LOCAL NEWS.

Messrs. Oat & Co. will receive a paper mail by the barkentine Mary Winkelman which is now due.

It is rumored that the Government intends to offer a prize to the property owner who can yield the worst fifty feet of sidewalk.

Yesterday afternoon a dray horse started to runaway with a truck near the old Custom House wharf but was stopped by coming in contact with an iron post.

The only merit that the sidewalks of Honolulu have is that they are so utterly bad and rough that Chinese laundrymen are forced to wheel their hand barrows in the streets.

The "aloha" cards arranged by Mr. Clarke with ferns and mosses, and which Messrs. King Bros. are now exhibiting, are very pretty and quite unique. They make beautiful mementos to send to friends in the States and Europe.

The Yosemite Skating Rink has introduced a novelty to vie with the turkey Christmas shooting of the United States. From to-morrow evening until Christmas there will be "turkey skating" at the rink. The winner will have the pleasure of carrying his bird home.

Mr. and Mrs. Strong have on exhibition and for sale at Oat's on Merchant street and King Bros' on Hotel street, a number of Christmas cards of original designs. Some are charming island landscapes, some figure subjects, and all are daintily lettered in purple and gold.

The dedication of the new Chinese Y. M. C. A. took place last evening. There was a large audience present including both whites and Chinese. Mr. Frank Damon conducted the ceremonies. The roadway leading to the building, was gaily decorated with Chinese lanterns. Refreshments were served after the exercises and the audience dispersed.

The new Polynesian Temperance Hotel will be started this week by Messrs. Barber and Cavenagh, two experienced caterers. The new place will be opened next Saturday evening the 5th instant, in the Lincoln Block, next to Meller and Halbe's bakery on King street. Every thing will be new and the hotel will be run on improved principles. There will be nothing of the "hash house" about this new enterprise. In lieu of hanging pictures of game and fish upon the walls, the originals will be cooked and George Cavenagh will handle the money rake.

For some time past a Portuguese woman has been annoying people by professional begging on Fort street. Many complaints have already been made of the nuisance by good citizens and business men. This particular beggar hovers along Forts street, generally from Hotel street to King street, and every kindly face she sees is immediately confronted with a paper and an appeal for money. If there is no law on the subject the authorities ought to remove her as a nuisance. Since writing the above it is reported that she was not on the street yesterday; perhaps she has already been ordered away.

Several English tourists while on a sight seeing expedition through the Chinese portion of town day before yesterday afternoon were entertained by the Chinese method of weighing a pig. These tourists probably never saw as much fuss made over a pig before in their lives. The usual Chinese process was duly carried out. It took at least a dozen chinamen to handle his pigship. Three for each leg and fifteen or twenty more to boss the job and do the talking. During the performance the pig sang "God save the Queen" and the "Star Spangled Banner" to a Greek air but at last mellowed down and chanted "Hawaii Pono!" with a doleful voice. Everybody present gave the pig an encore before they dispersed. The chinamen at last announced that the piglet weighed one hundred and forty pounds.

Day before yesterday evening about six o'clock while Mrs. J. W. Hingley was walking up Nuuanu street with her three little children, one of whom she was wheeling in a baby carriage, she was run into by a hack, driven by a white man, and narrowly escaped being frightfully injured. Just as she reached the curb at the corner of Kukui street the hack driver turned suddenly from Nuuanu street into Kukui street with the hack close in to the curb and caught Mrs. Hingley in the hinder wheel, she barely having time to push the children and the baby carriage out of the way. Mrs. Hingley was so firmly caught between the curb and the wheel that the latter was blocked and ceased turning on the axle. It was only the greatest fortune that the hackman had a gentle horse which immediately obeyed the rein, that Mrs. Hingley escaped being dragged and seriously injured. As there was a lighted street lamp on the corner there is no shadow of excuse for the hack driver.

Messrs. Wenner & Co the popular jewelers of Fort street have just opened a reserve stock of fine Christmas goods. Among other choice goods are novelties in fine diamond rings, diamond sets of pins and ear rings for ladies, diamond and pearl scarf-pins, pearls and onyxsets, intaglios, and a general assortment of single pieces, silver-ware etc., etc. Orders for Island jewelry a specialty. Persons who intend to purchase fine holiday gifts will find it to their advantage to call and examine their stock.

A few days ago a hack came tearing up Fort street from one of the incoming steamers, at a rate of not less than eight miles an hour, and turned suddenly into Hotel street grazing the curb at the corner of Goo Kim's store. The hack was driven by a white man, and came very nearly knocking down the business manager of this paper, who only saved himself by a sudden leap backward. Other parties who saw the affair have added their complaints to his and state that it is their belief that the crossings of Fort and Hotel streets are the most dangerous in town.

The regular monthly meeting of the Honolulu Fire Department was held in its hall last evening. Mr. John Nott Chief Engineer, who has just returned from the United States, presided. After the regular routine of business had been transacted, the Chief gave an account of his visits to the several fire departments in the United States, and reported to the firemen of this city, that after viewing the apparatus used in the states, he was of the opinion that the Honolulu Fire Department of today, was as efficient as any he had seen abroad. The monument intended for the firemen's burial lot will be ready to put in position the latter end of next week. The members of the Hook and Ladder Company were surprised when the Chief stated that they will have a new truck in about six weeks. The front of the hall was lighted by lanterns in honor of the Chief's return, and the motto "Welcome to our Chief" in front of the door.

They say: that the men of the hour are the political tricksters; that the streets of Honolulu will never be any better under the new contract; that the contract only demands that the streets be left in as poor a condition as they are found in; that an appropriation will be asked for at the next Legislature to pay the Aulā girls; that the transferring of the Bell Telephone Co.'s wires to the new tower will be a nice job; that it will be done without interrupting the public; that the dudes of the United States intend starting a newspaper to defend their rights; that they will hire an editor outside of the brotherhood so as to warrant success; that the new Mexican line of steamships, if put on, will offer quick mail facilities to Honolulu and will open up trade with the Mexican capital; that the political rat with the smallest head gets into office first; that the display of Christmas cards at Thurm's store is the finest in town; that the laboring classes who have their families in these Islands are the only ones who are really identified with the country; that the quickest way to redress the political abuses of the present Administration is for every foreigner to become a voter; that the agitation of the opium question is causing every guilty man to accuse himself; that the police claims the newspapers are injuring their business; that the wife-beating business ought to be severely punished in Honolulu; that the political Moses will never appear to lead the people out of the wilderness of Hawaiian mis-rule; that the restaurant business is about to loup up again in Honolulu; that the "Merry Makers" are so funny they laugh at each other; that the grade of the streets ought to be lowered below the curbs; that Jimmie Williams takes a photograph by "picking it up"; that the latest style hat is the pattern of ugliness; that the fashion plates of the world cause more financial ruin than political revolutions; that there is danger of one of the old cannon rolling down Punch-bowl hill; and that the more a man talks the less influence he has.
