MANY ATTEND
"BIG QUARTERLY"

Thousands of Colored Persons Visit the City and Attend Services

"Big Quarterly," the great colored church people's festival, a relic of old slave days, was observed with some of its former enthusiasm yesterday. Probably 10,000 colored people from this city and surrounding states, attended the quarterly. The religious feeling in the colored people found vent, and the gathering was altogether more enthusiastic than any Big Quarterly held in recent years.

The younger generation of colored people is not, of course, quite so interested in Big Quarterly as were their grand parents, but what has been lost in wider interest in the gathering has been gained in the more conservative, yet none the less devout manner in which the religious services in connection with the quarterly are conducted.

The police made arrangements to guard the meetings from interruptions and policemen were stationed along French street, but there was really no need for them, so orderly was the crowd. Many colored persons arrived in the city on Saturday night from points down the State, but the major number came yesterday using all the avenues of ingress to the city. Automobiles and coaches brought the visitors from the steamboat wharves and railroad stations to French street.

Watermelons, crabs, pigs feet and other delicacies are necessary concomitants of Big Quarterly and stands from which they were sold lined both sides of French street, while colored restaurant keepers did a rushing business. During the day the visitors were entertained by the colored families of the city.

The services began yesterday morning with a love feast in the First African Union Church on French between Eighth and Ninth streets led by the pastor, the Rev. J. H. Skinner. The latter had general charge of Big Quarterly services.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the first preaching of the day took place, and the Rev. D. J. Russell, of Philadelphia, made an address. In the morning at 10:30 o'clock an address was made by the Rev. G. W. Brown, D. D., of the Middle District. Last evening the Rev. G. L. Blake spoke in the auditorium. In the lecture room all-day services were conducted by the Rev. J. H. Bell, of Newport, and the services in the grove all day by the Rev. J. Howell, of Dover, and the Rev. A. Denison, of Philadelphia. Prayer meetings were held throughout the day along the streets.

HAINS BROTHERS
MAY PLEAD INSANITY

By United Press Leased Special Wire.
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—When the mother of Captain Peter Hains and T. Jenkins Hains visits them some day this week at the Long Island city jail it is understood that a final agreement will be reached as to the advisability of adopting an insanity plea as ground for defense in the trial of the two for the killing of William E. Annis.

It is said by close friends of the Hains family that Captain Hains' mother has long believed that his mind was weakening and that she had feared he might kill Annis. She has agreed, it is declared to take the stand and tell the jury of this belief if the attorney decides that insanity is to be the plea.

Mrs. Hains has been at Fort Hancock since the tragedy. She has been too sick to undertake the trip to the Long Island city jail and the strain of an interview with her sons, but has determined to see them before the week is out.

Captain Hains is the favorite son of Mrs. Hains according to Attorney Joseph Shay. The child, who was named after his mother, said Mr. Shay by seeing the first earth was removed, the committee began to prepare a dedicatory programme.

Everything went off in as nice a manner yesterday as could be expected. The little auditorium was full of people, members of the congregation and friends, who have been almost as deeply concerned in the progress of the building as the members themselves.

Happy Occasion for Rabbi Rubenstein. Rabbi I. A. Rubenstein, minister of the new edifice, was the central figure in the ceremony, and when he came to face the congregation, he told them how as a minister of the flock, he felt, one didn't have to have explained to him that that particular moment in the Rabbi's life was probably his happiest.

The full name of the congregation is Congregation Beth Emeth Temple of Truth. It is the first congregation to dedicate a synagogue in this city. This congregation is proud of this fact.

The exercises opened at 2:30 o'clock. Members of the congregation assembled in the Sunday school room a little before that time, and formed in order for the dedicatory parade. It was After two postponements, because of inclement weather, the police sports will be held this afternoon at the South Side Park. Many tickets have been sold and the crowd is expected to be large.

The sports will begin at 2 o'clock with a baseball game between the East and West side policemen, and this is expected to furnish much amusement. There will be various events, winding up with a greased pig chase and a pie eating contest.

DEDICATE NEW TEMPLE OF TRUTH

Dr. Krauskopf, Chief Speaker, Says Religious Spirit is Needed in Present Age

AN IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

With simple, yet impressive ceremony, and before an audience that taxed the seating capacity of the small auditorium, the new Jewish Synagogue, Temple of Truth, the first to be erected in the city, was dedicated yesterday afternoon. The dedicatory address was delivered by Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf, of Philadelphia, a man who has large philanthropic work in hand in reclaiming the children of poor Jewish families, and who is the founder and director of the National Farm School at Doyleville, Pa., where Jewish boys are sent to be educated and taught the rudiments of agriculture. He is a forceful speaker, a man who presents his arguments in a masterly form. He severely arraigned those people of today who are scoffers of religion, who profess no belief, and who make a mockery of the church.

The Temple of Truth.

Complimenting the members of the congregation upon the fulfillment of their work, Dr. Krauskopf told them there was more to do in the future than in the past; for they should not rest with merely having their material needs satisfied. He said that if they were to be content with the edifice itself, then their work had indeed been a failure. But if their purpose was to spread the religious spirit, to inculcate the feeling of brotherhood among their fellowmen, to bring to the community a new life, then their work would be a grand success.

The speaker scored the tendency among the men of the business world to be dishonest, condemned graft in no uncertain terms, and, rising to a spirit of prophecy, declared that the American nation could not endure if the basic principals of its foundation, Faith, Education, Law, Morality and Freedom, were flauntingly ignored.

For many weeks the members of the congregation had been anxiously watching the progress of the little edifice in Washington street, above Ninth. Almost as soon as the first earth was removed, the committee began to prepare a dedicatory programme.

Everything went off in as nice a manner yesterday as could be expected. The little auditorium was full of people, members of the congregation and friends, who have been almost as deeply concerned in the progress of the building as the members themselves.

led by Rabbi Rubenstein and Dr. Krauskopf, followed by Messrs. N. Levy and I. Roth, carrying the Torahs. Then came Miss Mildred Shaul carrying the key accompanied by six children, and after these came Master Herman Greenbaum, carrying the Old Testament. He was accompanied by six children.

The parade moved up from the basement to the inner doors of the new temple. Here it stopped and Rabbi Rubenstein, knocking at the door, cried: "Open to me the Gates of Righteousness, that I may enter therein and praise the Lord."

The parade then moved down the aisle and to the altar. A prayer was offered by the Rabbi. The Torahs were then presented by A. Bacharach, Mr. Stern then drew aside the curtains of the Ark, and Rabbi Rubenstein deposited one scroll and Mr. Greenbaum the other.

J. H. Gordon next advanced to the altar and in a few words introduced private schools, away from those children of poor parentage. It was the European spirit come to the shores of this country that had been founded at the outset for the purpose of giving to people that prized possession, liberty. The tendency of the present educational system, he declared, was smartness rather than goodness. Then he took up the law and said that to-day there were judges who knew more of politics than of religion, and magistrates who feared political bosses more than they did God. He said that one would believe there was a law for the rich and a law for the poor.

The conditions of society, he said, were beyond description. It was full of scoffers at religion and a consequence was teaming with degeneracy. Divorces, he declared, were quite as frequent as marriages.

"Our religion and morality are in danger," he said. "It is faith our nation needs if we are to endure. This

TWO BOYS WENT DOWN EMBANKMENT
Clarence Donovan and Paul Carroll, small boys, living in Chestnut street, had a narrow escape from serious injury on Saturday afternoon. They were seated in a wagon belonging to P. W. Queripel, a grocer, at Van Buren and Chestnut streets, which was backed down an embankment, a distance of thirty feet, by Leonard Edwards, who was unloading dirt at Sycamore and Union streets.

Fortunately the youngsters escaped injury. The horse was hurt, however, and the wagon badly damaged. Members of the Union Fire Company assisted in hauling the horse and wagon to the street.

LACK OF FUNDS HALTS JAPANESE WORLD'S FAIR
By United Press Leased Special Wire.
TOKIO, Aug. 31.—Owing to the financial stringency that now oppresses Japan, the government has decided to postpone the Japanese exposition from 1912 to 1917. This announcement was made to-day by the Minister of Commerce and Agriculture after a conference with President Kameko, and other officials of the fair. The postponement is unpopular with the people generally and with the various commercial bodies. The national budget cannot stand the drain of a $15,000,000 expenditure at this time. Expenses along all lines have been cut, a national saving of $100,000,000 having been made by the free use of the knife. By waiting until 1917 the people are told a greater expenditure can be held than would be possible by adhering to the original plan.
