Circumstances Point to Nevada Prisoners as

Significant Remark Made by "Sloppy" shalltown Affair.

A Newton Prisoner Says They're the Men--They Were Here on the Day of the Murder.

It is quite probable that the murderers of Brakemen Matthews and Wilson will not go unpunished. From previous indications the two men, "Sloppy" Smith and Yancey, in jail at Nevada for shooting Conductor Hicks at Kelley, were concerned in the murder of the two Great Western brakemen and the third member of the trio is in jail at Newton, Jasper county, where he was arrested for a petty offense, but is being held under orders from here.

Aside from other strong evidence pointing to these men as the perpetrators of the dastardly crime, they themselves have said enough, in an unguarded moment, to convict them. If the information in the hands of Sheriff Mc-Pherson at present is found to be reliable. The theory that the sheriff and his deputies, as well as County Attorney Stone, have accepted from the first is that the double murder was committed by the three men seen by Conductor Fickas and others loitering about the train just before it pulled out from this city for the south on the night of Aug. 22, and later traced across the country to Dixie, on the Rock Island, where the trail was lost. It is these men whom the officers have been searching for, and the only clue that was worth following, aside from the claims made by Charles Fitzgerald, the former Central employee who claimed to know so much about the crime and who disappeared when he saw that he either had to prove his claims or admit that he was telling whisky dreams.

YANCEY WAS HERE.
Mr. W. L. McPherson, who is an employee of the sheriff, told on the day of the murder three men answering the description of the supposed murderers came into Mr. Dunn's office and two of them engaged him in conversation.
Since Yancey and Smith have been in custody at Nevada, Sheriff Banks, of Story county, has thought that perhaps they were two of the men wanted here, and has therefore been looking up the records of his prisoners. He found that Yancey is a paroled convict from the Nebraska penitentiary, and has secured a photograph of him. When this was shown to Mr. McPherson the latter declared he was positive that the photograph was the likeness of the large man of the three whom he conversed with on the day of the murder.

ANOTHER LINK.
Two weeks after the murder the proprietor of a depot district saloon informed the sheriff's officers of an incident that came under his notice prior to the crime. Three strangers, whom he says helped little attention to because he was busy, came into the saloon and bought drinks. They asked if they could leave a revolver in the bartender's custody, and on receiving a favorable reply they did so. The men later called for the weapon. This was on the day of the murder, and with the men was Charles Fitzgerald--the same individual previously referred to as claiming to know so much and whose strange actions and stories have heretofore been detailed in these columns.

A SUSPICIOUS REMARK.
Since the capture of Smith and Yancey for shooting Conductor Hicks, Smith has been sick and his condition was such that he needed medical attention. Sheriff Banks procured for him good treatment and to the physician the prisoner patient took a liking. But the physician did not look upon a remark made by Smith as particularly a professional secret, and informed Sheriff Banks of a conversation held between himself and Smith. Smith's condition and his illness must have got the better of his judgment, for he told the doctor that while the scrape into which he had got in Story county didn't trouble him, he didn't know how they were going to get out of that Marshalltown affair. It seems to the officers as though he was accusing himself of being concerned in "the Marshalltown affair" before any one else did.

THE NEWTON SUSPECT.
The man held at Newton by Sheriff Tripp gives his name as Crockett, and he also has been talking in a way that he can not explain very well if he finds he must stand trial for murder. He did not make a physician his confidant, however, but chose a fellow prisoner as the one to whom he would unbosom himself. This prisoner had just been sentenced to a term in state's prison and Crockett evidently thought he would be safe in talking to him. He told his jail acquaintance that the two men under arrest in Story county for shooting Conductor Hicks were the men who murdered the brakemen on the Great Western near this city. This statement the prisoner divulged to Sheriff Tripp while the latter was taking him to the penitentiary to serve his sentence. Sheriff Tripp in turn sent the story to Sheriff McPherson, and the latter sent word at once to hold the man until further orders. Sheriff McPherson believes that Crockett is the third member of the trio.

MR. MERRYMAN IDENTITIES.
With these facts in hand, Sheriff Mc-Pherson and County Attorney Stone concluded to visit the Story county prisoners and identify them as the men suspected of the crime. For this purpose the officials went to Nevada this morning, accompanied by Mr. Merryman, Conductor Fickas, F. W. Brewer, the saloonist at whose place of business the revolver was left, and a T-R reporter. Sheriff Banks gave the party from here the fullest opportunity to look the men over. Mr. Merryman without hesitancy pronounced them as two of the three men with whom he conversed on the day of the murder. Of this he is positive, as he says he conversed with them on that day and previously, when they came into Mr.
Dunn's office for a drink of water.
Smith and Yancey have since changed a portion of their wearing apparel, but the former still wears a pair of tan shoes. One of his shoes was broken across the sole. Smith showed the break to Mr. Merryman during the conversation, at which Carl Haas, a shoemaker on South Third street, was present, and said something about having it fixed. Smith has not yet had the shoe repaired.

Conductor Fickas, who took only passing notice of the men on the night of the murder, says that Yancey and Smith resemble in a general way the larger and the smaller of the three, but he can not say positively that they are the same, because he did not get a close view of their faces.

Mr. Brewer says neither of the men is the one who left the revolver at his saloon. He says, however, that about the time of the murder he heard the names of "Sloppy" and Yancey mentioned by parties who came in to buy drinks. He paid no attention to the conversations, but recalls the names since they have been called to his attention.

ARE BAD ONES.
There is no question but that Smith and Yancey are tough characters. Their action in boarding the Northwestern train, deliberately taking checks from the hats of passengers and later shooting the conductor demonstrates that they are capable of committing the Marshalltown murder. Since they have been in Sheriff Banks' custody they made an attempt to break jail, and for assisting them one of their friends is already serving a sentence in the penitentiary. This friend accompanied Attorney Martin to the jail in the absence of the sheriff and left a number of saws.
With these they succeeded in sawing nearly through two of the bars of their cell, when their attempt was discovered.
The put was still hanging around, was arrested and indicted the same day, and was taken to the penitentiary a few days ago to serve a sentence of two years because of his action.

ANOTHER WITNESS.

The sheriff has one other man who will be called upon to assist in the work of identification. This is farmer J. Lehman, who resides south of Gilman and who fed three men between 9 and 10 o'clock on the morning after the murder.
Mr. Lehman observed the fellows closely, as one of them had blood on his clothes and all acted suspiciously. He will be taken to Newton to identify the man there, who is supposed to be the one that escaped at the time of the shooting of Conductor Hicks. He will also be taken to Nevada to identify if possible Smith and Yancey. He has been shown Yancey's photograph and is almost sure that he is one of the men he fed, but will not say positively until he has seen him.

The chain of circumstances, with the statements of the Newton prisoner and the remark made by Smith to the doctor, warrants the belief that the officers are on the right track. Sheriff Banks is keeping a close watch on his prisoners, who have been indicted in Story county for the attempt on the life of Conductor Hicks. If Marshall county demands the prisoners, however, it is thought that Story county would not hesitate to give them up, under the circumstances. If the state failed of conviction here the Story county authorities could then try them for the Hicks shooting.

Sheriff Banks is able to throw a little light on the identity of the man, Hal-bert, whose presence here on the night of the murder and his later disappearance has caused some wonderment.
Corbett is a resident of Ames and recently served a thirty day sentence in Story county as the result of a row with his wife. He was released there on August 20, two days before the murder, and is supposed to have come here, Mr. Banks says Corbett is somewhat queer, but he does not believe he had anything to do with the murder.

INJURY PROVES FATAL

Thomas H. Hardy Dies Sunday Night as the Result of His Fall of Saturday.

An Operation Before and a Post Mortem After Death Revealed That Skull Was Fractured.

Funeral to Be Held Wednesday Afternoon--Deceased an Old Resident of the City.

As the result of his fall from the roof of his State street property on Saturday afternoon Thomas H. Hardy died Sunday night at 9:15 o'clock, not having regained consciousness at any time since the injury. Now that death has occurred and a post mortem revealed the fact that the skull was badly fractured, it is a wonder Mr. Hardy lived so long after the injury.

As Mr. Hardy laid in an unconscious state so late Saturday and did not show any possible signs of rallying it was surmised that perhaps the worst anticipations were to be realized and that a fracture of the skull had been suffered. Accordingly Sunday morning an operation was performed in hopes that if such was the case the pressure could be reduced. Just how bad the fracture was could not be ascertained by the operation, but enough was learned to give rise to fears for the worst. After death, on this morning, a post mortem was held, which revealed a piece of bone from the skull 3 1/2 inches, pressing squarely on the brain, and that the fracture extended to the base of the brain. An examination of the ground where Mr. Hardy was picked up showed that the probabilities were that the deceased had struck his head against the edge of the lower step, which leads to the kitchen of the house where he was engaged in tarring the roof. A sliver was shown to have been removed from the step, which was probably done by the fall, as the indications were that it had been removed only a short time.

Thomas Henry Hardy was one of the older residents of the city. He was born in New York city December 25, 1826, and resided there until he was 21 years of age, when, with his parents, he came west and settled in Ottawa, Ill.
At that place on February 6, 1850, he was united in marriage to Miss Lura A. Baldwin, who survives him. After remaining in Ottawa for several years Mr. Hardy removed with his wife to Iowa, settling on a farm near Waterloo in 1866. Three years later he came to this city to engage in the harness business, a vocation that he followed until ten years ago, when he retired from business.

Besides his wife Mr. Hardy leaves five children--four daughters and one son.
One daughter, Mrs. Anna McMahon, with her daughters, Grace and Anna, resided with her parents and was presented with her father's bedside at the time of his death, as was also another daughter, Mrs. J. L. Miner, of Carroll, who arrived Saturday night, accompanied by Mr. Miner. Mrs. Ed. Cole, of Morton, Ill., arrived this morning at 9 o'clock, accompanied by Mr. Cole and daughters, Helen and Hazel, and the other daughter, Mrs. L. C. Goodwin, of Menlo, arrived at 10:40 Sunday night, accompanied by her son Carol. The son is Mr. Charles W. Hardy, of Denver, Col. On word from him depends largely the arrangements for the funeral, which in all probability will be held Wednesday from the residence, No. 22 North First street, Rev. F. W. Parsons will officiate. Mr. Hardy being a member of the Baptist church at Ottawa, Ill. One half-brother, Mr. William Leek, of Surrey, Ind., survives the deceased, as do also two half-sisters, Miss Mary Leek, of Surrey, and Mrs. S. H.
Millikin, of Ottawa.

Mr. Hardy was quite well-to-do financially, having amassed considerable property. He owned the entire quarter block on First street, from the alley between Main and Second streets, and west to the alley between First and Second streets, in all a tract 180x120 feet, it was valued at about $20,000, and contains five buildings.

If Mr. Hardy had lived until Feb. 6 next he would have celebrated his golden wedding anniversary. This fact is an especially sad one to the family, as plans were already on foot for the celebration, and Mr. Hardy had spoken of it so much, having always had the desire to live to see that day.

The pall bearers selected to officiate at the funeral are Henry Moler, Capt. E.
McMillan, C. W. Hoag, Charles Wait, Mr. Bristol and Mr. Berry.

A FAREWELL PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Letts Give a Very Pleasant Function.

The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs.
F. C. Letts was the scene Saturday evening of a pleasant party, the last time. The carrels were decorated with palm fronds and had much the appearance of palm gardens. The new game of cards "Mary" was played and the prizes were awarded to Mrs. F. B. Garvin and Mr.

Eugene Binford. During the evening the orchestra played. At 10 o'clock supper was served at the little tables, at which time Mr. Barborka played a number of selections on the violin. Miss May Watson playing the piano accompaniment. The little Morgan pick-aninies then amused the on-lookers with their clever cake walking. The guests present were Messrs. and Mesdames L. C. Abbott, A. G. Glick, G. F.
Kirby, H. E. Sloan, C. J. Landier, C. J.
Hoyt, F. E. North, Charles Glick, N. A.
