BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The audience which greeted Mr. Bryan on Boston common was the largest which he has faced since he started on his tour through the enemy's country. No estimate placed the number of people at less than 60,000, while many even place it at 70,000. Mr. Bryan had addressed a big crowd at Worcester at 3:30 o'clock. It was very enthusiastic and cheered with every telling point. One element of discord was visible there, but Mr. Bryan did not seem to notice it. It was a red flag with the letters "B" and "S" on it, hung on William H. Burns' underwear factory at the rear end of the platform. Beside it hung an American flag with Major McKinley's picture on it.

Immediately after the Worcester speech Mr. Bryan started for this city. Mr. Bryan, his party and the committee were half an hour late and the crowd had become very impatient.

Candidate Bryan, with his running mate, Vice-presidential Candidate Sewall, and members of the reception committee occupied the temporary platform in the center of the broad campus and the crowd entirely surrounded the little spot. Hon. James Mallett of Worcester introduced the speaker. The first speaker was Joseph T. O'Sullivan of Lawrence, candidate for lieutenant-governor.

Mr. Bryan appeared at 7:30 with a bouquet of roses in his hand and was at once introduced. The enthusiasm was greater than Boston common had ever seen before and it was fully seven minutes before he was allowed to speak.

Mr. Bryan said: "Though far from Nebraska home, I am glad that I can greet you as fellow citizens of a common country. I shall not attempt to make myself heard to all who are assembled here. I have spoken to a number of audiences (cheers in the distance and great applause) but I have never spoken to an audience that seemed to reach so far away into the distance as this one does. (Applause.) I will speak to those who are nearest to me here and those who are in Rhode Island and Maine can hear me when I visit those states. (Applause and laughter.) I came down to Massachusetts to present to you people the gospel of democracy as I understand it. The way we do it, I do not claim to have any authority except that conferred upon me by the Democratic convention. If you doubt my Democracy I can point to that convention as a better certificate than any bolting Democrat can find. (Applause.)

We lay down this proposition, that the more money there is in the country, the easier it is for any person who has something to sell to get his share of that money. (Applause.) Our opponents plant themselves upon the doctrine that the less money the whole people have the more money each individual will have. (Laughter and applause.) That is a mathematical proposition which you cannot find in any arithmetic, but it seems to be the proposition upon which Republican financing is based.

The gold standard has nothing to defend it except the misery which has followed it wherever it has been tried. The gold standard is a failure if you will accept the testimony of those in every land who have had the testimony of those who create wealth and add to the national productiveness. We have commenced a warfare against the gold standard. We invite you to join with us now. (Cries of "We will.") If you don't join with us now, and are defeated this year, we will come again and extend the invitation until a majority of the people of this country do join with us. We have not many great daily papers with us, but my friends, the time will come when the daily papers will be glad to furnish editorials that the people of this country want. (Cries of "They will, you bet.")

Having been connected for some time with the newspaper business myself, I do not underestimate the influence of the newspapers; but, my friends, in times like these people go ahead of the newspapers when the newspapers refuse to lead the people. I beg you to realize the importance of this issue to you. If it shall result in elevating to office those who believe in the free coinage of silver the reform will come now. If it results in another defeat, it will simply postpone for four years more the bringing of relief to the people of this country.

With this last remark Mr. Bryan closed his address and changed his position to the other side of the platform, as he had been obliged to do as many as eight times during his address. Facing the portion of the crowd which seemed largest, he called his companion on the Democratic ticket to his side, and both stood upon chairs. For the first time in this state, at least, the two candidates were seen side by side. Introducing his running mate, Mr. Bryan said:

My fellow citizens: I introduce to you a man who way up in Maine was willing to stand for free coinage when his neighbors were against it. (Applause and hurrahs for Sewall.) I introduce to you a man who was in favor of an income tax, although he had to pay it; a man who did not bow the knee to Baal, or worship the golden calf, Arthur Sewall, the Democratic candidate for vice president. (Tremendous applause and cheering for Sewall.)

MR. SEWALL SPEAKS.

Mr. Sewall said: Fellow-citizens of New England: It is a satisfaction to me that I have this opportunity to see the great results of the Democratic party and your candidate for president, and I will say with great satisfaction that I am his associate on the ticket. No less a person than himself asked me that question tonight whether I was on the ticket or not. I am glad of the opportunity to say, vain as it may appear for me, that your nominee for vice president is still on the ticket, and he will always be during this campaign, and he will not decline until after his election on the 3d of November.

In the old, old fashioned Music hall, William Jennings Bryan tonight closed one of the most eventful days of his eastern tour. The place has a capacity of about 4000 people under ordinary circumstances. An hour before the candidates' party arrived two-thirds of the seats were filled by ticket holders and hundreds were standing. When the building had been filled from wall to wall the doors were closed and clamorous thousands went away disappointed. The crowd cheered for everything it could think of in connection with the meeting pending the arrival of the speakers.

When George Fred Williams, with his party, pushed to the front of the stage the crowd burst into tumultuous applause. Immediately behind Mr. Williams were Mr. Arthur Sewall and a committee. Chairman Dawson promptly faced the audience, but more than five minutes elapsed before the demonstration of enthusiasm which began when Mr. Sewall first became visible had subsided sufficiently for him to be heard.

When in a speech frequently interrupted by cheers he introduced Hon. George Fred Williams, the storm of applause and cheering which Mr. Williams' name evoked lasted fully five minutes. At its conclusion Mr. Williams began what proved a most sensational speech. The Democratic state convention will be held here tomorrow and frequent allusions to parties to be prominent in it were made by members of the audience.

Just as Mr. Williams concluded his speech Mr. Bryan made his appearance on the stage, and when the cheering had subsided Mr. Williams introduced him. The nominee eulogized George Fred Williams and turned his attention to the gold standard Democrats, whom he referred to as the "genus gold bug." He said he had seen them resort to every sort of deception in order to "elect a Republican to prove that they are better Democrats than anybody else." Therefore, he said, he was prepared for all sorts of underhand schemes, for all sorts of work in the dark. He said it was necessary to take every precaution and that they could not be fought as honest men are fought. He made no direct reference to the situation tonight in Boston.

AT SPRINGFIELD.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 25.—Much refreshed by ten hours of sleep, Bryan left Hartford at 11:16. On the train was a committee from Springfield, headed by Col. John L. Rice. The first stop was at Windsor, where a small crowd had gathered, carrying a banner, "McKinley and Prosperity." Some cheered Bryan, more for McKinley.

At Thompsonville Bryan was cheered enthusiastically by the crowd gathered at the depot.

Mr. Bryan arrived at Springfield at 12:15, and was met at the station by Mayor Winter, members of the board of aldermen and George F. Williams. A great crowd followed him to the courthouse square, where he spoke to an audience that filled half the park.

Mr. Bryan said: Before entering upon a discussion of the important issue of this campaign, I desire in this city to pay tribute to independent journalism. (Applause.) My friends, I always respect an honest, earnest and able opponent. I never criticized the right of any one to speak his sentiments and present his ideas as clearly, as forcibly and as eloquently as he can. I believe with Jefferson, that error is harmless where reason is left free to combat it. (Great applause.) And if any man has an idea, I am willing for him to launch that idea and trust to the merits of that idea to make its way into the minds of men. I respect the Springfield Republican for the high plane upon which it discusses political questions. (Great applause.) I respect it for the tolerance it shows to political opponents, and, without censuring those who substitute abuse for argument, I commend those who use argument instead of abuse. (Applause.) I can commend also to every citizen the words of that distinguished editor who was the founder of this paper. I am told he is the author of the expression, "The man who is not willing to die for the cause in which he believes is not worthy to live." (Great applause.)

My friends, it is the willingness of the people to state their opinion upon the correctness of their convictions that has enabled the truth to speak from person to person, until at last it overcomes opposition, and in this campaign we have as good illustration as was ever given of the depth of conviction and the intensity of earnestness in the presentation of a cause. I challenge you to find among all those who ever defended a cause more earnest men than can be found today among the advocates of the right of this government to legislate for itself without regard to other nations. (Great applause.)

It will not do to say there is no cause for such feeling as is manifested now. If you read the dispatches which appeared in yesterday morning's papers from London, you will find that a great meeting of agriculturists was held at Buda Pesth, and in speaking of that meeting the dispatch said practically that all these representing agricultural societies were in favor of bimetalism. This great uprising comes from the masses of the people, who do not produce silver bullion, but they produce property, and they realize that the gold standard has been driving the value out of the property they produce. (Applause.)

The opposition press may well afford to pause in their ridicule of the advocates of free coinage and in their denunciation of them as lawless characters, to find out whether there is a well-founded reason for this advocacy of bimetalism among the farmers of the United States, England, Germany, France and every nation which has been cursed by the gold standard. My friends, I assert here, and I challenge any gold paper to dispute it, that the financial policy which is injurious to agricultural causes, has nothing to commend it to the government of any nation. (Great applause and cheering.)

THEIR FRIENDS ASHAMED.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 25.—The Yale News today has the following editorial commenting on the disturbances at the Bryan meeting yesterday:

The Yale News must deprecate the spirit of "horse play"—this is the true light in which the animus must be re-stated at yesterday's political demonstration—which prompted the demonstration. The action of Yale men present plainly showed a lack of respect for the dignity of the speaker as a public man, everything jollity aside, and a careful and fair-minded consideration will unanimously condemn the exhibition, irrespective of party affiliations. Yale was the foster mother of the Illinois college, where William J. Bryan graduated. Illinois college was founded by a party of graduates from Yale, and has always looked upon Yale as its parent institution.

TODAY'S EVENTS.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—This has been an eventful night in Boston and a temporary lull foreshadows the excitement of tomorrow. W. J. Bryan and Arthur Sewall, Democratic candidates for president and vice-president, addressed two monster crowds, one on Boston common and the other in Music hall. Conservative estimates say 70,000 persons were present at the first meeting and at the latter the house was jammed and thousands were turned away.

Tomorrow the state convention of the Democrats will be held in Music hall. George Fred Williams addressed the meeting at Music hall prior to the appearance of Mr. Bryan, and the vast enthusiasm and excitement marked his address. He made a severe attack on the gold standard element of the party and was wildly cheered at every sentence. He charged that corrupt methods would be resorted to to keep the silver element out of the convention, and calling for the silver delegates to remain in the hall all night. This proposition was received with great manifestations of approval, and at present 350 delegates are in the hall to remain until the convention opens. Speeches were being made and cheering continued. An appeal to the police to clear the hall was made, presumably by the gold element, but the police declined to interfere. Then the delegates sent for meals and prepared to camp all night.

While the excitement during Mr. Williams' speech was at its height, Mr. Sewall, and later Mr. Bryan, appeared and were greeted with uproarious applause. Later at night the members of the Bimetallic union entertained Mr. Bryan at dinner and reception.

Outside the hotel in which the dinner was given Mr. Williams appeared before the throng and said he would speak a few words for Mr. Bryan who had already made several speeches during the day, but Mr. Bryan was called for finally, in response to repeated shouts. Mr. Bryan was forced to address the throng.

2 a. m. About 300 delegates are still in their seats and prominent delegates are addressing them. It is feared that the lights may be turned out in order to force the delegates to leave.

THE BROKEN BANK.

The Union National Will Pay All Debts and May Resume.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Acting Comptroller Coffin has received a report from Bank Examiner Escott on the condition of the Union National bank of New Orleans which recently failed. The report shows the liabilities in round numbers to be: Due to other banks and bankers, $610,000; unpaid dividends, $7000; due to depositors, $731,000. The books, however, showed only $149,000 due to depositors; bills payable, $94,000; circulation outstanding, $49,000. Total liabilities about $1,645,700. The assets of the bank are given as follows: Loans and discounts, $717,000; overdrafts, $118,000; bonds to secure circulation, $56,000; stock, securities, etc., $397,000; banking house and real estate, $122,000; due from other banks and bankers, $62,000; exchange for clearing house, $64,000; cash in banks, $19,000, making the total assets about $1,486,700, which leaves $73,000 of the $500,000 capital after paying off all outside liabilities.

The bank examiner says that many of the shareholders are wealthy men and that there is reason to believe they will make an effort to resume on a basis of about $200,000 capital stock.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

MANCHESTER, Sept. 25.—The Guardian understands that an agreement is probable between Great Britain, Russia and France, in order to bring about the settlement of the eastern question, the co-operation of France being purchased by an understanding regarding Egypt.

Continuing, the Guardian expresses the belief that the scheme suggested is to utilize both Egypt and Turkey under an international guarantee with their rulers under international tutelage.

The Team Which Will Line Up to Meet the Berkeleyites Next Month—Sporting Notes.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 25.—The freshman-junior football contest, which resulted in a victory for the newcomers by a score of 6 to 0, surprised all interested in the game at Stanford. As the freshman team plays against Berkeley November 14th the way the team conducted itself was a matter of absorbing interest. The class has over 300 members and has active men in all athletic branches.

Under the able coaching of Cross of Yale, the "varsity" team is rapidly regaining form. Over fifty men turn out every evening to engage in the practice games. The first part of the evening is spent in punting and teaching the new men the rudiments of the game. All the most promising new men receive personal instruction from the coach, who, dressed in a football suit, plays opposite the men in the line. This is followed by lining the men up for a brisk practice game. The work will become more severe as the men get into condition. The most promising candidates for the "varsity" team are: A. S. Joffe, end; Kent, Wash.; C. M. Frickert, guard, Tehachapi; Charles Dole, half-back, Riverside; W. H. Soper, full back, Honolulu; N. A. Carle, guard, Seattle; T. M. Williams, center, West Virginia; C. C. Murphy, quarter, Salem, Or.; W. P. McIntosh, quarter, Los Angeles; L. R. Freeman, full back, Pasadena; S. V. Cotton, tackle, San Francisco; R. F. Wilbur, tackle, Oakland; G. R. Madden, end, San Francisco; D. McGilvray, end, Pasadena; F. S. Fisher, half back, The Dalles, Ore.; W. S. Harrington, guard, St. Helena.

New York, 3; hits, 4; errors, 3.

Batteries—Doherty, Corbett and Robinson; Seymour and Warner. AMONG THE PUGS.

George Dixon and Tommy White Fight a Savage Draw.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—George Dixon of Boston and Tommy White of Chicago fought twenty rounds to a draw tonight in the Broadway Athletic club, which is under the management of Tom O'Rourke. Probably 5000 people witnessed the fight, which was unusually fine.

Preceding this fight Danny McBride and Johnny Gorman fought ten rounds, and McBride got the decision.

Then Dixon and White appeared. Each was asked to weigh 135 pounds. There was considerable money bet at odds of 2 to 1 on Dixon. The first seven rounds were not eventful and honors were about even. Both had fought hard. In the eighth both jabbed lefts on the face, and Dixon's mouth began to bleed. Dixon rushed wildly and landed right on the head.

In the ninth round Dixon tried the left for the face, but White stopped him. Dixon swung his right on the head. Dixon's mouth bled again. Dixon staggered White with a left on the face. He rushed and sent a hard left on the body. Dixon swung his left on the body. White put two lefts on Dixon's mouth without return.

In the next round both landed often and brought blood. The fighting was fast and furious, but not sensational. In the fifteenth White jabbed his left four times on Dixon's face and Dixon swung rights on the face and body.

White jabbed left on the face and had Dixon's right eye in trouble. These last three rounds were White's and he looked good enough to stay out the twenty rounds.

In the sixteenth the men battered each other furiously and Dixon's eye suffered again. In the next round White's ribs showed up red and raw. Dixon rushed and put in three lefts on the body quickly.

In the eighteenth and nineteenth rounds the hard smashing on the head, nose and body was continued and both men showed its effects.

In the twentieth they jabbed each other on the face and clinched. Dixon smashed his left very hard on the face. Both landed rights and lefts on the face and body to a clinch. Rapid fighting with rights and lefts in hurricane style followed. It was one of the best rounds ever seen in this vicinity. Dixon grew very tired. He clinched repeatedly, but his efforts early in the fight had weakened him, while the Chicago boy seemed to gain in strength. The crowd rose to its feet and yelled words of encouragement to both pugilists.

When the bell ended the contest the pair of both yelled for a decision in favor of their particular choice, but the referee declared the bout a draw. This decision was received with cheers, but many of those who saw all the points were of the opinion that White had a shade the better of the bout.

SOME OTHER DAY.

DEFIANCE, O., Sept. 25.—The Van Heest-Kerwin fight announced for tomorrow night, here, has been declared off. Van Heest failed to put in an appearance.

ON THE TRACK.

The Western Trotting Record Broken by Ottinger.

STOCKTON, Sept. 25.—The western record for fast trotting was broken here today by Ottinger, Winship & Keating's speedy trotter. He went the three fastest heats and the four fastest heats ever trotted on the Pacific coast, in the 2:10 trot for a purse hung up by the San Joaquin Valley Agricultural association. The wonderful little horse made a bad break in the initial heat and came near getting the flag in his face but went the other three heats without a skip and had him out on the stretch he could have gone much faster as he was not at finish in any of the trials. The time of the heats: 2:11 1/4, 2:09 3/4, 2:10 1/4, and 2:09 3/4. The third quarter of the fourth heat was trotted at a 2:04 gait. Summary:

Trotting, 2:10 class, purse $800—Ottinger won, Iago second, Stam B. third. Best time 2:09 3/4.

Match race, $200 a side—Jennie Mcwon on a forfeit from Ed Ladferry. Time 2:16 3/4.

Pacing, 2:15 class, purse $500, unfinished—Belle took two heats, Frank L. and Prince Nutwood won a heat each. Best time 2:14 3/4.

Six furlongs, selling, purse $125—Tampan won, Ricardo second, Howard third. Time 1:14.

ON THE WHEEL.

Great Runs Made in the Twenty-four Hour Race.

COLISEUM, CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—A remarkable twenty-four hour bicycle race on one of the finest tracks in the world was run today, after the races last night that established the 50 and 100 mile records which may hold for years. Under the conditions of the race even the winner of the 50 and 100 mile records was not to be paid unless he rode at least 400 miles during the twenty-four hours.

At 13 noon the score stood: Grimm, 330 miles; Miller, 308 miles; Schinner, 308 miles; Wallers, 302 miles; Myers, 301 miles; Harding, 256 miles; Schock, 231 miles; Hansen, 236 miles; Blakeslee, 237 miles.

At 8:10 a. m. the score stood: Grimm, 482; Harding, 467; Schinner, 449; Miller, 446; Walling, 422. Waller was riding strong in the lead.

At 8:46 Grim left the track with a total of 488 miles, 1151 yards.

At the finish Waller, Schinner, Miller and Myers were the only ones running. The score was as follows: Grimm, 488 miles, 1151 yards; Waller, 483 miles, 988 yards; Schinner, 463 miles, 567 yards; Miller, 451 miles, 233 yards; Myers, 427 miles, 887 yards.

WON'T CHALLENGE.

The Britishers Not Anxious for the America's Cup.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Sir George Newnes, who contemplated issuing a challenge for the America's cup last year after the Defender-Valkyrie race, recently made the request to the London Yacht club to support him in issuing a challenge for the America's cup, the condition to be attached to the challenge that the matches should be sailed off Halifax.

The Royal London Yacht club has declined to accede to Sir George's request on the ground that the club had previously passed a resolution that the new deed of gift of the New York Yacht club for the cup was inimical to the sport of yachting.

VISITING CRICKETERS.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—The Australian cricketers gave Philadelphians a few points in the art of batting today and before they had been retired 422 runs had been made. It was the hardest and most scientific hitting that has been seen in this city for a long time. The batting of Darling was wonderful. He scored 25 runs in less than 10 minutes and placed three successive boundaries in his credit. The Philadelphians utilized all of their good bowlers at different stages of the game, but could not break the heavy hitting spell.

VERNETTI HELD.

The Evidence Shows a Case of Premeditated Murder.

COULTERVILLE, Sept. 25.—The preliminary examination of John Verneti, charged with killing Louis Brusch on Sunday night last was concluded this morning, Justice Murphy holding Verneti without bonds. The evidence shows that after a quarrel between the deceased and the defendant, which was apparently settled, Verneti visited several places in the town and endeavored to borrow a pistol. Failing in this, he walked to the Turino mine, two miles distant, and secured the pistol and returned to the saloon. After asking all present to drink, he invited Brusch to go outside of the saloon. They walked out arm in arm. After some time a shot was heard, and the occupants of the saloon, running out, found Brusch lying on the ground and the defendant near him with a pistol in his hand. Brusch lived but a few moments, but long enough to say, "He killed me for nothing." The trial will be held in November at Mariposa.

STILL UNSATISFIED.

Sanborn Has His Wife, But Wants His Money, Too.

JACKSON, Sept. 25.—Mrs. Sanborn, who deserted her husband yesterday after a matrimonial experience of three days, taking with her all the cash belonging to her spouse she could lay her hands on, was captured at Valley Springs late last night by Deputy Sheriff D. Fisher. She was landed in jail here this morning. One hundred and eighty dollars was all the money found in her possession and she claims that that was given her by her husband. Several hours were spent by the pair in the presence of the defendant's attorney, A. Caminetti, trying to arrange a compromise, but to no purpose. Mr. Sanborn wants his money returned intact. So the preliminary examination on the charge of grand larceny is now in progress. At the request of the defendant's counsel all spectators were excluded from the courtroom, including representatives of the press.

G. O. P. HARMONY.

Fails to Materialize in Spite of Earnest Effort.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—The leaders of the two Republican factions tried in vain today to come to an agreement. All day long they talked and argued but with no result. Finally they adjourned until tomorrow when another meeting will be held. It is probable that if an understanding is not reached the state central committee will take a hand in the row. In that case both factions will be repudiated by the state committee. The two conventions will be called off and another convention composed of delegates from both factions and others appointed by the state committee will be called to nominate a municipal and legislative ticket. The Spreckels faction went ahead with its convention tonight and nominated four superior judges. Three of them had already been named by the Spear faction.

NEW MINES.

A Rush for the New Diggings in Trinity County.

RED BLUFF, Sept. 25.—Ex-County Clerk W. R. Hall of Tehama county has returned from Wildwood, Trinity county, where he has been engaged in developing what is believed to be a very rich mine. He says that such are the possibilities of the country that the mining districts that he has located will equal if not excel that of the famous Harrison gulch mines, which were sold a short time ago, unimproved, for $130,000. There are many prospectors now in the district and the rush is daily increasing. A five stamp mill is now erected. An abundance of water and timber is near at hand, a sawmill being in operation and another being built and the roads to the central towns are in good condition.

AN ENGLISH STORM.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—A hurricane swept the coast all night and the sea was terrific. Great damage was done to the buildings along the harbor, wharves, piers, etc., and vessels were stranded at many points. Their crews, however, were saved by the life lines. Much wreckage is strewn about the shore in all directions and the channel service has been suspended. So far there are few fatalities reported.

DODGING THE LAW.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—The Vossische Zeitung learns that a series of conferences of the corn exchange respecting dealings in wheat futures has resulted in an agreement to adopt a contract note, which while excluding speculations will permit general dealings without infringing the new laws.

SOUTHERN FUSION.

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 25.—Fusion was agreed upon between the Democrats and Populists at their conference held here today. The electoral ticket is to be divided, giving Watson four Louisiana votes, but all agree to vote for Bryan.
