The Fatal Leap.

ED. THE INDEPENDENT:—

Excitement ran high yesterday afternoon at Waikiki! Bets went up and bets went down while a member of the fair sex stood on the ragged edge of the raft. Admiring swains clustered beneath and implored her to take the fatal leap. One was over heard to declare that he would catch her in his arms, but the young lady only squealed and executed a "pas seul."

Meantime crowds gathered on the shore around with cameras and opinions of their own. One rash being bet five good American dollars that she would, and his companion went five better that she wouldn't.

Finally at the end of half an hour a wild shriek pierced the air and the young lady took a rapid flight toward the center of gravity amid loud applause from the anxious audience. "K. O. A."

At the Mint.

On March 16, there will be a meeting of the directors of the Mint, to discuss the question of coinage, and the size of the equivalent to be poured out for a quarter. The stockholders are requested to meet later on in the new beer garden, back of the Mint, and there express their views on dividends and reserve funds. The President hopes that there will be a full attendance.

It is said that Henry Guy Carleton, the playwright, who stammers very badly at times, not so long ago stopped Nat Goodwin on the street and said to him: "Nat, will you give me half an hour for 1-1 five minutes' conversation?"
