

THE QUEEN'S ROYAL ROBES

WHAT THEY LOOK LIKE—STRICTLY HOME MADE

A Detailed Description of the Attire in Which La Reina de los Angeles Will Dazzle the Multitude—What Her Majesty Has to Say—The Identity of the Prime Minister

The one absorbing topic of the day and one that has kept society and the general public on the qui vive as to who was the queen, has been the subject of the most realistic reality that Mrs. Mark B. Lewis will fill the exalted position, and if there be a "doubting Thomas" among the populace as to how she will look, or if there be a question as to a lack of royal splendor in the queenly vestments, all doubts would be dispelled by a peep into a spacious room in the rear of the home of the queen's parents, where three women, under the direction of one of the leading modistes of the city, are working with unceasing vigilance to complete robes of such magnificence and beauty that they will stand in favorable comparison with queens of foreign climes, who have reigned longer, but not so happily as will our Reina de la Fiesta, whose one supreme injunction is to cast all care away and let all pay homage with joyful hearts. Her majesty has guarded the royal secret well as to her identity, and it was not until publicly announced by the committee would she give even the vaguest idea of her connection with the coming festivities, but when the cloak of mystery was thrown aside and the command of secrecy annulled, her majesty has been most gracious in allowing the public description of her gown. When seen yesterday at her home the queen expressed her entire satisfaction in regard to all the arrangements the committee had made and the great consideration they had shown in every detail for her pleasure. She said she fully appreciated the honor that had been bestowed upon her, and realized the mutual obligations that were imposed in accepting the position, and with becoming modesty expressed a desire to reign with as much grace as she could.

LA REINA DE LOS ANGELES

siours of correcting the statement that her robes are coming from abroad. She said she "deemed it a duty as well as a pleasure to extend her patronage to home merchants and talent. La Fiesta being strictly a local celebration, then the money expended should be confined to our own city." So all the materials have been bought here and will be fashioned into magnificent creations by a local modiste.

The two former queens were discussed and highly extolled by her gracious majesty for the dignity and grace of their reign, but the queen who will take possession of the city in so short a time will be every inch a queen, with her modest yet stately bearing, surrounded by her brilliant court, and appearing in robes of such splendor that all will involuntarily bow before such royal magnificence. Her majesty will appear before the public six different times. Six white steeds will draw her carriage, and on all occasions she will be attended by her court and prime minister, T. E. Gibbon, whose attire of white satin and gold lace will be in keeping with the occasion. The first appearance of the queen will be at the pavilion on Tuesday evening, when she will be formally presented to the people of the city over which she is to reign with absolute authority for four days.

The gown to be worn on this event is of broad satin, the front of which is a dash of emerald green and delicate pink, the green predominating. The bodice of this is cut high. Extending across the front of the bodice is a diamond buckle and from each side are long tabs of emerald green velvet that reach to the bottom of the skirt. The court train is of emerald green, with a band of ermine, and lined with pink brocade satin. The puffed sleeves will be banded with jewels. The whole is enriched by a handsome jeweled girdle.

For the sports at Athletic park a white mousseline de sole over white satin will be worn. Although this is the most simple of the garments of the royal wardrobe, it is most effectively chic and has a dash of the new. It is wonderfully fetching. The skirt of this is walking length; just above the knees is a band of Nile green roses; the bodice is high and covered with a glittering mass of lace; the sleeves are elbow length; a jeweled belt will confine the bodice at the waist. This is the only gown with which the crown is not worn, and in its place will be a large picture hat of white lace and Dresden chiffon, caught up at the side near the back with clusters of Nile green roses, and dotted with dainty caps will be glittering jewels. A white silk parasol with a profusion of lace will shield the royal head from the warm sun's rays.

The splendor and grandeur of the ball gown cannot be described, and only those fortunate enough to see it when donned by the radiant queen can realize the symphony of beauty produced by the ensemble. White duchesse satin is the material, and is fashioned on the Empress Josephine style, the front of the bodice will be adorned with jewels. The court train is of yellow satin, brocaded in gold carnations. Jeweled clasps will secure it to the shoulder, the sleeves being elbow-length of the same material as the train, and held snugly at the elbow with bands of jewels. The plain severity of the front of the skirt will be relieved by an immense gold butterfly, embroidered near the edge and just a little to one side of the front, the jeweled girdle will fall to the hem of the skirt, and a glittering crown of jewels will complete the costume. A gown so gorgeous and a woman so beautiful, will leave a lasting impression on those who may have the privilege of being present at the ball that promises to exceed anything ever witnessed on the Pacific Coast. Vive la Reina!

TODAY'S EASTER SERVICES

THE GREAT CHURCH FESTIVAL WILL BE GENERALLY OBSERVED

Elaborate Music and Beautiful Decorations at the Catholic and Episcopal Churches—The Massaic Service Simpson Tabernacle This Afternoon—A Day of Exultation

The great religious festival of the Christian churches will be celebrated today with becoming ceremony. Music of an elaborate character will be a special feature of the services, while many of the Catholic and Episcopal churches have been beautifully decorated. The musical programs of the principal churches are given in the musical column, and special efforts have been made by the choir masters at the cathedral, St. Vincent's, St. Paul's, St. John's, Christ Church, the Simpson tabernacle, the First Methodist and other churches to make the music worthy of the great occasion.

At the cathedral pontifical mass will be said by Bishop Montgomery at 10:30 a. m., and Professor Stamm has prepared a beautiful musical service. There will be the usual vespers at 7:30 p. m. Father M. McAuliffe will preach the sermon at the morning service.

There will be five services at St. John's Episcopal church—low celebration of the holy communion at 7 and 9 a. m., full choral morning prayer, choral celebration and sermon by the Rev. Bishop Johnston at 10:30 a. m., and the usual evening service. The church has been beautifully decorated, and owing to the limited accommodations of the building, admission to the morning service will be by ticket only. The sermon in the morning at St. Paul's church will be preached by the rector, the Rev. John Gray, and in the evening full choral prayer will be sung and the confirmation service held. The Rev. Joseph H. Johnson, D.D., officiating. J. C. Dunster, the organist and choir master, has been at particular pains to prepare fine musical services.

Christ Church, Episcopal, on the corner of Flower and Pico streets, having been handsomely decorated during the recent enlargement, it was deemed proper by the committee in charge to adorn the interior with flowers. The large memorial window in the west wall comes in for a large share of attention. On the choir floor large pyramidal baskets, trimmed with willow and holding large bunches of carnations, freias and other choice flowers give a beautiful effect to this part of the edifice. To the right, on the wall space, is seen baskets of marigolds, and on the left vases of lilies hiding the organ from view. Approaching the chancel, where the highest act of Christian worship is rendered, the grandeur of the decoration arrests attention. The altar in the center is vested in white, with rich gold embroidery. Above is the burnished cross and the polished brass vases, with choice white roses.

The dark red dorsal back of the altar has received an elaborate network of flower decorations extending across the entire width of the chancel. At the base of the windows, for a space of twelve feet, rows upon rows of lilies mark the dividing line between the pediment and upper walls of the sanctuary. The lilies rise until they meet, and seem to blend with the elaborate Venetian-Gothic arabesque of the frescoed wall. The sides are banked in great masses of flowers, the color scheme being entirely white, forming a dado of exquisite pattern. It is conceded that the church never looked more attractive and inviting. The rector of the parish, Rev. Alfred S. Clark, will preach the sermon, from the text, II Timothy 2:8: "Remember that Jesus Christ, of the seed of David, was raised from the dead, according to my gospel." As usual, it will be extemporaneous. Rev. W. D. U. Shearman of Monrovia has kindly consented to assist in the service. The building will be free and open to all comers, no change being made from the usual custom of the parish. The two hundred additional sittings will be none too much for the expected congregation.

A special festival service will be held in the evening for the children of the Sunday school, with carols and addresses. The classes, as usual, will build up a floral object lesson in the presence of the congregation. There will be also a presentation of a handsome silk banner, and the decorations of the sanctuary and altars have been in the hands of the young ladies of the parish, and will be very rich and beautiful; rare flowers and golden candelabras.

The Trampers' Trap Men's Christian association held its first ramble yesterday. Twenty-nine young men and boys, ranging in size from 7 years to grown men, were seen at 8 o'clock in the dressing rooms of the Y. M. C. A. on Broadway and Second. Gymnasium suits were donned by all and at 9 o'clock the jolly crowd left the building for the depot of the Pasadena cars on Fourth street. At the city limits the crowd left the cars and in single file started for Devil's Gate, the goal of the walk. After climbing hills, wading, pushing brush and walking through orchards, the thirty crowd arrived at their destination. After eating lunch, everybody adjourned to a neighboring field where a spirited game of baseball was enjoyed. Before starting home several views of the party were taken by the annex artist, Frank Wall, after which a start for home was made by a different route. The tired party arrived at the Y. M. C. A. shortly before 6 o'clock, weary, but unanimous in their desire for another trip in the near future.

To Call a Mass Meeting A special meeting of the Free Harbor League was held in the chamber of commerce yesterday afternoon at a committee, consisting of J. R. Newberry, Ira B. Wood of this city, and Harry E. Brook of Los Angeles, was appointed to draft an address to the people of Los Angeles and vicinity, calling upon them to assemble in mass meeting to voice their protest against the proposed action of congress in the harbor matter. By a unanimous vote the thanks of the league were tendered to Congressmen Barnhart, Bowers and McGuire for the stand they have taken in resisting monopolistic efforts to obstruct the wishes of the people in locating a free deep water harbor.

Not to Be Trifled With (From Cincinnati Gazette.) Will people never learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that if it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent and thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year, ushered in by a little inconsiderate exposure and seemingly trifling symptoms. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaint to "colds" which at the time of their occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected. When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effective, and 50 cent bottles for sale by O. F. Vaughn, Fourth and Spring streets; C. F. Heinemann, 222 N. Main street.

The impressive and beautiful ritual will be enhanced by the music of the Dudley Buck Concert club, assisted by Madame Martinez, soprano soloist, and Frank H. Colby, organist.

ADMIRAL BEARDSLEE IN TOWN
The Distinguished Naval Commander and His Flagship Rear Admiral Beardslee, U. S. N., commandery No. 9, hold their Easter service at the Simpson tabernacle this afternoon. His flagship, the cruiser Philadelphia, was at San Pedro yesterday, and will be today for several hours at Santa Monica. The admiral and A. L. Hamburger, a prominent Chicago capitalist, last night occupied a box at the Los Angeles theater, the guests of City Attorney William E. Dunn. Mr. Hamburger will, during the present week, occupy quarters on board the Philadelphia, the guest of Admiral Beardslee. The Philadelphia leaves Santa Monica for Santa Barbara this afternoon, to take part with her officers and men in the floral festival in that city.

Labor Exchange Notes
The next meeting of the Labor exchange will be held next Saturday. The time line was started Wednesday by the Labor exchange to burn lime in the Santa Paula Labor exchange cannery building.

The George Loomis arrived at 10 o'clock Thursday evening and took on her usual cargo of oil and left Friday morning at 3 o'clock.
Fred Roth is fixing up the Adams' building on Main street, preparatory to opening a new candy store.

Secretary M. J. Ely of the Labor exchange has found a good stratum of pottery's clay between Ventura and Nordhoff, and it is probable that the exchange will start up a pottery.

Bankers' Resolutions
At a called meeting of the board of directors of the Savings Bank of Southern California, held at 1:30 p. m. yesterday, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously passed by a rising vote: Whereas, the angel of death has once more visited our directorate and with sudden hand bereft us of our beloved brother, Mr. C. W. Ford; now, therefore, be it Resolved, That this bank has lost a true friend and a wise counselor, a gentleman always polite and pleasant in manner and prompt in business. A LONG SEARCH REWARDED

After Years of Patient Hope and Seeking, John J. Morven Is Restored to Health and Happiness

A Home Blighted by Disease--Where Tears Fell Like Rain--A Pathetic Tale With a Moral for Us All

Eight years ago I was a prosperous merchant at Springfield, Mass. I had the respect and confidence of every soul in that illustrious New England city. With a devoted wife and children about me, the world all seemed sunshine and everybody was my friend. During the municipal campaign of 1888 I worked day and night for the success of our mayoralty candidate, and just as success rewarded our efforts I was taken down with "grippe." Three months later I left my bed a weak and broken man. The disease had left my liver and kidneys in a terrible state, and my physicians ordered me into the mountains. Three months in the Adirondacks found me even worse, and I set out with my family for Florida. A winter at Jacksonville seemed to improve me somewhat, but I was still an invalid, and all my other organs began to share in my great debility.

The following winter I spent at Asheville, N. C., and my condition improved so much that my friends advised me to return home and quietly pick up my business again. It's a sad story—how I tried to regain my lost ground, and found myself drifting month after month into my old helpless condition. Hope fled from our little home, and at last we took our journey to Southern California to find whatever a merciful providence might send. "While there is life there is hope," and there was still a little spark of each left to guide me to what proved my final rescue.

So persistent was my wife, who had heard from neighbors so much about the remarkable cures made by the English and German Expert Specialists that I agreed to give medicine one more chance.

These careful, intelligent Specialists examined me thoroughly, and told me that my chances for recovery were not encouraging. They made arrangements for me to go into the foothills, where I would be above the fogs and frosts, and there began my restoration.

I have just completed my tenth month of treatment under these skillful specialists, and today I am fully recovered. No one who saw me journeying over the desert a year ago would believe I am that pale, worn invalid they helped out of the train at Los Angeles.

The sun shines on our little home again, and gratefully I recommend all sufferers to these skillful Specialists, who have done so much for me and mine.

I will be pleased to answer all communications addressed to
