2700
MISSIE SEMI-PRINCESS DRESS.

Paris Pattern No. 2700
All Seams Allowed.

The waist portion of this pretty model is made in "Gibson" style, with a wide tuck over each shoulder, attached from neck to waist-line, and ornamented in the front with small buttons and loops of soutache braid. The front is further ornamented with a square yoke of butter-colored lace, over a silk lining of either cream-color, or matching the color of the dress, this yoke being outlined with black military braid. The long close-fitting sleeves are finished with a band of the braid, and a ruffle of plaited mouseline, in cream-color, or matching the frock. The seven-gored skirt is attached to the waist, under a belt of the material, trimmed with a wide bias band, finished with an edging of the braid. This band is set on the skirt so that its lower edge meets the upper edge of the wide hem. The dress closes at the center-back. The pattern is in 3 sizes—12 to 17 years. For a miss of 15 years the dress requires 5 yards of material 36 inches wide, 6 1/2 yards 37 inches wide, 6 1/2 yards 38 inches wide, or 4 yards 40 inches wide, as illustrated, 1 yard 30 inches wide, 1/2 yard 37 inches wide, 1/2 yard 38 inches wide, or 1/2 yard 40 inches wide, extra, for bias band; 1/2 yard of all-over lace 15 inches wide, 4 1/2 yards of bias and 1/2 yard of facing.

For a tasty dinner salad, mix together a couple of tablespoons each of finely minced parsley and Spanish sweet peppers, a teaspoonful of onion, chopped small, two hard-boiled eggs cut into small pieces, paprika, pepper, salt and French dressing. Stand the mixture on the ice until it is chilled and serve on the green salad.

The little pearl onions that come from France make the daintiest garnishes for winter salads.

For tasty appetizers remove the stones from large olives, after cutting them in two, and fill the cavities with caviar. Arrange the olives on small lettuce leaves with a piece of lemon allowing only one olive to a person.

For an unusual but tasty sandwich for the afternoon tea or little meal, spread slices of brown and white bread with a paste made by rubbing a can of goose livers into rich cream and seasoning with lemon juice, paprika and salt. Put the white and dark slices together alternately in a loaf and then cut transversely, and the result will be striped squares. If blocks are wanted, put these slices together again transversely and then cut in slices.

Caviar seasoned with lemon juice and salt makes tasty sandwiches.

For savory egg sandwiches, spread slices of bread with the yolks of hard-boiled eggs rubbed to a paste with French mustard, olive oil, lemon, salt, a bit of finely minced pickle, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley and two or three olives minced fine. The stuffed olives are excellent for the purpose.

DISGRACEFUL CONDUCT OF A WIDOWER

Ten months ago Robert Aiken was left a widower. Mr. Aiken lives in one of Chicago's northern suburbs—one of those delightful little places where it is possible for nearly everybody to know nearly everybody else. For a while Mr. Aiken was terribly depressed. He admitted to his friends and neighbors that life had ceased to mean worth while to him, and it was feared by some of the good ladies who took an interest in his case that the poor fellow might lose his mind, says the Chicago Record-Herald.

"We must do something to make him forget his grief," said Mrs. Wadsworth, one evening after she and her husband had tried to entertain the unfortunate young man. "If he could only become interested in something it might be a salvation. Can't you think of some way in which to make him quit brooding over his loss?"

"He'll brace up all right," replied Wadsworth. "Give him time."

Mrs. Wadsworth also was deeply concerned. She feared that Aiken was contemplating suicide, but her husband was inclined, after the manner of men, to believe that the afflicted one would in time show that he was made of proper stuff.

Wherever two or three more of the ladies of the suburb were gathered, to grieve the sad condition of Robert Aiken was discussed, and whenever one of the good women met the widower she would take his hands in hers and look sadly into his eyes while she assured him that it was a terrible thing which had happened to him, at the same time imploring him to be strong and to bear it bravely.

After the lapse of six months Mr. Aiken began to smile occasionally. It

Don't Blame Your Stomach

When Without Exertion or Cost You Can Enjoy Meals And Cure — Dyspepsia.

Don't blame your stomach or your luck when your meals declare war on your system.

When the stomach won't do its work it is because it cannot.

When foul smelling odors come from your stomach, when the head aches and the sourness of mouth every morning makes you hate breakfast, when dreams and nightmares assail you, don't give up the fight.

This is the appeal of nature, and it should be heard.

Over-eating late suppers, poorly chewed food, too rich pastries and under-done cooking are some of the causes of stomach trouble.

When the stomach is busy, it presses and churns all the liquid matter from food and with its juices dissolves into liquid form or pulp everything which comes into it.

If such food be poisonous it effects the juices, attacks the stomach, goes into the blood and weakens the entire system.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest a full meal easily without material assistance from the stomach. They will re-stock the gastric fluid with all the elements needed. They build up the blood, destroy sour taste, bad breath, belching, stomach and bowel trouble and quickly restore natural conditions.

One grain of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food in the stomach or in a glass without aid of the human digestive apparatus.

The method of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the methods of Nature. They contain every requisite for the stomach and digestion. After a meal one of these little tablets when it enters the stomach begins to work. The juices, attacks the food and digests it. It removes the fermented and decayed mass, lying stagnant there and eases the stomach at once.

It is wholly a question for you to solve. Your druggist will furnish Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for the low price of ten cents. Send your name and address and we will send you a trial package free.

WYOMING YOUNG WOMAN TO WED

SPECIAL TO THE EVENING JOURNAL.
WYOMING, Del., Jan. 1.—Mrs. Hannah Hanson has issued announcements from her home near Wyoming of the marriage on Tuesday in Philadelphia of Miss Etta K. Hanson, her daughter, to Robert Surtees. Miss Hanson, who is a graduate of Jefferson College, some time ago acquired fame for her extreme bravery when, as a trained nurse, she risked her life in nursing a prominent physician and his wife who had been stricken with cerebro spinal meningitis. It is said that she became acquainted with the man who is now her bridegroom while nursing Mr. and Mrs. Surtees through a severe contagion in Philadelphia several months ago. The Delaware girl's wedding this week was a quiet affair and was performed somewhere in Philadelphia, and a brief marriage notice to that effect was published yesterday.

MRS. TAFT'S GOWN TO BE AMERICAN

To Go To New York to Buy For Inaugural Dress

Mrs. W. H. Taft it is certain will buy in this country the trimmings for the gown she is to wear at the inauguration ball. She said so last week, when it was rumored that she had commissioned her sister-in-law to make such purchases for her in Paris. The future chaperone of the White House said she always had been able to find everything she wanted in the United States and she saw no reason for changing her course now. It is considered more than likely, therefore, that Mrs. Taft will buy all the minor essentials of her gown in the course of her short sojourn in the metropolis and that they will be given to the dressmaker early enough to insure the best of work.

The gown, it may be said almost with authority, is to be of white satin brocade embroidered in gold and silver and embellished with seed pearls. Friends of Mrs. Taft who know her fondness for pale pink and light blue state that she will wear one of those shades at the ball, but it is fairly safe to say their guess is wrong. There is small doubt that the gown not only will be made of American goods, but that it will be built by an American dressmaker.

It used to be held that primitive man was a vegetarian; but the anthropologist Othway has made careful and extended investigations, which indicate that primitive man, like the modern savage, was omnivorous.

FOOD FOR THE SEINE.

In Incident of Whistler's Student Days in Paris.

The early scenes in "Tribby" have won us the hilarious squalor of the student life in Paris when Whistler and the studio that Gleyre carried in succession to Delacroix. It was Bohemian, barely modernized, of Gertrude's novel, and the shifts to these raw recruits in art deeded furnished Whistler for life a source of his richest stories. Once still, an American friend mused that Whistler was living on the proceeds of a wardrobe. One hot day he found his coat for an ice drink, and he borrowed Poynter's dress suit, the best story of these frolicsome days arises from the eternal copying of the Louvre, either on commission or "spec," which kept them alive between remittances. Whistler's chum, Ernest Delannoy, had done a gorgeous replica of Veronese's "Marriage Feast at Cana" that took when framed the pair of them to carry it. They tried it on every dealer up and down both sides of the Seine until the first price of 500 francs had dropped with several thuds to 100, then 20, then 10 then 5. Suddenly the dignity of an asserted itself.

On the Pont des Arts they lifted the huge canvas. "En," they said, with a great swing, "deux, trois—flan!" and over it went into the water with a splash. Sergeants de ville came running, omnibuses stopped, and boats pushed out on the river. Altogether it was an immense success, and they went home enchanted.—Pall Mall Gazette.

"DEAD" 28 YEARS, RETURNS TO SON

Lancaster Man Returns to Family to Find Wife in Grave

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 1.—Francis E. Christ, who has been regarded as dead for twenty-eight years, walked into the home of his oldest son yesterday and finding the family at dinner sat down, as though to join in the meal. When the son, William F. Christ, protested against the seeming intrusion, the father laughed and asked:

"Don't you know me, son?"

"No I don't," was the reply.

"Well, I'm your dad. Where's mother?" the aged man asked.

"Mother has been dead now seventeen years. But you're welcome, dad."

The aged wanderer broke down and wept, but later in asking of his family found that his two "little girls" were both married and mothers. One is Mrs. Lillian Hoyer of Philadelphia, and the other is Mrs. Christian Oblander, of Columbia.

Twenty-eight years ago the father was a salesman in a local hardware establishment and in very comfortable circumstances. One day he disappeared and as the years rolled along he was given up for dead. His wife waited anxiously for him eleven years when she passed away believing herself to be a widow. The home was broken up and the children separated. The son took up his residence in this city and is now in the employ of the Conestoga Traction Company.

Christ gave no reason for his disappearance, but said that as he was now alone in years he could no longer resist the call of home. During his absence he had roamed over Indiana and Illinois.

His daughters have been notified of his return and were invited to a family reunion planned by the son.

STOLE HOLIDAY MONEY, THEN KILLED HIMSELF

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 1.—A. W. Troutman, an employee of a local produce company, committed suicide here after confessing that he had embezzled $720 of the firm's money. Troutman was married on Christmas Eve. He said he used the money to buy clothing and Christmas presents. William Troutman, of Los Angeles, and Herman and Felix Troutman, both of Chicago are brothers of the deceased. Shortly before killing himself Troutman told his employers that his brothers would repay the $720.

DEATH RATHER THAN DESERTION

New Yorker Shot by Virginia Woman Who Then Attempts Suicide

NORFOLK, Jan. 1.—Rather than permit him to forsake her, May Woodard shot John Emerson Stone, well known in New York and Boston, and then fired two bullets into her own head. Stone died instantly, but the woman was taken to the hospital and may live. In moments of incandescence the woman raved about Stone and his threat to desert her. The shooting occurred in Washington, Va.

Stone was 22 years old, and most of his relatives live in New York. One of his brothers, Albert Stone, is an employee of the John Pierce Company, of New York, and another brother, Edgar, is a captain in the United States Army, stationed in Luzon, Philippine Islands. Albert Stone is now on his way here to take charge of the body.

Persons living in the house where the killing took place said that there was a lively scene before the shots were fired. The woman's voice could be heard by neighbors and she was heard to say that if Stone carried out his threat to leave her she would kill him. Stone scoffed at her, saying that she would be happier when he was away.

The police said that Stone went to the house where the woman lived to tell her he was going to leave her, turn over a new leaf and go back to New York. He was in the woman's apartments several minutes before the voices of the pair were raised to such a pitch that the neighbors concluded there was a disagreement.

"I am going to leave you and go back to my people in New York," Stone was heard to say.

"You will never leave me and you will never go back to New York," was the woman's reply.

Then there was a few minutes of silence. The silence was finally broken by the sound of three shots fired in quick succession. When the neighbors broke into the room both the man and woman were lying on the floor. Stone was dead with a bullet hole in his right temple. The woman lay moaning on the floor with two wounds in her head.

One version of the story was that the woman rushed Stone to her house with the intention of killing him because he had threatened before to forsake her. That could not be confirmed. The neighbors were of the opinion that Stone went to the house to bid goodbye to her, and that was what started the quarrel.

A special from Washington says a coroner's jury rendered a verdict "that the deceased came to his death from a pistol in the hands of May Woodard."

Several persons were arrested and held as witnesses.

RECEPTION OF DOVER WOMEN

New-Century Club Had Delightful Affair to Usher in Season

DOVER, Del., Jan. 1.—Beginning with an elaborate New Year's reception last night in their appropriately decorated drawing-room and dining-room of the clubhouse on the Green, the Dover Century Club is beginning an active winter of study, conferences and active work for the advancement of town and state. At the reception all the officers acted as a receiving party and the club hostess provided a New Year luncheon. While it was not a leap year, the women arranged this reception, themselves, luncheon and all, and invited the men as their guests.

During the winter series of meetings and conferences, the members of the Legislature will be, from time to time, acquainted with the wants and projects of the State clubwomen, and at a number of the meetings the legislators will be invited.

The schedule of work arranged for the two months is as follows:

January 6—Business meeting. Reports of president, officers and chairmen. "Women's Industrial Work," presented by Miss Mary Johns Hopper and Miss Mary A. Forman.

January 13—"The Historic Background of Dover," a paper by Mrs. J. P. Salsbury.

January 20—Meeting under the direction of Mrs. Charles Jolls of Wyoming, chairman of forestry for the Delaware State Federation. Address by Enos A. Mills, United States Forestry Service.

January 27—Meeting under the direction of Mrs. T. K. Jones, chairman of education, with address by Mrs. Robinson of Wilmington, acting State chairman of education.

February 3—Business meeting. Reports of president, officers and chairmen.

February 10—Plays old and new. Speech of Abraham Lincoln. Tea.

February 17—Red Cross Day. Mrs. Henry Olmstead, chairman. Address by Miss Emily P. Bissell, of Wilmington, on the work of the Delaware Red Cross Society.

February 24—Current events. Mrs. E. H. Atkinson, Mrs. William Haman, Mrs. Reynolds Clough. Birthday of George Frederick Handel—1684. Music.
