

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ENCAMPMENT. AT LONG BEACH.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 6.—The eleventh annual encampment of the G. A. R. at Long Beach opened most auspiciously, an immense audience, judging from the number already here, being assured. The day opened bright and lovely and all nature seemed to join in the welcome our citizens extended to the veterans of the civil war—no distinction in greeting being observable between that tendered to those who wore the blue and those who wore the gray.

The city looked its prettiest, decked out in the national colors, "Old Glory" flying from the masthead of the flagstaff in the park, waved out a welcome to the old boys, with much of the old-time vigor, alighted in droves from the several Terminal trains that passed through our city during the day. Reception committees from the Long Beach post, G. A. R., and from the local W. R. C. met the members of the different posts as they alighted from the cars and escorted them to the quarters provided for them. Commander J. C. Dunn of the Long Beach post, who is also quartermaster for the camp, was kept on the jump all day long, getting tent space ready and allotting grounds to the different posts as they called for them. However, Commander Dunn had an efficient lot of aids, and things went through as per schedule and without a wobble. The W. R. C., under the lead of its president, Mrs. L. M. John, was strictly in evidence, the deft fingers of its members, in conjunction with excellent taste, turning the bare walls of the huge old building into a thing of beauty. Flowers and vines, blending with the national colors, made a very pretty picture, the platform especially being gayly bedecked. The life and drum ans' association of Southern California, after thanking Mr. Johnson and through him the city of Long Beach, responded as follows:

"Here, in this enchanted spot, in the city of Long Beach, we are met as friends and brothers. We meet the citizens who have received us with open hands and generous hearts, and when we return to our homes we can all say, and truthfully, too, that the generosity and kindness of the people of this city extended to us while here will live green in the memory of every old soldier and his friends who have wandered their way hitherward so long as their lives shall last. The people of Long Beach have decorated their streets today in a manner never witnessed before. They have met us at every step and have shown us by every means we can imagine that not only does loyalty live in their hearts, but that loyalty has generated a feeling of kindness, of regard and sympathy for every one who has borne the banner of his country, who drew a saber in its defense, or who pointed a musket for its preservation and for the flag which today waves over an undivided country. Let us while here show that feeling of kindness and forbearance one to another that ought to belong to a generous soldier. Let our meetings be calm, considerate and deliberate, and when we have finished and the term of our ten days is ended, let us pass to our homes and retain a joyful remembrance of the kindness ern portion of the state, they also furnishing the program for the campfire at night.

SAN DIEGO BY SKIFF

FRANK BRYAN'S VENTURESOME SAIL FROM AVALON

He Expects to Reach the City of Grief in Only Two Days

AVALON, Sept. 6.—In a tiny skiff a few inches over twelve feet long, Frank Bryan started this morning for San Diego. The boat is a flat-bottom skiff, with a canoe deck made of canvas and a fin keel and rudder attached. Bryan has been making preparations for his perilous journey by building this skiff over and announced his intentions. At first no one would believe his statement that he was going to make the trip, and it was not until he started this morning that he was believed. Bryan carries water and provisions for a week, and expects to make San Diego in the course of two days, sailing most of the way. The sails are arranged on the regulation canoe plan, and the boat, as she is called, carries a lot of canvas for a boat of her size. Bryan is an interesting man. For three years he served in the United States navy and a portion of that time on the matches Oregon. For the officers of the Oregon he has only the highest praise, and is fond of recounting the adventures that occurred on the ship in quiet times. The start of his voyage was unpropitious, as a heavy sea was running and high winds were blowing out in the channel.

Justice M. T. O'Connell, who has been spending a week here, was out for a yellowtail yesterday with Mexican Joe, and it is needless to say that he got it. During the day's fishing Mr. Owens struck and landed seventeen yellowtail and a dozen bass. Some of the yellowtail were game and hard fighters and kept the justice busy as he played them.

P. Billington and C. A. Smith have just returned from a three days' cruise and camping trip in the Sailor Boy, with Al Shade as boatman. The first day they ran down to the isthmus, and then back to Gard harbor, where they camped over night, and the next day was spent in hunting goats, a number of which were secured. They also got the usual number of cactus thorns in various portions of their anatomy. While at Italian gardens they saw the two boys who were marooned there, and picked them up and did their best for them until they were taken off by the Santa Ana. They also pulled Mexican Joe's boat up on the beach, where the waves that were grinding it to pieces would not reach it.

B. Cartwright was out with Percy Neal for a day's sport with the yellowtail, and made a nice catch of seven yellowtail and fourteen bass.

F. V. Rider was out yesterday for the shark that has been making things lively at the east end of the island by stealing bait and fish after they had been hooked, but did not succeed in getting it. Jim Gardner was fast to his sharkship for about ten minutes, and at the end of that time Mr. Shark quietly walked away with a hook rig, value 85 cents, leaving Gardner to mourn.

The yacht Violet has gone down the coast to pick up General Downs and take him over to San Pedro. The general's nerves are in such a state that he cannot bear even ordinary conversation, and for this reason he goes over in a special boat. Jim Gardner, Al Holbrook and E. Smith have taken her down the coast and will run her over to San Pedro.

The Banning company's steamer Hermosa has been put out of commission at San Pedro.

The Catalina orchestra, the remnant of the Catalina Marine band, now plays at the Metropole through both the dinner and supper hours.

The Banning company's launch Linda has gone down the coast for a lookout trip. She will return this evening.

The Chinese junk Chang-Foo, which has been carrying abalones between Clemente and San Pedro, and which paid a visit to the island last year, was outside for about an hour yesterday afternoon. She was very close in and was an attraction for all the glasses in town.

STRAINING EVERY NERVE

Liquor Dealer Restovich Fighting the Charge Against Him

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 6.—Geo. Restovich, the proprietor of the American restaurant, in this city, who stands charged with the crime of selling liquor to Indians, does not propose to go to the penitentiary without a fight and availing himself of every technicality to get out of the scrape he finds himself in. Today he was to have been given his preliminary examination on the charge, but his attorney, Col. Bledsoe, got out habeas corpus papers and had Restovich brought before the court, in the hope that the latter would dismiss the complaint on the ground that his client had already paid a fine for the same charge. The court took the matter under advisement, and in the meantime Restovich is in the county jail.

Mrs. Belle A. Matthis of Highgrove was thrown from a carriage yesterday, sustaining a broken arm.

Henry V. Garland, a member of the Thirtieth United States infantry, who was wounded at San Juan while serving with his regiment, is in the city. Garland was given a 30-day furlough in which to regain his health, and he wisely decided to spend the time in Southern California.

J. H. Seward, agent for the Southern California Fruit exchange in Baltimore and Pittsburg, is in the city. Mr. Seward is here for the purpose of arranging for next season's business. From here he will go to Los Angeles.

The Republican fight for the place of district attorney on the ticket was further complicated today by the announcement of A. A. Adair that he was a candidate, subject to the voice of the convention. This makes a half-dozen after the position on the Republican side, and the fight is red-hot.

A Journalist's Death

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., Sept. 5.—J. C. Barclay, aged 64 years, an old journalist, died here today of heart disease. He leaves a wife and two children, one of whom, J. R. Barclay, is in New York.

THE DUTY OF MOTHERS.

Daughters Should be Carefully Guided in Early Womanhood.

What suffering frequently results from a mother's ignorance; or more frequently from a mother's neglect to properly instruct her daughter!

Tradition says "woman must suffer," and young women are so taught. There is a little truth and a great deal of exaggeration in this. If a young woman suffers severely she needs treatment and her mother should see that she gets it.

Many mothers hesitate to take their daughters to a physician for examination; but no mother need hesitate to write freely about her daughter or herself to Mrs. Pinkham and secure the most efficient advice without charge. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

The following letter from Mrs. MARY F. JOHNSON, Centralia, Pa., shows what neglect will do, and tells how Mrs. Pinkham helped her:

"My health became so poor that I had to leave school. I was tired all the time, and had dreadful pains in my side and back. I was also troubled with irregularity of menses. I was very weak, and lost so much flesh that my friends became alarmed. My mother, who is a firm believer in your remedies from experience, thought perhaps they might benefit me, and wrote you for advice. I followed the advice you gave, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills as you directed, and am now as well as I ever was. I have gained flesh and have a good color. I am completely cured of irregularity."

corps of the local post met each train, acting as escort to the visiting comrades, the old-time martial music causing all who heard it to "brace up" and keep step with the old boys as they marched by.

In the evening, at the reception and welcome of the veterans by President of City Trustees C. F. A. Johnson, the tabernacle was crowded, the enthusiasm as the "boys" marched in to their places bubbling over and finding vent in loud and continuous applause.

Mr. Johnson spoke as follows, delivering the address of welcome:

"Gentlemen, Soldiers of the Grand Army of the Republic (a glorious title nobly won and worthily worn). It gives me great pleasure, as a representative of our city government and of our citizens generally, and in their name, to bring to you tonight their welcome greeting. We are glad to have you with us. It is a happy thought for us all that today the Blue and the Gray blend into one color—the only rivalry being to see which shall better serve their country and mankind.

"We do not forget nor underestimate the fact that every man who steps out his life into the ranks of battle holds up his very life before him, a shield for us and for our common country. This is the inspiring thought that fills the soul of every true American with gratitude to the soldiers of the Grand Army.

"For this we welcome you to our little city-by-the-sea, to our great, rolling, majestic ocean—yours as much as ours—God's sea.

"The sea is his, for he made it." He made it for his children, of whom we are all apart, and we welcome you to the full enjoyment of our common heritage.

"We hope, soldiers of the Blue and Gray, that you and your families and friends will so thoroughly enjoy your encampment with us that the remembrance of these days will be to you like the poet's 'thing of beauty—a joy forever.'

"You will recall to each other, as you gather about your campfires, memories of the days of trial and of hard-won battlefields, and live over again in story and in song the lives that made you honored members of the Grand Army.

"And so, dear friends, wishing you all the happiness you can have from this grand gathering, I give you welcome to our homes and hearts."

Commander J. L. Hattery of the Veter-

and generosity with which we were received in the city of Long Beach."

As a prelude to the address of welcome and the response, the Congregational church choir of Norwalk rendered a patriotic selection. Commander J. C. Dunn of the Long Beach post opened the exercises by introducing President Johnson of the board of trustees. After the addresses mentioned, the quartermaster offered suggestions as to getting supplies to the camp without trouble. Commander Dunn then introduced Hon. W. T. L. Stafford, who made a patriotic speech, in which he seconded the address of welcome by President Johnson.

Rev. Alfred Inwood was the next speaker, who welcomed the veterans in happy terms. His speech was short and to the point. The choir then gave another patriotic selection. The choir is composed of five young women and one man, Prof. Holgate, and it was very cordially received. S. C. Kendall then delivered a pleasing address. The Long Beach quartet, composed of Dr. J. W. Webb, Mr. A. T. Crawford, L. A. Bailey and I. M. Linn, sang the "Battle Cry of Freedom." They were recalled.

The next speaker was J. M. Palmer of the Long Beach Press. An orchestral selection followed. The meeting was closed with three cheers for the army and navy. The pianists of the evening were Miss Beesie Tull; the cornetist was Peter DeWitt; first violinist, Gladys DeWitt; second violinist, Beesie DeWitt. All the young ladies are under 15 years of age.

The program for tomorrow will be furnished by the comrades of the entire south-and the sheep men are bringing large flocks of sheep from the north to again feed upon Orange county mountain grass. There are still a few shipments of beets from this county to the sugar factory at Chino being made. Another week will wind up the season.

Now that the resignation of Mr. Evans of Anaheim as a candidate for county school superintendent on the fusion ticket has been accepted, there is considerable competition among the other candidates for a place on the ticket. The former nominee was a Populist, but it is probable that the second one will be a Democrat.

The brick yards of this city have opened up in full force, in anticipation of a brisk building boom during the winter months. Mrs. J. P. Browne and Mrs. Henry Richter of this city have gone to Newport Beach for a week's outing.

Mrs. E. J. Rice of Los Angeles is in Santa Ana, visiting her sister, Mrs. J. W. King. Mrs. C. M. Holmes of this city departed today for a protracted visit in the east with friends and relatives.

Andrew Harris, who went to Los Angeles Saturday, expecting to have another operation performed for cancer, has returned home, the doctors deciding that it would be best to desist from further operations at the present time.

Miss Teresa Scanlon of Los Angeles died in this city last Saturday evening at the Rossmore hotel of consumption. The remains were shipped north Monday for interment.
