Christmas Seals
on Sale Thursday

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. R. A. Sprague, organization work in preparation for the local sale of Christmas seals for the North Dakota Tuberculosis association, has been practically completed. The seal sale Mrs. Sprague announces is to be conducted much as in years past, but on a larger scale. The sale will open on Thursday, December first.

Fifty per cent of the sale receipts are for local use, and again milk will be purchased for the 325 Grand Forks children who have been registered below normal by the Grand Forks school nurse.

The remaining half of the proceeds from the sale will go into the state treasury, and will be used to help control the white plague and other preventable diseases which have succeeded in gaining a marked headway in the state, but which the anti-Tuberculosis association is bravely fighting.

Figures show that in the United States 9.8 per cent of all recorded deaths are from tuberculosis, and that in 1919 persons died at the rate of one every four minutes from that disease, totaling 132,000. In proportion, over 700 deaths per annum occur in North Dakota, one every 12 hours.

To aid in the campaign of education against the white plague which the North Dakota Tuberculosis association is conducting, the local committee in charge of the seal sale, wishes to enlist the sympathy and cooperation of all individuals and agencies that are working for human betterment.

At a recent meeting of the Comus club of Grand Forks, one of the city's leading social organizations, tentative plans were made for two mid-winter parties, the first of which will be a holiday party on December 29. Messdames Melvin J. Sullivan and Robert Genner will be hostesses for the opening affair, at which there will be some very interesting features.

Details of the Comus club parties, the second of which is to be a Valentine party on February 24, have not yet been given out. It is assumed, however, that like those of past years, they will be marked by originality.

The club has forty members. Howard DeLong has been elected president for the coming year; Harold Smith, treasurer; and Clarence Haswell, secretary. Messrs. Othmar Lee Montgomery, W. J. Hewitt, Stan O'Connor and Raymond Collins are members of the board of directors.

A special meeting of St. Paul's Guild will be held in the Guild hall on Wednesday afternoon, at which time unfinished articles that are being made for the Christmas bazaar next Saturday will be completed. All women of the society are invited to attend the meeting and all having unfinished articles are urged to bring them at this time.

Plans for the bazaar and matinee dance on Saturday will be completed at the special meeting. The bazaar, it is expected, will be one of the largest to be given in the city this winter. Tea will be served during the afternoon and an unusually fine assortment of articles will be on sale.

Mrs. W. S. Whitman was hostess this afternoon to the Lady Elks in her apartment in the Dinnie block. Mrs. Nelson assisted the hostess in caring for her guests. Three tables were played.

Mrs. A. E. Knights of Wolf Point, Minn., is in Grand Forks this afternoon and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Knights, Hotel Northern, for an indefinite time.

In the university armory on Saturday night an ex-service men's party is to be given. The affair will be informal and an orchestra will play during the evening for dancing which is to be the main feature of entertainment.

A meeting of the University Faculty Informal Dancing club was held on Monday evening in the women's gymnasium at the university. Good music was furnished during the evening and some twenty-five couples enjoyed the meeting.

The Young Women's Missionary society of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs. Cleve Mortenson on Thursday evening in her home at 1629 International avenue. Mrs. J. R. Dicker and Miss Minnie Whaling will be the assisting hostesses. All members of the society are invited to attend.

Tinker Bob

SILKY PRACTICES THE GOLDEN RULE.

"I'll die, I'll die, I'll surely die," this was the cry of poor Silky, the monkey, as he stood in the river washing his eyes and his nose. "Oh, I want to see the King. I want to see the King of the forest."

He was feeling so badly that he didn't know what to say first. But that is the way everyone feels who comes in contact with Major Pole Cat. If Silky hadn't been so hasty in announcing himself he would not have been in the river trying to wash off the poison acid that Major threw on him. It was not the fault of the Forest Major for he was minding his own business. But Silky, thinking that it was Jack, the Rabbit, didn't stop to find out the truth in the matter.

"Oh, the more I wash the worse I smell," said Silky, and he began to cry. "Where is the King of the forest?"

Poor Silky's eyes smarted and the smell of that acid reminded him of the first time he ever saw Major Pole Cat. On the bank of the river sat Jack, the Rabbit, laughing as hard as he could laugh. "You will say you can catch me will you," then he laughed some more. "I told you you couldn't catch me," Jack just laughed and shook his head to see that silly monkey out in the river trying to wash off the acid that Major had sprinkled on him.

Jack laughed and laughed till his sides were sore.

"Wait till I get hold of you, I'll fix you for that," cried Silky. "It isn't my fault that Major Pole Cat gave you a taste of his poison fluid. I told you that no creature in the forest could catch me and you said you could and you caught Major instead. You have no reason to be angry with me because you did not catch me."

"You had no business to run so fast that I couldn't see you anyway," "It was your business to run fast enough to catch me so that I could not get out of sight." Then Jack laughed and laughed till his sides were sore. For it was a funny thing to see that monkey in the river up to his knees in water, trying to wash off the acid that he had sprinkled on him.

While Jack stood by watching he became so interested that he didn't notice any other creature about. But there was someone sneaking up on him and was making ready to catch him. It would have been better for him if he had watched his own business a little more than to laugh at the poor monkey.

"Smack," and it was all over. "Wow, wee," and Jack squealed as loud as he could. It was Red Fox who had pounced upon him unnoticed. He held poor Jack tight.

Presently Silky saw what had happened and went to the rescue. As he ran he picked up a stick at the river's edge and when he came within reach of Mr. Fox he beat him over the head with that stick till he was glad to let poor Mr. Rabbit go. This is the way Silky paid Jack for laughing at him. He saved the poor fellow's life.

Will Give Play
Next February

For the reason that there are so many productions underway at the present time, and because of the usual heavy demands of the holiday season, the Business and Professional Women's club has decided not to give "Katchekoo" until February. Final plans for the postponement of the play were made at the club's regular meeting in the Commercial club rooms on Monday night.

The young women of the "B" division were in charge of the entertainment which followed the "dutch treat supper." Little Misses Catherine Colton and Mary Robertson, gave a Kewpie dance, and an interpretive dance was contributed by Misses Mary O'Keefe and Adalade Kenna. Under the direction of Miss Smith, the girls sang two numbers, "Old Fashioned Home" and "Chrysanthemums."

UNIVERSITY CLUB
TO BANQUET FRIDAY

The second meeting of the North Dakota University Faculty club will take the form of a banquet in the Commons building next Friday evening, opening at 6:30 o'clock. Dean Hugh B. Willis will preside.

Members of the executive committee are not disclosing their plans for the program which is to be given simultaneously with the banquet courses.

From all indications, however, it is to be a worth while one. On the executive committee with Dean Willis are Dr. A. D. Bush, Dr. Clarence Perkins, Dr. D. R. Jenkins and Prof. Karl H. Fussler, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

The club's first meeting was held in October and like the coming meeting, was purely a social one. Members of the university and Wesley college faculties, officers of the administration and members of the library force, with their wives, are in the club.

Mrs. Alvin P. Clifford of the Hotel Daotah, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Katherine Clifford, and son Arthur, returned on Monday following a Thanksgiving visit with relatives in Minneapolis. Mrs. Clifford was joined in Minneapolis by her son, Benjamin, who is attending school in that city.

RESULTS OF MORSE
INVESTIGATION TO BE PUT BEFORE JURY

Washington, Nov. 29.—The government is preparing to lay before a federal grand jury here on December 8, the results of its investigation in connection with certain transactions between Charles W. Morse and the shipping board.

Reports have been current in Washington and New York for some time that the government was contemplating a grand jury proceeding. Shipping board officials would make no announcement today on the ground they had no right to talk about a contemplated grand jury proceeding. Fletcher Dobyns, special assistant attorney general, attached to the shipping board, however, would say no more than that the case would be presented.

The report which has been current has said others beside Mr. Morse would be involved.
