

A Remedy That Cures Paralysis

Mr. H. N. Warner, of Kearney, Neb., says:

"In 1894 I was attacked with paralysis in my left side. You might stick a pin to the head into my left hip and I would not feel it. I was unable to do any kind of work, and had to be turned in bed. I fully made up my mind that I could not be cured, as I had used all kinds of medicine and had tried many doctors. At last I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I very reluctantly commenced their use last September. Before I had finished my first box I began to feel much better, and by the time I had used six boxes the paralysis disappeared; and although two months have passed since I finished my last box, there has been no recurrence of the disease."

From the Advertiser, Astell, Neb.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after-effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, all forms of weakness either in male or female.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are never sold by the dozen or hundred, but always in packages. Retail druggists, or direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., 60 cents per box, 6 boxes $2.50.

BRITISHERS BRING SUIT

Macfarlane and Catton
Defendants.

AGENCY MONEY INVOLVED

Former Also Sues Latter for Share of Commissions on Sales--
Old Matter.

Two important suits for an accounting of funds made their appearance in the Circuit Court yesterday in which John Fowler & Company, a firm doing business in Great Britain, demands a render of accounts of the sum of $13,000 from George W. Macfarlane and Robert Catton, both of this city, making them defendants in the action. The second suit is by Macfarlane against Catton in which the former asks for an accounting of sums aggregating about $21,000.

In the suit brought by Macfarlane against Robt. Catton there is a narrative of financial co-partnership between them which began in 1893 and abruptly terminated in February, 1899. The parties to the suit carried on the business of representing John Fowler & Company of Great Britain in the Hawaiian Islands, the plaintiff turning over to Catton the business but reserving the right to share two-fifths of the proceeds.

Plaintiff Macfarlane says that prior to 1893 he was agent for the Fowler Company in connection with one W. L. Green, who died in 1893.

Plaintiff then arranged to continue said agency in association with the defendant in the latter's name, the plaintiff to receive two-fifths of the earnings derived from all sales here. They continued to carry on the business with the consent of the John Fowler Company until February, 1899. The defendant, says Macfarlane, duly accounted to plaintiff for the latter's share of the proceeds during 1893, but that since December 31, 1893, has refused to account for plaintiff or pay his proportion of the earnings of the agency.

The defendant continued making sales on account of said agency during the year 1894 and subsequently until February of last year when the defendant was notified by the corporation that he (Catton) would no longer be recognized by it as in any way associated with plaintiff in connection with said agency.

Macfarlane alleges that defendant received as commissions and earnings by reason of the agency large sums of money aggregating in all more than $21,000, although he does not know the exact amount, the defendant having kept and still retaining the books.

Macfarlane further alleges that the amounts received by Catton are still open, unpaid and unsettled, and defendant refuses to render him his proper share or proportion.

Wherefore the plaintiff asks that Catton "be summoned to appear and answer his complaint, but not under oath, the benefit whereof is waived."

"That defendant may make a full and true discovery and disclosure of and concerning all and singular the transactions and matters aforesaid, and that an account may be taken by and under the direction of the court of all the dealings between plaintiff and defendant and between defendant and the John Fowler Company."

"That the proportion of the amount of said agency to which plaintiff is entitled may be ascertained and the amount when so ascertained the defendant may be ordered to pay."

The suit of John Fowler & Company against Macfarlane and Catton shows that the agency was given them in 1893 and they were authorized to negotiate sales of machinery, steam plows and other goods, and to receive payment therefor, and were entitled to receive certain commissions as compensation. The business was carried on until February, 1899, in the name of Catton, but with the co-operation, advice and counsel of G. W. Macfarlane. Many sales were effected and defendant Catton received large sums of money aggregating upwards of $13,000, which the company alleges Catton withholds from them. They further allege Catton wrongfully refuses to account to plaintiff corporation for a large portion of the proceeds and refuses to pay them over as in equity and good conscience he is required to do. The court is asked to summon Defendant Catton to appear and answer the complaint, but not under oath.

The Risdon Iron Works has received judgment in its assumpsit suit against the Maunalei Sugar Company, Limited, for $15,335.75. George Lucas, clerk of the Circuit Court, yesterday filed the judgment in court, which reads as follows:

"This action by petition claiming the sum of $15,335.75 was filed in the above entitled cause on the 9th day of July, 1900."

"Thereafter, to-wit, on the 14th day of September, 1900, the defendant filed in the said court a confession of judgment and consented that judgment be entered for plaintiff for the amount claimed in the said petition."

"Therefore, it is adjudged that the plaintiff recover of the defendant the sum of $15,335.75 damages, and the sum of $920.14 interest thereon, attorney's commissions and costs taxed at $396.39 and $17.50 costs of court."

Dr. Frank L. Miner has filed an exception to the ruling of the First Judge of the Circuit Court in denying motion for new trial.

The First Judge of the Circuit Court has filed an order requesting R. D. Mead, the commissioner who sold the property mentioned in the bill of partition of Lillian Lee Newton, an infant, vs. George H. Newton, et al., to turn over all proceeds from the auction sale of the property to the court instead of to the parties to the suit. The motion was made by Henry Holmes, one of the purchasers.
