U. C. V. HONORS DEAD.

Clement A. Evans sends out General Order.

New Orleans, April 15.—By command of Gen. Clement A. Evans, commander-in-chief of the Confederate Veterans, Gen. William E. Mickie, adjutant-general and chief of staff, issued the following general order:

"The general commanding announced that after the convention to be held in the city of Mobile is fully organized for business on the second day, April 27 instant, exactly at high noon, in accordance with the custom which was reached at the Charleston convention and which has since been rigidly observed, memorial services will be held for one hour. At that moment the convention will suspend business for this sacred purpose, without further notice and without regard to what is then taking place, and the flags will be draped in mourning as a mark of respect to the memory of the beloved and only daughter of the Confederacy, our commander-in-chief, zealous chaplain general and of all our comrades who have preceded us into eternity. In order to make the service more impressive and enlist the interest of all, the ladies of the Confederate Southern Memorial Association will have no separate exercises, but will join with the veterans.

"The number of our dead has been greatly augmented during the past year by the following distinguished leaders:

"Maj. Gen. Robert Lowry, brigadier general, C. S. A., and commander Mississippi division U. C. V.; Mrs. J. Addison Hayes, daughter of our only president; Maj. Gen. Zimmerman Davis, commander South Carolina division, U. C. V.; Maj. Gen. Paul A. Fusz, ex-commander Northwest division U. C. V.; Brig. Gen. E. G. Willet, assistant quartermaster general U. C. V.; Col. J. B. Cowan, M. D., assistant surgeon general U. C. V.; Col. R. E. Park, aides on staff of commander-in-chief."

SHIPMAN HAS HAZY MEMORY

INDORSES $5,000 NOTE THEN FORGETS IT.

Harvey D. Goulder Accused of Dodging to Avoid Going Back on Associates in League.

WAS THE FORMER PRESIDENT.

Washington, April 14.—"You dodged to avoid going back on your associates of the Merchant Marine League of the United States," was the thrust passed to Harvey D. Goulder of Cleveland, Ohio, former president of the organization, by J. H. Ralston, attorney for Representative Steenerson, at today's ship subsidy investigation.

Mr. Goulder, William Livingston of Detroit, Mich., and Second Assistant Postmaster General Joseph G. Steward were today witnesses at the select committee's inquiry into the charges that the league had reflected upon the integrity of Mr. Steenerson and other members of congress in connection with ship subsidy legislation.

Mr. Goulder testified he had indorsed a note for $5,000, which he had placed in a bank to the credit of the league, that he did not know the source of the note, whether it came from membership dues or whether it came from the officers of the league themselves. His memory was hazy but he thought the note might have been put up in the bank to anticipate the membership dues, so as to have credit to meet expenses.

The officers and members of the league, Mr. Goulder insisted, in urging legislation for the encouragement of the merchant marine were actuated by purely patriotic motives and for the country's weal.

The witness admitted he had some savings invested in lake vessels engaged in general traffic. He is attorney for the Lake Carriers' Association, representing more than sixty per cent of lake traffic.

Mr. Goulder said he had no reason to believe that congressmen had been subsidized, such matters had never entered his head.

He said he had no reliable information about ships having been built at Cleveland for Pacific ocean service and when asked if that could not be repealed, said he had heard a ship builder say that it was impossible.

Representative Kustermann of Wisconsin also mentioned in connection with the published attacks, prodded the witness. He asked if he did not know that the league opposed everything that did not contemplate a subsidy. Goulder replied that he did not recall.

Goulder Indignant.

Of the other witnesses Mr. Livingston denied that the league was an organization of interested persons, so far as any expectation of pecuniary profit was concerned. It was sheer patriotism, Mr. Stewart discussed data as to ocean steamship lines.

Just before the committee adjourned until tomorrow, Attorney Ralston stated his belief that a large number of the officers of the league are directly interested in the passage of the ship subsidy bill by reason of their business connections.

"Mr. Goulder," he said, "has avoided going back on his association by not making a frank disavowal, which it was his duty to make. With such charges made, he should either avow or disavow. He dodged."

Mr. Goulder indignantly replied he had not dodged and did not even know what the charges were.

Money Comes in Bunches

to A. A. Chisholm, of Treadwell, N. Y., now. His reason is well worth reading: "For a long time I suffered from indigestion, torpid liver, constipation, nervousness and general debility," he writes, "I couldn't sleep, had no appetite, nor ambition, grew weaker every day in spite of all medical treatment. Then used Electric Bitters. Twelve bottles restored all my old-time health and vigor. Now I can attend to business every day. It's a wonderful medicine." Mississippi Hospitality.

"Mississippi is full of characters like Senator Gordon," said J. C. Lowry of New Orleans.

"The men are gentlemen of the old school, of the era before the war, when every planter in the state who owned slaves rolled in wealth and lived like a lord. These conditions bred a race of men who never will be surpassed for hospitality and courtesy."

"In almost any part of Mississippi, in the country districts, it is the custom of travelers to stop at the dinner hour at the first plantation they come to. Even if a perfect stranger to the planter the traveler knows that he will be received as an honored guest, his horse fed and taken care of by the numerous darkies around the place, and himself regaled with the best that the wine cellar and the planter's table affords. He always is pressed to stay for supper and the night, and when he departs the planter and every member of his family is genuinely sorry that the guest will not stay longer. The hospitality is unbounded. Nothing is too good for the stranger."—Washington Post.

METHODISTS PLAN MERGER.

Southern and Northern Church Representatives Meet in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O., April 1.—Six bishops, six ministers and six laymen delegates representing the Methodist Episcopal church, North and South, are gathering in Cincinnati. These eighteen men will tomorrow begin sessions that are designed to arrange a plan for a federation that will include more than 5,000,000 Methodists in its membership.

A Methodist federation of Northern and Southern Methodists, talked of for years, seems now to be nearer achievement than at any time since the Methodist Church South, became a separate organization.

Bishop E. E. Hoss, of Nashville, Tenn., who addressed the Evangelical Alliance, was the first of the southern bishops to arrive. Bishop James Atkins, of Waynesville, N. C., and Bishop A. W. Wilson, of Baltimore, are the other southern bishops to attend, while the bishops for the church north are Bishops John M. Walden and Earl Cranston, already in Cincinnati, and Bishop L. B. Wilson, who is coming on from Philadelphia.

It's a Top Notch Doer.

Great deeds compel regard. The world crowns its doers. That's why the American people have crowned Dr. King's New Discovery the King of Throat and Lung Remedies. Every stomach is a health force. It kills germs, and colds and la grippe vanish. It heals cough-racked membranes and coughing stops. Sore, inflamed bronchial tubes and lungs are cured and hemorrhages cease. Dr. George More, Black Jack, N. C., writes "It cured me of lung trouble, pronounced hopeless by all doctors." 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

How a Frenchman "Speaks."

Watch two men in a restaurant. If they are English, they may be engaged in conversation during the whole of the meal. But it is a quiet, well ordered dialogue, nothing of which reaches those at the next table, and the conversation is not allowed to interfere with the business in hand, which is eating. Suppose, however, that two Frenchmen are lurching together. Whichever of the two is doing the talking soon lays down his knife and fork. How can he explain to his vis-a-vis what happened unless he has his hands and arms free, unless he acts the story? And he always acts it well. I confess I like to hear—and see—a Frenchman tell a story. It is as good as a play, it is better, for it is natural. He leaves out nothing; you get the words, the expressions, the movements of the person concerned, and if there are several persons, the raconteur acts them all with equal skill. When an Englishman is asked to sing or recite before strangers, his first impulse is to decline. His natural timidity, his disinclination to show off, his reluctance to "play the actor," all tend to make him keep his seat. But if a Frenchman is requested to "contribute" a musical or dramatic selection, or to make a speech, it is rare to find him refuse. Why should he? He has been taught from his childhood that to sing and act and orate are as natural as taking his meals or drinking a glass of wine, and he has no difference to contend with. He is a born actor.—Paris Correspondence London Globe.
