British Politics.

The Liberal Unionists were to hold a conference March 31st, on the Coercion Bill. Several Unionists disapprove of the measure, but a majority, including Lord Hartington and Mr. Chamberlain, support the Government proposals.

Lord Hartington was about issuing a manifesto through the new Unionist paper, in which he disclaims, on behalf of Unionists, belief in coercion as a policy, and says: "The object of the separatists is to prove that the government of Ireland, as part of the United Kingdom, is an impossibility with or without reform. The object of the Unionists must be to prove that the union is indissoluble, while doing justice to Ireland." The whole tone of the manifesto indicates that there will be no compromise.

The Gladstone Liberals are elated at the small majority of 88 over themselves and the Parnellites, in the division on Mr. Morley's amendment, when the nominal majority of Conservatives and Liberal Unionists is something like 117.

At an informal meeting of the Parnellites March 28th, they united in denouncing the atrocious character of the Coercion Bill. They said it concealed provisions and powers for the extinction of the liberties of the press, public meetings, free speech, and individual rights.

Mr. Dillon, replying to a lengthy speech by Mr. Balfour, said the Coercion Bill would never become law. Either he would leave a country where no Irishman could live unless he lived like a slave, or, if the people were willing, he would be proud and happy to lead them in battle.

Lord Salisbury, after a Cabinet council March 26th, went to Windsor. At latest accounts his trip was interpreted to mean the probable resignation of the Ministry. The Downing Street version was, that the Cabinet decided to advise the Queen to proclaim Ireland, pending the discussion in the House of Commons on the Coercion Bill.

Various Items.

The project of restoring the Crystal Palace in honor of the Queen's Jubilee is said to have reached a deadlock through disagreement of the debenture holders.

Queen Victoria has been photographed in state dress by M. Wallerig, who used a new process that makes a photograph look like an etching. So pleased was Her Majesty with the picture that she ordered a number to be sent after her to Aix-les-Bains. Several continental papers have asked Wallerig to let them have this portrait, to issue as a supplement to special editions on jubilee day.

It is said that the reason why Prince Albert Victor was sent to Gibraltar was that the Prince of Wales found his son taking a great fancy to the gaiteries of London, also that he had fallen in love with the pretty Princess Mary of Teck, who was disapproved of by the Queen and the Princess of Wales.

Thirteen Austrian anarchists, convicted of complicity in the plot to set fire to the city and blow up the Imperial Palace at Schonbrunn, with dynamite, have received sentences of hard labor for terms ranging from one year to twenty years.

Lord Randolph Churchill, who ran away to the Continent on account of a conjugal tiff, has returned to London and become reconciled to his wife.

Great uneasiness is felt regarding the failing health of Emperor William, who caught cold in his eye on his birthday.

A conspiracy to overthrow the Spanish monarchy has been discovered, and among many arrests were those of the head armorer of the royal palace, a relative of a ministerial deputy and a discharged detective.

There is an active intrigue in Paris to overthrow the Goblet Ministry, the object being to get rid of General Boulanger. M. Ferry, although in Algeria, is regarded as one of the prime movers in the conspiracy.

Messrs. Manning and Jordan are in England, where they will confer with the officers of the Union Bank, that being selected as the London correspondent of the new Manning-Jordan bank to be established in New York.

Cardinal Gibbons has issued a report in Rome on the Knights of Labor, in which he holds that the Church and the Order will co-operate, and does not believe it necessary to have the workmen's organization under the supervision of the priests.

MISCELLANEOUS.

L. Myers, of New York, who lately passed through Honolulu, and W. N. George, of England, ran a 1000-yard race at Sydney, N. S. W., March 26th, Myers winning by six yards in 2:10.

Eighty-five miners were killed in a colliery explosion in New South Wales.

Cambridge won the University boat race. Oxford rowed better, but lost through poor steering.

Prince Ferdinand of Saxe Coburg has expressed his willingness to be a candidate for the Bulgarian throne. The Bulgarian delegates are ready to vote Alexander back on the first opportunity.

The Ocean Yacht Race.

The yacht Coronet arrived at Queens-town at 12:50 p. m., London time, March 27th, winning the ocean race in 14 days 19 hours 37 minutes and 14 seconds, actual time. Whole number of nautical miles sailed, 2,949; longest day's run, 291.51 miles, and shortest 38.8 miles. A succession of fearful gales was experienced the entire trip.

The Dauntless crossed the finishing line at 6:45 p. m., March 28th. Her actual time was 16 days 1 hour 43 minutes and 13 seconds. She had about the same weather as the Coronet, having to lay to 16 hours once, and again to send before the gale on bare poles. On the 25th a run of 328 miles was made, said to be the best ever made by a yacht on the Atlantic ocean.

The St. James Gazette eulogizes the skill and ability of American yachtsmen, saying, "To cross the Atlantic in fourteen days in atrociously bad weather without losing a spar or sail is not a bad piece of seamanship." It says that the hundred tons less weight of the Dauntless than the Coronet made serious difference in rough weather, and that there is no doubt that both are fine vessels.
