QUEEN PRESENTED WITH HER PORTRAIT.

Aloha Aina and Kalaialina Societies
Honor Their Former Ruler.

Yesterday the Aloha Aina Society and the Kalaialina Society presented Queen Liliuokalani an oil portrait of herself. The representatives of the former party were J. K. Kaulia, the president, and J. K. Kaunama-no, and those who presented the latter party were Joshua Keau, vice president; John Kanui, C. P. Polikapa, S. H. Meekapu, M. Mauuhii, Kukaulahi and four others.

The members of the two societies met at Washington Place at 1:30 o'clock p. m. and were received by the Queen with her companions, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Mahiai Robinson, in her drawing-room. Joshua Keau was the bearer of the gift. J. K. Kaulia and Joshua Keau stood immediately in front of the Queen. The former made the presentation speech, saying that on behalf of the people they were there to present to her a token of aloha. He spoke of unity. "Like a parent loveth his child, and the child the parent," he said, "that is the only way to keep in unity." He remarked that they would always cherish the aloha for their Alii. After his remarks the portrait was presented to the Queen. The Queen in receiving the gift thanked her loyal friends for their kind token of aloha and in her response, she said that she was no more the sovereign of the land but that the people had the sovereignty in their hands.

The portrait is an oil painting, 24x28. The Queen is sitting down before the Bible, which lies open and over her lap is the Hawaiian flag. The frame is of beautiful koa wood and at the bottom of the picture are the words "Aloha Puna-hana."

This was made some time ago. It was intended to give the portrait to the Queen on behalf of the Kalaialina and Aloha Aina Societies, when the Queen returned from her last trip if she had succeeded in securing her rights and power.

SANTA TERESA USES HER HEALING POWERS.

Mexican Girl Benefits a Number of Sick People With Her Gentle Manipulations.

Fifteen men, women and children afflicted with some disease or another permitted Santa Teresa, the Mexican girl healer, to lay hands upon them at Metropolitan Temple last night and all declared that they felt better as a result of the treatment. The only subject who said he failed to receive any benefit from the gentle touch of the black eyed senorita was a man 85 years of age, who has been blind, deaf and lame thirty five of them.

Santa Teresa is very kind in her manner of ministrations to the patients who present themselves to her to be cured. It was too quiet a demonstration, for the audience which half filled the hall gradually thinned out before she had devoted an hour and a half to her seance. Her manager then announced that her vital force had become much weakened in the treatment of the fifteen cases and invited everybody to come again.

Most of those present were filled with doubt, but if the patients themselves are to be believed they all felt better after Teresa had applied her magnetic touch. A man who had suffered with locomotor ataxia for two years walked more briskly off the stage than when he went on. A little girl who formerly could not put her left foot on the ground on account of a sprained ankle accomplished the feat with the aid of her mother after being treated.

Other patients who said they felt better included John Josey, who has spinal paralysis; Sarah Less, who has diabetes, paralysis. A boy who could barely distinguish objects with his right eye said he could see more clearly after it had been rubbed by Santa Teresa, and a deaf lady was overjoyed in the belief that she could hear better than before. She was treated by Teresa.—
