NOT ACTIVE IN THE COUNTY SEAT FIGHT

Prominent Edgeley Citizen
Does Not Believe LaMoure
Will Have Change.

W. D. Oliver, the well known banker of Edgeley, LaMoure county, was in Grand Forks this week looking after a few land deals. Mr. Oliver is an enthusiastic LaMoure county boomer, and says that settlers are coming into that part of the state at a rapid rate. Mr. Oliver's home town has for some time past been making an effort to secure for itself the title of county seat. At present, LaMoure is the county seat. Some time ago, following the destruction by fire of the LaMoure county court house, the Edgeley people filed a petition with the board or county commissioners, asking them to call a special election to vote on the proposition of making Edgeley the county seat. The matter was referred to the states attorney, who decided that LaMoure was already the county seat, and for this reason, no election was called. The next move was the raising of $20,000 bonus for the county seat, the people pledging this amount towards the construction of a court house, providing the county give a like amount. Mr. Oliver says that at this time, the county seat proposition is a very dead issue. He does not believe that anything will ever come of the move.

LaMoure county, according to Mr. Oliver, is booming right along with the remainder of the counties in North Dakota this year. Many new settlers arriving in the county have resulted in good business and every one seems to be prospering.

EAST SIDE NEWS

BOATS WILL BEGIN START ACTION TO HAULING ABOUT CLEAR TITLE TO APRIL 29 PROPERTY

Steamer Grand Forks Will Transport 100,000 Bushels
—Navigation Opened.

The East Grand Forks Navigation company, which owns the fleet of barges on the Red river and the two steamers, Grand Forks and the Fram, will start spring hauling on Monday, April 29, and the barges and boats are being fitted up for the year. An immense lumber and grain trade is carried on between down river points and Grand Forks, and a large crew of men are employed from the opening until the closing of navigation. This year the Grand Forks will be the only one of the steamers used in the spring hauling, as it is thought this one freighter will be able to care for the spring transportation.

In discussing the outlook on the river, A. O. Lystad, one of the prime movers in the company, stated that there would be about 100,000 bushels of grain brought to this city for shipment this spring. This is considerable less than was brought up last spring, and the figures may be exceeded. However that amount of grain is now in the elevators ready for shipment, or is already contracted for. Last year approximately 500,000 bushels of grain was brought down and of which about 190,000 bushels were hauled in the spring.

Eclipse Previous Years.
"Besides the quantity of grain which we will transport," said Mr. Lystad, "there will be a big business in lumber and other merchandise, and we hope to eclipse all previous records. Most of the grain which will be carried from down river points."

Navigation on the river this year opens somewhat later than a year ago as the following table showing the dates of opening for the past twelve years, will show:

1895	April 16
1896	April 18
1897	April 10
1898	April 15
1899	April 19
1900	April 19
1901	April 9
1902	April 7
1903	April 13
1904	April 18
1905	April 7
1906	April 9

The water in the river at Winnipeg is still on the rise and the ice is being cleared and the danger of a flood is thought to be passing. In this city the water has subsided about fifteen feet from high water mark.

He says that Mr. Sullivan only returned $147 of the amount. The plaintiff is a resident of Fairdale, N. D.

James Jarvis is Plaintiff in Case Against Polk County
Started Recently.

An action has been started against Polk county by James Jarvis, to clear title to property located on Minnesota Point. The property in question lies at the approach of the old Red Lake river bridge, condemned some years since.

Last year James Jarvis had a man commence excavating on the old highway. John Dancer, who was doing the work was arrested, and his trial in justice court resulted in conviction, from which an appeal was taken.

James Jarvis it seems gave the property to the county a number of years ago. He claims that the property was to be used for street purposes. However, since the closing of the bridge, it has not been used, and he claims that title to it should revert to him. The case comes up at the next term of the district court.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Government and Biscuit Trust Defeated by Foreign Wafer Makers.

In a decision by Judges Wallace, LaCombe and Cox, the United States circuit court of appeals has overruled the contention of the government for the imposition of a 50 per cent duty on importations of foreign-made fancy sugar wafers. It was maintained by the treasury department that goods of this character are properly dutiable under the provision in the Dingley tariff for "confectionery."

It was further urged by the government that if the wafers are not confections, they should be held for duty at 50 per cent as "similar" to confectionery under the similitude section of the law. The government was aided in its prosecution of the case by the National Biscuit company, which seeks to drive out the foreign competition in this country.

The importers, Thomas Meadows & Co., American agents for Huntley & Palmers of Reading, England, denied the classifications for the crackers sought by the government, and insisted that as the merchandise was not produced by name in the law, it should be assessed at only 20 per cent as an "unenumerated manufactured article." This claim the appellate tribunal now sustains. Inasmuch as the government has been defeated before the board of appraisers and the circuit court, it is considered doubtful whether the supreme court will consent to review the case.

Mark Twain, Financier.

Mark Twain is the best paid writer in the United States or in the world. No other man in the history of letters, either here or in Europe, ever has received 30 cents a word on a contract that practically is unlimited as to time and absolutely without conditions as to subjects, treatment or anything else. It is unthinkable that Mark Twain should write a story or article and have it rejected. Even in that inconceivable event, however, he would be paid 30 cents a word just the same. Put into language easily understood, 30 cents a word is equivalent to $360 a column in an average sized newspaper.

After he returned from his trip around the world, a journey he undertook when he failed in business as a publisher, Clements barely could earn $6,000 a year. I had a talk with him which resulted in a contract to pay 30 cents a word for everything he wrote, whether it was printed or thrown away. No other author ever received more than 10 cents a word on a long contract. A Conan Doyle, the Scotch writer and physician, was $1 a word within a year or two for a new series of detective stories, but the engagement was short and a number of publishers were concerned. Mark Twain earns $50,000 a year. Indeed, I think his income in 1907 will reach $70,000.

A great strike for higher wages and shorter hours has been begun by the employees of retail dressmakers and tailors in Vienna.

RIPLINGS OVER THE STORE COUNTER

ing too much with the barnyard companions, or screeching too loudly at the passing feminine things that were so easily scared, and you passed your first Thanksgiving without being molested, and lived your first Christmas without mishap, and did not become a delirious during January, nor February, nor March, wouldn't it be rather hard to give up your life cheerfully in April? There are some, just such turkeys in the market at present. The content of their lives is evidenced in their smooth, firm, plump and plucked bodies. They come a dozen in a box, and are especially fine to look at. But the marketer, with a heart, thinking of the plan those turkeys probably made for a joyous spring and a summer trip, turns away sick at heart at their most untimely end.

The parsnips are especially fine, and the fresh cocoanuts make the nicest cake that anybody ever ate. The asparagus is nice, and the spinach will supply a nice complexion. Corn beef and cabbage—well, let it go at that.
