Primary Aftermath

The voters of Cut Bank proved loyal to their home candidates at the primary election a refreshing sign of a better era here in Cut Bank. Martin Jacobson was paid a splendid tribute by the home people, receiving all but four votes for commissioner. John Coburn was also accorded a fine tribute by the local electors.

The Judges and clerks of the primary election in Cut Bank two voting precincts were as follows: No. 26, J. J. Miller, Jack Whittecar, Pat Connolly, John Connolly and Daniel Whetstone, judges; Martin VanDemark and R. Hull, Clerks. No. 27, Harry Halvorson, J. P. Johnson and Chas. Ferres, Judges; W. T. Jackson and Nick Arnett, clerks.

Frank E. VanDemark, candidate for justice of the peace, and George Massengill, chosen as precinct committeemen by the democrats of precinct No. 27, are making their first voyage over the political seas.

Kenneth McKenzie is still a magic name in Teton county—a name that is translated into success at each and every election.

John Green, the aggressive young Conrad lawyer, looms forth as a coming strong man in Teton county.

Mr. Pridham is all right but had to stand sponsor for a weak administration of his superior's office. Did you notice how the Cut Bank voters expressed this conviction?

Cut Bank voters did remarkably well with their first try at the new Montana primary law. If you will pardon the pun, Mr. Foot seems to have landed with both feet.

Sam Potter is a straight-laced stand-pat republican, nevertheless he seems popular with all parties. Several democrats and one socialist wrote his name on their ballots for committeeman. As usual, Judge Thomas came down the track like a Belgian hare.

Ed Garrett had no opposition but Cut Bank republicans paid him a handsome compliment, nevertheless.

Five Socialist votes were cast in Precinct 26 and none in 27—the strong socialist precinct in the last general election.

The people cried "give us the direct primary"—and then they neglected to use it.

Thank Allah! Cut Bank is safe and sane. Not a single Bull Moose vote cast here.

Dr. Hulbush is among those who polled almost the full party vote.

Bud (Harvey) Brown, who will go on with Kid West for a 10-round boxing bout here next Tuesday evening.

Big Ditch Machine is Moving Rapidly

Work on Water System is Going at a Good Pace

Those about town who declared that they would not believe Cut Bank would have a water works system until they saw the dirt fly ought to be convinced by this time. But the dirt does not fly today as it did in the olden days. Paddy and his pick are in the discard. Where twenty-five or thirty men might be employed in digging trenches after the old way of doing it, a circular digger operated by steam power chaws into the earth to a depth of about seven feet, cutting out a clean, smooth ditch, elevating the dirt and dumping it into a carrier, which neatly piles it alongside the ditch.

Work on the system will be pushed with great vigor now. Work on the tower, the engine house and ditching and pipe laying will afford employment for quite a few men, even though modern mechanism does play a big part. The Green company desire to have the work completed before the period when inclement weather may be expected and will waste no time from henceforth.

Public Work

Material for the Cut Bank river bridge is arriving and it is probable that actual construction work will soon commence. This bridge must be completed in a month or 6 weeks and a large crew of men will no doubt be put to work on it. The bridge is to cost about $10,000.00 and a considerable portion of this will be paid out to labor. Cut Bank ought to and doubtless be benefited considerably this autumn through the money expended in the construction of this bridge and the water works system.

Head of Burlington Dies at Park

Fails to Rally from Operation from Attack of Diabetes

Glacier Park, Aug. 24.—Darius Miller, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway company, died at the Glacier Park hotel Sunday morning at 10:10, 20 hours after an operation was performed on him for appendicitis. At the bedside, when the end came, in addition to his grief stricken wife, were President Louis W. Hill of the Great Northern, a life-long friend of Mr. Miller, and Hale Holden, vice president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, who had been with the patient throughout Saturday night.

The Great Northern arranged a special train, bringing Undertaker Wapner of Kalispell, arriving here at 3:25 p. m., who prepared the body for shipment by special train to Chicago leaving here at 8 p. m. Funeral arrangements have been arranged to be held in Trinity Episcopal church, Chicago, on Wednesday about 1 p. m. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

The special train consisting of one baggage car, L. W. Hill's private car A-22, which carried the body, Mr. Miller's private car, C. B. Q. 92, and J. J. Hill's private car, A-18.

L. W. Hill and Hale Holden accompanied Mrs. Miller, the grief stricken wife, on her journey to Chicago. They expected a number of others to board the train at St. Paul for Chicago where they expect to arrive Tuesday.

Darius Miller was 55 years old. He was born in Princeton, Ill., in 1859, and started his career as a stenographer in a railroad office. He was an indefatigable worker and did not long remain a stenographer. His career included service as executive on several railroads, finally being selected as head of the Burlington road in 1902. He was a lifelong friend of Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern, and the death proved a great shock to Mr. Hill, who had been at the park since Mr. Miller came to the hotel on Wednesday. Mr. Hill having taken him to the hotel in his automobile.

Kyle Marlow arrived in Cut Bank Wednesday evening and is preparing to assume his duties as principal of the Cut Bank High School.

Allison Machine i Blown Up by Insurgents, Tuesday

Boss Bud and Sly Steve are Latest Political 'Lame Ducks'

No more perplexing is that old interrogation "who put the molasses in grandpa's boots" than the question of the hour, "who blew up the Rigney-Allison political machine Tuesday?"

The Rigney-Allison machine, which was built with such painstaking and loving care, was shattered to shards by a mine, planted by vengeful and plotting insurgents, at the Tuesday primaries. Nothing but scrapiron remains of the well lubricated and efficient little steam crusher that Steve and Bud have been piloting about this precinct for the last year or so.

It appears that there has been much secret activity in the camps of the Insurgents or Young Turks in the last few weeks. These insurgents never took kindly to the little steam crusher. They asserted that Steve and Bud arrogated to themselves the complete bossism of local democracy. The democratic counsels were attended by these political Siamese Twins. They were the front and rear of the democratic hosts; the generals and the soldiers. They anointed themselves with the sacred oils of authority, in short they pontificated and personified local democracy in a sort of Divine-Right of Kings fashion.

But the red revolution came Tuesday. Out of the seething caldron of insurgency appeared a new leader around whom the insurgents rallied. The new leader is E. M. Davis. In the parlance of the wrestling game Davis went to the mat with the erstwhile mighty Bud and came out a victor. There is a new democratic organization in Cut Bank just now and Davis is proclaimed the new political leader. Bud and Steve are our political lame ducks—all same Boise Penrose and Billy Lorimer.

Rain began to fall shortly after the opening the big prize trap shoot, last Sunday afternoon, and the the shoot was postponed until next Sunday at the same hour.
