

There's Music in the Air! Our Keynote of Low Prices!

You judge people as you find them day in and day out. Why not measure stores by the same tests of acquaintanceship? You will find this ONE even-tempered, always happy and prosperous in the possession of faultless varieties and flawless qualities at low prices. There is where our popularity springs from. We never buy odd lots left over from bygone seasons, where quality is doubtful and styles out of date. We are doing business with our eyes wide open to the interests of our patrons. We cater to the popular tastes and demands. We know what's wanted and keep it. We have no room for any but reliable goods. Our prices are the lowest possible. Our variety IS TRIPLE THAT OF ANY OF OUR COMPETITORS, and the money awaits all dissatisfied purchasers.

Note a Few of Our Prices! Come and See Our Goods!

1/2c under yesterday. Cash oats were 1/2c lower.
Provisions—Products went the way of grain, everything closing lower. The hog market was 1/2c lower, which was one argument antagonistic to prices. The weakness of grain was another. The business of the day was small. At the close May pork was 1/2c lower, May lard 2 1/2c lower and May ribs 1/2c lower.
The domestic markets were quiet and easy.

aid steady, and cloths quiet. Spot cotton here was quiet and unchanged.
Four receipts today were 37,500 bales, against 36,322 bales last week.
Today's features: The advance at the start today was due to the fact that Liverpool advices were much more favorable for the bulls than had been expected. Futures showed little or no change. Later on, when Liverpool advices were less favorable, the bulls' position was weakened. A significant feature of the interior towns was light, and that the arrivals today at the ports and interior cities were light. New Orleans bought here and some of the German houses which sold in the morning bought this evening and prices quickly took an upward course and closed at about the best figures of the day. It was not only the light crop movement that cheered the bulls; it was the general situation, viewed from almost every standpoint. Spot prices were rising at the south and New England mills showed more disposition to purchase. A significant feature of the statistical situation is that the receipts not only at the ports, but at the interior towns, are much smaller than in the months of 1894. Another encouraging factor is the continued activity in Liverpool, the sales there being 12,000 bales a day, and the receipts showing much greater strength than the distant months.

Cotton Letter.

New York, Nov. 27.—(Special).—The trading in cotton was quiet and uneventful, but the elasticity of the cotton market. Although Liverpool was lower our opening was firm at about yesterday's closing price. After the call January, which had opened at 8 1/4, advanced to 8 5/8. Then several large selling orders came in and the bears took advantage of the fact to make a vigorous drive at the market. January rapidly gave way to 8 1/4, at which price numerous stop orders were caught, resulting in a further liquidation, and January declined to 8 1/8. The bulls were rather dazed at the unexpected slump, and for a time the market continued weak and feverish, but when it became evident that there was no more long cotton that could be shaken out prices began to harden. The expectations of light receipts at New Orleans tomorrow helped the recovery, which was very marked in the last hour. The close was at the best prices of the day, with January at 8 49/64, and the close steady. Although prices may be advanced materially later on we fear that for the present every advance is liable to be followed by a reaction. On any further improvement we advise our friends to turn their paper profits into cash.

Cash quotations were as follows:

Flour was quiet and easy; prices were unchanged. Wheat—No. 2 spring, 56 3/4c; No. 2 red, 55 1/2c; No. 2 white, 55 1/2c. Oats—No. 2 red, 17 1/2c; No. 2 white, 17 1/2c. Lard, 8 90c; No. 2, 8 50c. Dry salted hams, $4.50 to $4.75. Short clear sides, $4.75 to $4.87 1/2. Whisky, $1.22.

Dry Goods.

New York, Nov. 27.—There has been a slim attendance of buyers in the dry goods market today and spot business has been on a limited scale. The general tone of the market for both cotton and woolen goods is without material change from recent reports. The jobbing houses report quiet conditions all around. Collections are still generally regular.

Chicago 'Change.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—For the day immediately before a holiday there was an unusually good trade in wheat today. At the outset the feeling and sentiment were rather favorable to prices than otherwise, but holders were not any too sure of their position and before the day was over about a cent was taken from values. An Armour interview, published in one of the morning papers, in which the big elevator proprietor and packer stated that he would deliver out about 500,000 bushels of spring wheat for December, served to make the trade feel a little uneasy and occasioned free selling under which the market had its first break. The close the market had its first break. A prominent Milwaukee capitalist, who was presumed to be one of the wheat, caused renewed selling, when prices made the low record for the day. Outside orders were not very numerous, owing to the particularly disabled condition of the telegraph companies. May wheat opened at 61c, sold between 61 1/2c and 59c, closing at 59 1/2c, 1/2c under yesterday. Cash wheat was 1/2c per bushel lower.
Corn—November corn was weak this morning. Offerings of that month were not large, but the few lots on sale were not wanted and the price easily receded 1/2c. The May option sympathized in the weakness, but did not decline quite as much. The continued dropping tendency of wheat eventually made itself felt in corn, and the close was the weakest moment of the session. Business was lacking in interest, however, and the range of prices was narrow. May corn opened at 23 1/2c, declined to 23 1/4c, where it closed, 1/2c under yesterday. Cash corn was weak and 1/2c lower.
Oats—As far as trading was concerned there was practically no oats market. Traders, however, gathered in the accustomed corners and held their place from 12:30 p. m. until 1:15 p. m. without transacting much in the way of business. No oats were taken from store. May oats closed

New York, Nov. 27.—A better feeling prevailed in stock circles today, due to the improvement in the financial and political situation abroad, the easier condition of the sterling exchange and buying for both the long and short account. London sent a number of buying orders for its old favorites, and for the first time in over a year took certain grades of plug. Sugar, Leather preferred, General Electric, Lead, Laclede Gas preferred, Distilling and Cattle Feeding and Rubber gained anywhere from 1/2 to 1 1/2 per cent.
