SAN PEDRO

HOPKINS DISASTER TO BE INVESTIGATED

WATER TENDER'S TESTIMONY WILL BE IMPORTANT

Reported That He Informed Lieuten ant Friederick of Danger When He Was Ordered to Stop Working of Blowers

[Special to The Herald.] SAN PEDRO, Feb. 16. - Whether neld to blame for the accident at San Diego Monday, on account of which one man lost his life and six others were scalded, will depend much on the testimony of the water tender in charge of the boiler on the morning of the explosion, according to statements made today by members of the crew.

The court of inquiry on board the Hopkins took additional testimony today. The members of the naval board in charge of the investigation are Lieut. in charge of the investigation are Lieut. Frank Gammon of the Perry, Lieut. M. K. Metcalf of the Lawrence and Ensign H. Jones of the Hull. The result of their investigations will warded to the department at Washington without being made public. There is much speculation among members of the crew as to the verdict. It is reported that the water tender informed Lieutenant Friederick, when the commander ordered the blowers stopped on the morning of the disa ter, that one of the tubes was leaking and that one of the tubes was leaking and that the men were in danger if the blowers were not kept running.

Without this testimony it is admitted that the commander of the Hopkins could not be held responsible for the men being burned, as a run to San Diego from San Pedro had been made only a few days before under full speed and high pressure.

The stopping of the blowers had no direct connection with the explosion, but it is admitted that if the blowers had been running the steam generated when the tube bursted would have been running out through the smok stack and would not have escaped into the fire room, where the men were

Members of the crew hold that the commander should have kept the blowers running if he was informed of a leaky tube, although it is the practice to shut them off when the boat is at the dock or anchor.

It is expected that the new boat will be placed on the run between San Diego and Portland early in August.

The Navajo will carry three oil-burning boilers and 1500-horsepower engines of the most improved type. The cost of the steamer will be about $225,000. The will be under command of Capt.

The company announces that a specsteamers will be built to be placed on

The increase in both passenger and freight business in and out of this port has been wonderful. Following the action of the Pacific Coast Steamship company in putting on the big liners, the Governor and President about a year ago, four new lines have entered the field. These are the Alaska-Pacific, operating the steamer Admiral Samp-son, between this port and Seattle; the Jebsen & Ostrander line, with the German steamers Ella and Erna, operating between Victoria and Central American and Mexican ports; the and merican and Merican ports, the Caradian-Mexican line, with the British steamers Lonsdale and Georgia, and the Swainy & Hoyt company, with the new Navajo. These are passenger and freight steamers engaged in carrying general cargoes and do not include the terrores of number of steam schooners. which carry passengers.
