

RECENT GRAFF PICTURES SHOWN

Artist's Display Includes Brown County Scenes.

Carl Graff, one of the group of Indiana artists that has helped to make Indiana famous, gave a display of his most recently painted pictures this afternoon in his new studios in the Union Trust Building. Mr. Graff spent a pleasant and profitable summer, with a little car and a camping outfit, wandering around gray, fashion, camping and painting where and when the "spirit moved him," and he is now welcoming his friends to see the result of his summer's work.

Most of his time he spent in Brown County, that haunt of artists and nature-lovers, and most of his scenes were painted there, although he did some work in Bartholomew County and some at "Brendonwood," near Millersville. The scenes in Brown County, having been painted in midsummer, are mostly in vivid hues of greens and blues, and are scenes along Big Salt Creek, showing the hills, the stream and the ravines. One large painting, called "Twin Beeches," is a beautiful scene with the two large beech trees in the foreground that were, Mr. Graff says, his "friends in the front yard of the camp." Another showing several beeches, he has called "In the Shadows of the Wood," and these were his back door friends.

Another wonderfully appealing scene is called "Valley Road," showing the hills in the distance. The "Lure of the Hills," the "Trail of the Woods," "Peaceful Valley" and a "Quiet Afternoon" are all typical Brown County scenes brought to life by a master hand.

The Brendonwood scenes were painted later in the season, when the foliage was turning to vivid hues, and are all in the warm, rich colorings of autumn. The large scene called "Brendon Wood," has all the trees in autumn dress and is a mass of brilliant coloring. "The Shadow of the Wood" shows a little stream with the trees and a blue haze over all, bridges the change between seasons and is one of the most charming scenes on display. This was painted along Eagle Creek. Mr. Graff's treatment of the walls of the studios is worthy of more than a casual glance in passing. He has hangings in Batik, in shades of lavender, which make a most sumptuous setting for his artistic and beautiful paintings.

Society

Women of the Altrusa Club will hold their annual November dinner tomorrow night in the Florentine room of the Claypool Hotel. Dr. Frank S. C. Wicks will be the speaker for the evening, and a group of musical numbers will be sung by Miss Flo Bethard McKee, accompanied by Miss Hazel Wann. Miss Eunice Johnson and Miss Clara Wiley, new members of the organization, will be special guests.

Following the formal program an initiatory "stunt" will be put on, introducing all the members affiliated since September. The committee in charge of the "stunt" includes Mrs. Georgiana Weber, chairman; Mrs. Josephine Courtwright, Mrs. Pearl Clark, Miss Emma Boyd, Miss Ethel Parsons, Miss Rosaline Day, Miss Celesta Cromer and Mrs. Augusta B. Holister.

The regular luncheon of the club will be held Saturday.

Lynne Rapp will entertain tonight with a bridal dinner at the Columbia Club in honor of his sister, Miss Helen Louis-Rapp, and Glenn M. Tindall of St. Louis, whose marriage will take place tomorrow.

Members of the Mu Phi Epsilon Alumni Club will hold their first luncheon of the season in L. S. Ayres & Co. restaurant on Nov. 25. Plans will be made for the programs to be given and new officers will be elected.

An attractive miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. O. M. Jones of the Peter Pan apartments in honor of her sister, Miss Margaret Ritchie, whose marriage to Claude H. Conner will take place Thanksgiving day in the parlors of the Claypool Hotel. French baskets and wall pockets of pom-pom chrysanthemums were used through the rooms and the gifts were arranged on the table in front of the centerpiece composed of a miniature bride and groom.

The Irvington Guest Club will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Mae Weyant of Irvington. Mrs. J. J. Long will read a paper on "Our Natural Power Plants." Current events will be led by Mrs. D. H. Smith.

Mrs. Louis H. Levey, 2002 North Meridian street, will be the hostess for the annual bridge party of the Cornelia Cole "Banks Chapter of the D. A. R., to be held Saturday afternoon.

Miss Florence Mahan of Decatur, Ill., is the house guest of Miss Lillian Bell, 5142 College avenue.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Josephine Blue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Blue, 1618 North Delaware street, and Robert James, which took place Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. James will be at home with the bride's parents.

The regular card party of the Altrusa Club will be held Friday afternoon in the Home. Mrs. Augustus Buschman, Mrs. Amelia Fish, Mrs. Anna Schaeffer and Mrs. Oscar Mueller will act as hostesses.

Mrs. Housewife, Do You Know?

1. What is the best sort of meat for soups or broth?
2. How a ragout differs from an ordinary stew?
3. Why vegetables and other foods are cooked just as rapidly in water that is barely boiling as in water that is bubbling furiously?
(These questions will be answered tomorrow by the Housewife.)

ANSWERS TO YESTERDAY'S QUESTIONS.

1. Prawn is a shell-fish, much like shrimp, but larger and more delicate in flavor.
2. A good rule for thickening gravies is to use two level tablespoonfuls of flour to one cup of meat juice.
3. Washing soda may be used in the laundry if it is always thoroughly dissolved in hot water first. Never use more than two ounces of the dry soda to a large wash tub.—Copyright, 1920.

Women of St. Paul's to Be Supper Hostesses

Women of St. Paul's Church will hold their annual fair and supper tomorrow afternoon and evening in the parish home. As to Girls' Shoes

A Quotation and a Conclusion

"Too much stress can not be laid on the matter of proper fitting in children's shoes. Probably more foot trouble, which grown people have to contend with, has been caused by wearing shoes which were fitted improperly when they were children, than by any other one thing. When the child's foot is growing it is soft and readily subject to the conformation of the shoe, and if the shoe is wrong, the person is certain to suffer when it grows up, consequently the matter of a correct fit is really of greatest importance in children's shoes."

"It is in many cases out of the question to give the young girl a proper fit in a woman's shoe, even if the length and width are correct, inasmuch as the upper is not properly shaped."

H. A. Alexander in The Merchants' Trade Journal

Proper Shoes Properly Fitted
The misses' lines carried here are strictly young girls' shoes and not small sizes of women's models. The heels are of the right height, the toes are conservative—the kind of toe that a growing foot needs—and still the shoes carry plenty of style.
