Another Fire.

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock a fire broke out in a cottage between School street bridge and Liliha street, which resulted in the total destruction of two houses one occupied by Mr. Hoke and the other by Joaquin Freitas. A sick child was carried out from Hoke's house by Lieutenant Leslie, who had one of his hands burnt in his attempt to save the child. Mrs. Freitas who is an invalid refused to leave her house until the danger became so eminent that she was removed. For a while the Kaulawela school as well as governor Rice's stables were in danger but both buildings were saved through the prompt action of the fire department. In the Rice stables were a number of the horses saved from the Stockyards fire.

A retail license was granted to T. B. Lyons at Wailuku, Maui.

Labor Day

Labor Day will be celebrated in an unusual festive manner this year. There will be a parade, starting at 9 a. m. from the Drill Shed, there will be sports during the afternoon at Kapiolani Park and in the evening a grand ball at the Drill Shed, to which 800 invitations have been issued.

The parade will occupy the entire morning, with its attendant speech-making and reviews, and will pass over the principal streets, ending after a counter-march before Governor Dole and a party of United States Army officers, General J. C. Breckenridge being at the head of that party. The line of march will be the following, in so far as it can be arranged at present:

Grand Marshal Matthew Heffernan.
Chief Aid Thomas Ray and Corps of Aides Mounted.
Territorial Band.
Banner of United Labor, Representing All Branches of Trades, Es-corted by a Corps Selected from all Trades.
Major Edward Davis, Commanding Two Batteries U. S. Artillery.
Plumbers' Union.
Electrical-Workers Union.
Brotherhood of Carpenters.
Bricklayers' Union.
Plasterers' Union.
Painters' Union.
Second Division.
Sailors' Union, Headed by the Portuguese Band.
Postoffice clerks and Letter Carriers.
Francis Murphy Clubs.
Ironmolders' Union.
Boilermakers and Iron shipbuilders' Union.
Floats and Wagons of Merchants.

The route of the parade will be as follows: Form at drill shed, move down Richards street to King, to Fort, to Beretania, to Victoria; counter-march on Beretania to Kapiolani, to King, to the Executive building grounds, where, after review, the parade will disband. In the makai portion of the building Governor Dole, with his staff, General Breckenridge, with attending officers, and invited guests, will be stationed, from which point they will review the parade. The committee on awards will be in this party and will judge the unions as they pass before the reviewing party.

She Wants Her Child.

A summons was issued Thursday to High Sheriff Brown on the complaint of Mrs. W. E. Marr of Fall River, Mass., directing him to notify one Walter Erwin Marr to appear before Judge Gear at chambers on September 6th at 10 a. m. to show cause if any he has, why Mrs. Marr should not be appointed guardian of her son, Harold E. Marr.

At the same time a temporary injunction was issued ordering W. E. Marr to refrain from molesting, disturbing or interfering with Harold E. Marr until the matter of guardianship shall be determined by the court.

The summons was served on Marr that same evening by Deputy Sheriff McGurn, while he was eating his supper at the Langton House.

Mrs. Marr has retained the services of W. R. Castle and P. L. Weaver in her fight for her child.

Mr. Marr, who has lived here under the name of Walter Erwin, has retained Stanley and Holmes.

Review of Territorial Militia.

The Territorial militia will be reviewed by Governor Dole and General J. C. Breckenridge Monday morning. The regiment will be paraded without music, but will be put through a drill to give the Inspector General of the United States forces a chance to see what the local National Guard can do. Governor Dole will have his staff with him and there will be in the party of the Inspector-General several regular army officers who are now in the city. The time of the parade and drill will be so arranged that immediately it is over the Labor Day parade will pass before the reviewing stand.

A Horrible Tragedy.

A telephone message was received from Wailua this morning stating that a Hawaiian, named Kealohe, had entered the house of a native woman, Maria K. Kalamakee, widow of the late Judge S. H. Kalamakee, and shot her with a rifle. Neighbors who heard the shot ascertained the cause but Kealohe allowed no one to enter the house where the wounded woman lay. Dr. Herbert Wood was summoned, but when he approached the house Kealohe fired two shots at him, fortunately missing the doctor, who hurried to the Deputy Sheriff. A posse was sworn in and led by Deputy Sheriff Cox the house was approached. Kealohe warned them to stop, stating that as soon as the woman was dead he would kill himself. The Deputy Sheriff advanced and the desperate man fired at him but missed his head. The officer continued to advance when Kealohe fired again and seeing he really meant business Sheriff Cox retired with his posse and reported to Honolulu. The last message from Wailua at noon was to the effect that the woman was still alive and that the Deputy Sheriff of Ewa with officers were on their way to re-inforce the local police.

A Brilliant Virtuoso.

When in the hands of a master there is no instrument which can pour forth such soul-inspiring, heart reaching tones, as the violin, cello, and those who were present at the Opera Thursday night will admit that Jean Gerardy is a master without a peer. To describe his playing is impossible. It stirs every fiber in a human being who absorbs the wonderful tones which the virtuoso draws from his instrument. His playing calls tears to the eyes while it still gladdens the heart. It was brilliant, glorious and it was nearly sacrilege to return to earth by the noisy but, alas, customary bursts of applause.

The Opera House was well filled but it ought to be filled to overflowing when on Thursday next another concert will be given.

Mr. Gerardy was ably sustained by Mrs. L. Tenney Peck his accompanist and by Mrs. Whitney who rendered two piano solos in a very pleasing manner.
