

WOMEN TO FIGHT FOR RATIFICATION

Will Go on With Campaign for Extra Session of Legislature

VICTORY WILL ADD 17,000,000 VOTERS

In spite of Governor Townsend's declaration to call a special session of the Legislature, the Women's Party of Delaware, headed by Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, its president, will continue its fight for an extra session of the Legislature to ratify the Federal suffrage amendment. Their objective is votes for women in the coming Presidential election next November. Twenty-seven States already have ratified the amendment and only nine more are necessary. Of these latter the governors of four have called special legislative sessions to ratify. While the women are sanguine, nevertheless they are not taking any chances. All told 17,000,000 women will be given the right of ballot in the United States upon final adoption of the amendment. These facts were emphasized in a speech by Mrs. Hilles at the luncheon of the Woman's Party yesterday afternoon in the Hotel duPont, following the brief announcement of the Governor. Mrs. Hilles asserted that the women of Delaware wanted something more substantial from the Governor than expression of friendliness to the cause. She ridiculed the idea that the subject of expense was not worthy of serious consideration, declaring the amendment could be put through in two days with a total cost of $2000.

Mentioning the school code as one of the measures hinted at by the Governor as blocking a special session, Mrs. Hilles averred that it was up to the governor and the Republican members of the Legislature to "get together" and agree to "defer" interference with this or any other bill until the next regular session.

"It is perfectly outside the question," went on Mrs. Hilles, "to ask women to pay because of these conditions for they will have to pay for this and every other session in the final reckoning, as they have always been compelled to pay in the past. Other governors have found difficulties and have surmounted them. But the members of the Legislature are not responsible to the women because they are not representatives of the women. We must do everything to make the Governor see that he must put suffrage first."

Mrs. Hilles read a letter from Congressman Caleb B. Layton, of Delaware, in which he said:

"I think you understand well that I have been, and am yet, in favor of extending the franchise to all women, just as it is extended to all men, and I favor a special session of the Delaware Legislature for this purpose, in order that the suffrage amendment to the constitution of the United States may be speedily ratified, and the women of the whole land be given the right to participate in a national election, the result of which will determine, in a great measure, the future of the country."

Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, of New York, in an address that fairly overflowed with eloquence and humor, pleaded for ratification. She created a laugh when she remarked that although Delaware had sufficient powder to blow the world

Incendiary Starts Fire Under Steps of Grocery Store

CLUB MEN IN POOL TOURNAMENT

Special to The Evening Journal.

NEW CASTLE, Feb. 7.—Incendiaries attempted to fire the grocery store and residence of Samuel Kirschner's at Seventh and Dobbins streets, early this morning by setting fire to bags and rags, saturated with kerosene and gasoline, placed under the front steps of the store.

About 12:30 o'clock, Joseph Pasquina and a companion were returning home, when they noticed a blaze coming from under the steps. The family was called and the fire extinguished before any serious damage was done. State Detective McCoy was called and, after a preliminary examination, said he was unable, as yet, to place the blame. The bags were those used in shipping of merchandise from some firm in Baltimore.

The Royal Theatre, Samuel H. Ripe, proprietor, will open this afternoon, when Mayor Eckles will deliver an address.

U. S. GIRL HAS MILITARY ATTACHE.

LILLE—(By Mail)—(By United Press.)—The time-honored tradition that only royalty and ambassadors may have military attaches has been broken in favor of an American girl here. She is Miss Ella Harris, of Philadelphia, and her military attache, assigned by the French army, is Captain Jules de Surmont, aid to General Lacapelle.

Miss Harris is the district manager of the American Red Cross for its work in the devastated district around Lille, and her activities have become so extensive and helpful that the French army authorities of the Lille district have assigned Captain de Surmont to her as special assistant.

The assignment to her of Captain de Surmont and Delaware City continues closed. The company is experiencing great difficulty in getting ice off the rails. The storm made about one foot of ice, which has to be gotten off. The cars can now be operated within two miles of Delaware City.

Surmont, who is the son of a cotton mill owner of Lille and thoroughly acquainted with the district, is an exceptional honor, for a French army captain is a high personage. It is intended that he help especially in trading shipments of medical or relief supplies that are lost on the railroads, and in other liaison work with various French government bureaus and departments.
