MB. BAYARD has received no official otification of the censure resolution, as strangely enough no provision for notifyim was included in the resolution. STURDY old John M. Palmer is a grateful exception to his bloviating colleagues in the senate, in that he keeps honest common sense always on tap. Interviewed about Cuba, he said: about Cuba, he said:

"It is none of our blanked business.
Sentimentally, I am in sympathy with the struggling Cubans, but practically it is not our business to interiere. The constitution provides that the president shall handle such matters, and he is entirely competent to do so without any coaching from converses.

pendent paper formeany, gots in the beautiful policy that will whiten every sea with the sails of American vessels flying the American flag." This is from the Ohio Republican platform, and is a fair exhibition of McKinley cheek. In 1860 66 per cent of the foreign trade was carried in American vessels flying the American flag. In 1889, after nearly thirty years of this commercial policy which whitens the seas, etc., the percentage of foreign trade carried in American ships was 14 per cent. When the McKinley act was passed, intensifying this commercial policy, the percentage fell to 12.5 per cent in 1891, to 12.3 in 1892 and to 12.2 per cent in 1893. It evidently needs only a revival of this policy in its full measure to drive the American flag from the seas completely.

EGYPT is possessed of about 7,000,000 people, and they are interesting apart from any consideration of personality or history. They are interesting because they owe so much. The aggregate bonded tedness of the country is $500,000,-000, which means a per capita of $72.70. his debt will probably stay awhile, chiefly because it is to the interest of some people outside of Egypt to keep the country owng. The land tax runs all the way from a merely nominal sum to over $8 per acre, but averages $4.56 per acre. e are only 9000 square miles of productive land of an average value per acre of $115, while the bonded indebtedness ed, is equivalent to $97.17 on each of se acres. And of course it is the proive land that must be depended on to sy the expenses of Egypt's enormously extravagant government the interest or ner debt and the principal of the latter if it is to be paid at all. It will be surmise om these figures that Egypt is not owned ch by Egyptians. The principal holdors of her bonds are found in England,

A great sigh of relief would go up from the American people if they could be told that an attempt had seriously been made by the insurgents to take Havana, or by the Spanish troops to take the insur-gents. There are two ways of ending a war—quitting or fighting it out. The parties to the Cuban conflict should adopt one or the other. This business of dodging each other on the island and blackguarding each other in the United States, makes the people of these latter feel fagged out. Be-sides, if one side or the other would lick in Cuba, hostilities might cease in our senate.

SOME FACTS IN THE CASE In pursuance of its work of informing the public here as to the falsehoods by which Mr. Huntington proposes to rob the people of Southern California of their haror. THE HERALD desires to call attention to other false statements of Mr. Corthell before the house committee. Among reasons which this employe of Mr. Huntington cites to show why Port Los Angeles is a more favorable location than San Pedro for the proposed protected harbor, he says: 'The breakwater at San Pedro, upon whatver plan designed, whether a continuous breakwater or isolated, as proposed by two different United States boards, must necessarily be in the open ocean—that is, beyond the headland—exposed to the full force of the ocean waves." That, bear in mind, is the testimony of a hired witness. We will now see what the testimony of the five engineering experts of the United States, composing the board of 1892, say. It will be remembered that the chairman of this board was Col. William P. Craighill, who is now the chief of the engineering force of the United States, and occupies the highest position known to engineering of this country. This board, after quoting on page 6 of their report the meteorological records made by the government as to the course of winds and currents and the position of headlands, on page 7 of their report state: "It appears then that Santa Monica bay is entirely open to the moderate down-coast or west winds which prevail during the greater part of the year, and that it is also exposed to the dangerous winds and seas which occur during the winter months, coming from the south and southwest. . . . San Pedro bay is protected by the highland of San Pedro hill from the prevailing down-coast wind. In quiet, and vessels lie safely at anchor and for the most part discharge cargo with lighters while the wind prevails. It is doubtless this circumstance which made this point the embarcadero of this part of the coast for the Mexican trade before California was acquired by the Americans. In more recent times the greater part of the commerce of this part of the country has also been transacted here. Formerly all the deep draft vessels from Australia and Puget Sound discharged cargoes in this bay. . . . San Pedro bay is also protected to a great extent from the southwest sea and wind by the island of Santa Catalina, which lies about eighteen miles off shore to the windward." On page eight of their report the same board says: "The board of engineers of 1890 reported that the fore shore of San Pedro bay from Point Firmin to Point Lasuen is practica-ble throughout its length for commercial . They selected as the best lo cation for a deep-water harbor the present anchorage ground on the westerly side of the bay under Point Firmin, since the protection of the shore, giving protection from the westerly winds and a shore point for commencement of the breakwater. of the bay." Attention is called to the pages of the report upon which this refutation of the Corthell falsehood may be found for the benefit of our rep resentatives in Washington who will be depended upon to use this evidence when the time comes, and THE HERALD will again remind its readers that it is the evidence of five disinterested engineering ex-appointee is a gentleman of high character dence of five disinterested engineering examt distinguished ability. It is doubtful if perts of the highest character, in favor of and distinguished ability. It is doubtful if the president could have made a better selection. The Herald hopes that under her new executive Arizona will continue her march on the highway of progress, and that with the incoming administration the harmony that for some reason seemed lacking during that of Governor Hughes, will be fully restored.

By the time the national Republican convention meets that Ohio Republican platform will look as though it had been playing target in a shooting gallery. No it. At San Pedro, as will be seen from exhibit B, above referred to, there are large rocky areas, as indicated by the kelp or seaweed shown on the chart." For the benefit of our representatives in congress attention is invited to a complete answer to the foregoing statement with reference to Santa Monica which the history of a recent painful thrust: storm affords at that port. During the prevailing high winds of some weeks ago, it was a fact published by the newspapers here, and of which notice was at that time sent to our representatives in Washington. that a large sailing vessel lying at anchor at Port Los Angeles was so badly pounded by the waves and became in such a dangerous situation that one of the steamers of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, sea room where she would have the opportunity of avoiding the danger of being At the same time the Enoch Talbot, on its way up the coast, started to run into Port Los Angeles, to avoid the storm, and was warned to keep cut, by those in charge, with the statement that the vessel would be surely wrecked if it attempted to enter upon the anchorage ground at that point. At this very time, three large vessels were riding at anchor in the outer anchorage at San Pedro, which will be the area of the proposed deep-water harbor there, and they rode through the storm safely, without the least apprehension or sign of danger to them from any defect in the holding ground or from the southwest winds which were working this havoc at Port Los Angeles. Proof of these facts has been forwarded to our representatives in congress, and if they have not received them and will apply to THE HERALD, it will see that they are furnished with them in any form desired for use before congress in opposing Mr. Huntington's effort to steal the people's harbor. As to the statement above quoted, that at San Pedro there are large rocky areas in the proposed harbor, as in-dicated by the seaweed shown upon the chart submitted by Mr. Corthell, it may be said that there is at the present time, either 600 Spanish soldiers meandering around in Senator White's possession or on file the limited areas represented by Havana before the senate committee on commerce, affidavits of forty-five masters and cap-tains of vessels who have sailed the southern coast for from five to forty years, in which the character of the anchorage in which happened at that time to be lying at the wharf, and a steam tug maintained by the Southern Pacific at that point, were compelled to tow this vessel out into open world. This matter, it will be reme gram to the senate committee criticising the holding ground at San Pedro, investi gated and proof offered upon it before the board of engineers of 1892, when they merce in this city, and on page 18 of their report the board says: "Some doubts have been expressed with regard to the character of the holding ground at San Pedro, but after intelligent inquiries the board is satisfied that it is as good in this location as in the others." Again, attention is called to the fact that this is the testimonyof five eminent and disinterested experts and known to the government as opposed to that of the hired engineer who could err more than 40 per cent in the statement of a distance of a little over twenty miles. For the information of our congressman, who may desire later to controvert the statement of Mr. Corthell, it can be stated that in addition to the affidavits of ship captains referred to, he will find attached to the report of the board of engineers of 1892, a stenographic report of the testi-mony which that board received from witsses before it upon this question of the holding ground. Can it be possible that representatives of the people will be silent and permit the rights of their constituents to be stolen by a conscienceless monopoly through the effect of such falsehoods as the foregoing, when the most absolute proof for the contradiction of these lies is in their possession? THE HERALD trusts that when this controversy is ended it shall not find it necessary to report such a neglect of duty of any one of our representatives in Washington. THE city council became weary early vesterday. In view of the fact that the body spent the day previous canvassing election returns, its exhaustion was not altogether inexplicable. An election canvass is enough to give even a city council that "tired feeling." Before the local fathers convene again Friday they will have ample opportunity to investigate the "Trust in Sin" that The HERALD uncovered to them and the public Monday. The people are waiting to see and THE HERALD is anxious to print what the council is "going to do about it."

THE Peffer resolution calling for an investigation of the recent bond issues is of course only inspired and supported by demagogism. Nobody of any consequence seriously believes that there is anything to investigate, and the time given to the corsideration of the matter will be virtually wasted. But the resolution has at least one merit-it is about something domestic, and in the discussion that is bound to ensue the world-wandering minds of the senate may be brought home and some of the senators be made to realize that they have a country of their own.

ONE of the most startling incidents of the contemporary political world is the reformation of Tom Platt of New York. The presumption that he has reformed is based on the horror he expresses at Mc-Kinley's methods of controlling delegates. teacher and Mac an apt scholar.

The royal robes for her majesty the queen of La Fiesta arrived yesterday. The gowns are pronounced a marvel of the dressmaker's art, and in material and style are most beautiful and costly. The robes are made according to the requirements of court etiquette in vogue at the courts in Europe, and the queen's dresses will be almost as much admired as the lady herself, when she appears in public. The ball dress is made en decollete, with the customary train.

Contracts have been let for the livery of the coachmen and grooms, who will attend to the carriages of the queen and her court. The drivers and attendants will be dressed in the regulation livery.

A Letter Explaining About the Property He Rents THE HERALD has received the following

THE HERALD has received the following from Jean Lenert:

EDITOR HERALD: In reference to your issue of March 30th, I respectfully ask you to rectify an injustice you have done me in your article headed A Grinding and Sinful Monopoly. You quote me as having seven cribs, which is correct. You also further state that I represent and control the west side of Alameda street. You state that two men have the full control on Alameda street, naming me as one of them. The facts are these:

I leased this property from Theodore and Mrs. Baur for the term of five years, paying them the sum of $220 a month for the bare ground rent. I have expended on that property about $10,000. I have carried on the saloon business in this city for a number of years and at all times conducted it in an orderly and quiet manner. As far as controlling the west side of Alameda street, I absolutely deny the least control or the ownership of any other property outside of that lease from Theodore and Mrs. Baur. If any one is envious of my position I will be glad to let him have it for one third of what I have invested in said premises.

Jean Lenert.

The only response The Herald has to nave it for one third of what I have invested in said premises.

Jean Lenert.

The only response The Herald has to make to the foregoing is that if Jean Lenert assumes that it has asserted or meant to convey the impression that he controlled the entire west side of Alameda street he is mistaken. The diagram accompanying the article, "A Grinding and Sinful Monopoly," published in Monday's issue of The Herald, plainly designated the ground controlled by Jean Lenert. The ground designated is the same that Lenert admits renting at the price of $220 per month, which is only about five times as much as the same property would bring for ordinary legitimate business purposes.

M'KINLEY CLUB.

Final Arrangements for a Big Ratification Neeting-Committees Appointed.

There was a large attendance at the regular weekly meeting of the McKinley club, at Odd Fellows half on South Main street last evening. Final arrangements were made for a grand McKinley ratification meeting, to be held in Music hall, Friday evening, April 10th. The following committee has the matter in charge, which insures its success: Ex-Sheriff John C. Cline, Colonel C. M. Fairbanks, Major Redding and W. R. Sargent.

The following committee on finance was appointed: Frank P. Flint, J. C. Cline and D. P. Reilly.

During the course of the evening addresses were delivered by President Frank P. Flint, George Reid, Jr., and Assemblyman R. N. Bulla.

An alarm was last evening turned in from box 65 for a blaze in Chinatown. The flames originated from a burning punk in the joss house at the corner of Nigger alley, which is situated upstairs in a brick building. All the furnishings of the room were of a flimsy and inflammable character and burned like tinder. Quick work of the fire department prevented the fire from spreading, and barring a thorough soaking the building was not much injured. In the joss house were a number of fine carvings and other valuables, which are ruined. The total loss is figured at nearly $2000.
