of the Fourth of July, or the best gunners did not arise at an early hour and roam about through the marshes, but waited until old Sol's rays furnished light enough for them to see how to put on their gunning suits. They said: "There are plenty of birds and all of them are prime, so it would be useless to move as quickly as if your life depended on it." Hundreds of the little creatures were shot and dozens of them were lost and will decay among their native haunts. The lovers of this sport who are fortunate enough to possess good dogs succeeded in filling their game bags before noon and reached home in time to eat a hearty dinner.

A great game of base ball will be played at Woodland Beach on Wednesday. It will be between the Delaware City team and the victorious Houston Club from Sussex county. The managers have spared no time and expense in arranging the game and, as it will be free to all, they are depending on getting a liberal collection. Shelley and Madden will be Delaware City's battery and Shearer, Wisse and McCafferty will also cover important points on the Delaware City team.

Manager Bradley has not yet completed arrangements for a game on Saturday, but he is still negotiating with two good clubs, one of which is the Columbia, of Shrewsbury, and this team will probably play here then.

She was 61 years old and was quite prominent in the Methodist Episcopal Church of this place. Beside two young daughters at home, Mrs. Mowbray was the mother of Rev. A. S. Mowbray of Newport, Del., William R. Mowbray of Pomona, Md., and Edwin T. Mowbray of the Baltimore Methodist Episcopal Conference.
