IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

"Uncle Remus" at the Library.
Saturday morning "Children's Hour" will be held at the Carnegie library at 10 o'clock. It will be an "Uncle Remus" story hour given by Miss Hopkins, the librarian, who is delightfully in sympathy with the great Georgian, Joel Chandler Harris.

On display at the library are some interesting pictures relating to "Uncle Remus." One represents Joel Chandler Harris and Andrew Carnegie taken together during the visit of Mr. Carnegie to "Snap Bean Farm," Atlanta, the home of Joel Chandler Harris. Miss Hopkins, whose home is, also, in Atlanta, was there at the time of Mr. Carnegie's visit. Other pictures are some characteristic poses of "Brer Fox," "Brer Rabbit" and the "Tar Man," two views of the "Sign of the Wren's Nest," another name for Joel Chandler Harris' country home; a delightfully life-like picture of "Uncle Remus" telling his stories to the eager "Boy," and a photograph of Joel Chandler Harris himself. All lovers of "Uncle Remus" and who is not, whether child or grown-up? will be attracted to pause awhile and study the pictures; and will send a more than passing regret to the going from us of this great and sweet-spirited man and beloved storyteller.

The lodge room will be effectively decorated for the wedding. Miss Bessie Lou Watts will be the maid of honor and Mr. Thomas P. Heath will be the best man. Misses Grace and Gertie Skelton will be the flower girls. Miss Etta Beckenbach will play the wedding march. New Printing Frame Machine.

City Engineer L. A. Washington has received a roller printing frame machine from an eastern factory and the work of making blue prints will be largely facilitated in the future. By the old method considerable inconvenience is experienced. The new machine sits on a carriage mounted on rollers and is moved on rails outside the building on a small platform constructed at one of the south windows. The frame can be adjusted in all ways so as to receive the sunlight at all times. Mr. Washington is now preparing to move into the city hall and will occupy the office on the second floor, just vacated by City Clerk Maurice McIntyre, who has taken refuge on the third floor.

HAS NOT THE FUNDS

Washington, Jan. 18.—Assistance from the war department in relieving the danger from the ice gorge in the Ohio river, which has been asked for by Louisville people, seems improbable unless congress authorizes the engineer department of the army to resort to the use of dynamite. It was explained at the war department today that the officials are without the funds necessary to undertake this work. General Marshall, chief of engineers, has telegraphed for additional information.
