

LIVED ON RAW EGGS

Mr. Richard's Experience With Different Diets. Peaches and Buttermilk for Three Years.

Cecilton, Md.—Mr. George Richards, of this place, during the past 12 years, has probably tried more different diets than the average person would ever use in a lifetime.

What he has to say about his experiments, must therefore be highly interesting to anyone suffering from indigestion or stomach troubles of any kind.

He says: "For more than 12 years, I suffered with stomach troubles, and paid hundreds of dollars for doctor bills and medicines. I was also operated on for piles.

I lived on dried peaches and buttermilk for nearly three years. The only thing that would not give me pain was raw eggs. I was a physical wreck. I could not sleep, and was as near crazy as a man could well be.

I must say that after taking two 25-cent packages of Theodor's Black-Draught, it did me more good than all I ever spent for other medicines.

I have been working daily on the farm ever since, and I am as hard as iron. This purely vegetable remedy has been in successful use for more than 70 years. Try it. But be sure that it's "Theodor's."

INTERESTING SKETCH OF LINCOLN MAN'S LIFE.

Courier-Journal Tells of Career of Prof. James Love, of Liberty, Mo., Who Was Born Here.

A recent issue of the Courier-Journal contains the following interesting sketch of the career of Prof. James Love, of Liberty, Mo., who was born and spent the early years of his life in Lincoln county.

Early Days in Kentucky

That a man should pass his ninety-second birthday in perfect health and, aside from some loss of hearing in full possession of his faculties of body and mind is exceptional in this fast moving age. Such was the good fortune the 30th day of last September of Prof. James Love, residing now at Liberty, Mo., but born in Kentucky, who is perhaps the Courier-Journal's oldest subscriber. His father's subscription began with the initial number of the Louisville Daily Journal, November 24, 1830. When the son continued as such till the present time, a period of 69 years. It would be interesting to know if there is another case like it. After teaching school at Fulton and later at Mexico, Mo., the young Kentuckian entered the State University at Columbia, graduating with the class of 1853. Upon his graduation he was elected professor of mathematics in William Jewell College, at Liberty, Mo. Until the close of the Civil war he was engaged in teaching, and earned sufficient means to retire from active service. The subsequent years have been devoted to foreign travel, the care of his estate and a life of unostentatious usefulness. A year ago Prof. Love presented to the Missouri State University files of the Courier-Journal, covering a period of sixty years. He celebrated his ninety-first birthday by publishing a pamphlet of reminiscences, "Personal, Particular and General," in which he describes life as he knew it during his boyhood in Kentucky, when as yet the cane had not been trodden down, nor wild turkeys and other game driven from state. Both girls and boys were then inured to hardships and privations of which the young in this age know but little—experiences which served to re-inforce sturdy constitutions inherited from ancestors who were rugged pioneers. In the absence of milliners and dressmakers the girls had to content themselves with the domestic products of the loom and spinning wheel, found in every well-to-do family. Cotton cloth was dyed and made up at home for summer dresses, and linsey, woolsey, either plain or plaid, was used for winter. There were no hats, and sun-bonnets were in vogue for state occasions. A new linsey or more pretentious calico or gingham served to make them presentable at church and at social gatherings. A boy would have a tow or flax linen suit for summer, and in winter a suit of jeans—jacket, waistcoat and pantaloons. His hat was woolen, made specially for him by the town hatter. If the lad had shoes, they were brogans, made by the shoemaker. If his coming was delayed till after Christmas, the boy went barefoot meanwhile. Supplied to-day with many comforts, the professor tells how often he left a trail of blood upon the ice and frozen ground over the mountain roads from bare feet. He insists that such upbringing produced a generation of men able to endure hardship as good soldiers. He closes his reflections with Tom Moore's lines: "When I remember all the friends so kindly linked together, I've seen around me fall like leaves in wintry weather; I feel like one who treads alone some banquet hall deserted; Whose lights are fled, whose garlands dead, and all but me departed." WHO CAN DOUBT SWORN TESTIMONY OF HONEST CITIZENS?

Some time ago I began the use of your Swamp-Root with the most remarkable results. For years I was almost a wreck and was a great sufferer. The doctors who treated me made me believe that my great sufferings were due to female trouble. I was so bad at times I would faint away and had sinking spells. Finally a new doctor was called in and he said that I had kidney trouble and gave me medicine, of which I took several bottles. I obtained some relief from this but I was getting weaker all the time; I could not sleep and suffered so much pain that my husband and children had to lift me in and out of bed. After this time two friends sent me word to try Swamp-Root, which I did, and I am glad to state that the first dose gave me great relief. After taking the third dose, I was helped into bed and slept half of the night.

I took several bottles of Swamp-Root and I feel that I owe my life to this wonderful remedy. The two family doctors said that I could not live three months, I would have to be helped in and out of bed ten to twenty times every night. After taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root for two days I was entirely free from getting up and could sleep soundly.
